World Group Of Churches Organizes on Firm Basis

Regrets Failure To Include Roman Catholic, Russian Units in Reunion

Amsterdam, Aug. 23 (AP).—The World Council of Churches formally declared itself a permanent organization today with words of regret that it could not embrace the Roman Catholic and Russian churches in a reunion of Christendom.

Those great congregations both had been invited to send observers at least. Neither had an official representative of any kind on hand. Among other invited absentees were the Southern Baptist Convention of the United States with a reported lay membership of 6,500,000 and the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church.

But the World Council came into being nevertheless after 10 years as a provisional body with 450 delegates representing around 150 churches in 40-odd nations. The vote in plenary session at the concert hall was unanimous to go ahead with the door open to the Catholic Church.

Taft Press Spokesman

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, a lay leader of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States and chief press spokesman of the council meeting here, said half a dozen Southern Baptist observers were present.

Of the Missouri Synod he said the Lutherans "are almost as firm in this as our good friends the Roman Catholics." He assumed constitutional barriers prevented the Southern Baptist Convention from accepting an invitation to the world assembly which now comprises the many Protestant faiths represented here and the orthodox church outside the Soviet Union proper.

A pastoral letter read yesterday in Dutch Catholic churches underscored the Catholic attitude that unity in Christianity can be achieved only through the Roman Church.

Dutch Catholics were asked to pray at solemn choral masses next Sunday that council delegates should recognize that unity lay in their church and not in affiliation with the Protestant and Orthodox Church Council.

Archbishop in Chair

The organization was completed as a going concern at the opening plenary session in the forenoon with the Archbishop of Canterbury presiding.

Then at the second session this afternoon Princess Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands were guests of honor sitting on the high rostrum among the church dignitaries.

The 39-year-old princess, who will become Queen when Wilhelmina abdicates September 4 and will be formally installed at an investiture service in the Nieuwe Kerk (New Church) two days later, entered by a rear door.

The Queen-to-be has the standard Dutch peach complexion and a chatty way among the clergy.

The princess and Prince Bernhard heard speeches by Prof Karl Barth of the University of Basel and the Swiss Protestant Church Federation and Prof. C. H. Dodd of the Cambridge University Divinity School and the Congregational Union of England and Wales.

U. S. Workers Will Register On Their Jobs

Federal Officials Approve Plans to Assist Draft Boards

Federal workers from 18 through 25 will register for the peacetime draft beginning August 30 at their places of employment, William E. Leahy, District Selective Service director, announced yesterday.

The place-of-employment system, already set up for District government employes and workers at most of the city's larger business houses, has received the approval of Federal personnel administrators, Leahy said.

He also announced that the District's draft setup will round into shape today with nomination by the Commissioners of five men to staff a fourth appeal board panel, and an additional five men to fill out the 15 draft boards.

Norton Back on Job

The District draft chief told a press conference Frank D. Norton, former head of the D. C. Office of Selective Service Records, has been appointed deputy director and procurement officer for the local Selective Service system. Norton held the post during the war.

To operate through the August 30-September 18 registration period, each Government agency will arrange "its own facilities and have its own registrars," Leahy said. While the agencies must follow registration regulations, the choice of time and place is up to them.

Bring Discharge Papers, Veterans Advised

Selective Service headquarters yesterday advised veterans to bring their discharge papers with them when they report for draft registration. All men 18 through 25 must register between August 30 and September 18, but most veterans are exempt from the peacetime draft.

Owner Takes New Steps to Save Oak Hill

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Frank C. Littleton, undaunted by Federal seizure of his historic Oak Hill estate, yesterday launched new efforts toward making the place a permanent memorial to its one-time owner, President James Monroe.

That he has not lost hope for such a memorial, Littleton made clear in an interview with The Washington Post, in the office of his attorney, Robert H. McNeill, 815 15th st. nw. Earlier in the day he had wrapped his hopes in a new legal petition asking the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia to stay the public auction sale of his estate, now set for 11 a. m. (EST), September 2. The sale was ordered to settle his debts that have been the subject of a seven-year bankruptcy proceeding.

New Survey Is Sought

The petition, filed in Alexandria by McNeill, also sought a new survey of the property to determine what is to be sold. Court aides said a new hearing in the case has been set for August 31, in Newport News, before Federal District Judge Sterling Hutcheson.

The new petition was filed after Deputy United States Marshals Russell V. Brownell, jr., of Alexandria, and Benjamin A. Delano of Richmond, took possession of the estate in a quiet morning conference with Littleton. They met Littleton at Oak Hill Inn by arrangement. They said Littleton had been courteous and cooperative. The deputies moved in under a court order by Judge Hutcheson after two announced public inspections of the property had been forestalled by a chain and lock on the main gate.

With marshals in possession, assisted by Loudoun County officers who will serve as caretakers until after the sale, advertised public inspections will be held from 2 to 5 p. m. today, and the same hours Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday, this week, and September 1.

The estate is on the road between Leesburg, Va., and Aldie, Va., in Loudoun County. Shortest

Reds Drive On Capital Of Burma

Premier Calls on People to Help Government Crush Leftist Uprising

Rangoon, Burma, Aug. 23 (AP).—Premier Thakin Nu tonight appealed to the people of Burma for all-out efforts to aid the government quash a rebellion.

The premier went before the microphone as leftist rebels closed in on the picturesque capital in an ambitious attempt to lay siege to the city.

Thakin Nu admitted that five per cent of Burma's armed forces have turned traitor because the present Socialist government refused to align itself solely with Russia. He assured the people, however, that the other 95 per cent are waging war on the rebels with planes, artillery and other modern weapons.

The uprising has been under way for several weeks. But the 42-year-old Premier's broadcast emphasized the seriousness of the situation. The rebels comprise solely leftist elements with a nucleus of Communists.

Communism Rolls South

Observers here say the flood of communism is spilling south from China over the rich lands of southeast Asia. Malaya and Burma are high on the list and the present rebellion may turn out to be a full-scale Communist bid for power.

The Communists agitated for Burma's independence, but soon after she was declared independent of Britain seven months ago they began harassing the government. British officials say the aim of the Communists is to slow the flow of rubber, tin, oil and other strategic raw materials into defense stockpiles of the United States and western Europe and to lay the foundation for an eventual strike for full political control.

Rebels already have interfered with the new country's economy. Rangoon is cut off. Utility services have been suspended.

Rebels Burn and Loot

"If we fail to eradicate the evil of violence Burma cannot exist as an independent state," Thakin Nu said. "If the rebels consider our present policy of establishing friendship with Britain and the United States abominable, or if they sincerely believe it would be to Burma's advantage to side with Soviet Russia if war breaks out between Russia and the English and Americans their proper course would be to place their viewpoint before the masses instead of resorting to arms."

The rebelling forces comprise Red and White Flag Communist parties, White Band peoples volunteer organization members and mutinying troops.

Latest rebel activity, Burmese newspapers said, was a raid on Kyaiklat, 40 miles southwest of Rangoon. The reports said 400 rebels burned and looted and opened jails.

Spy Probers Quiz New Witnesses

Stripling Refuses To Identify Them But Asserts They Are Minor Figures

By the United Press

Spy investigators questioned several new witnesses at a secret session yesterday in a continuing effort to clear up the contradictory testimony given by former State Department Officer Alger Hiss and former Communist Whittaker Chambers.

Robert Stripling, counsel for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said the witnesses were minor figures in the spy inquiry.

He refused to identify them or to discuss their testimony, but he said there was "nothing new" to report on the progress of the investigation.

Hiss and Chambers are scheduled to face each other at a public hearing of the committee Wednesday. Chambers has accused Hiss of membership in a prewar Communist underground movement here. Hiss has denied the charge, and their conflicting stories prompted Committee Member Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.) to suggest that there might be grounds for perjury action against one or the other.

Committee members said their star witness, former Communist Courier Elizabeth T. Bentley, will be recalled to the stand early next month to testify on wartime efforts of Soviet agents to obtain American industrial secrets.

"Miss Bentley has considerable information on wartime industrial espionage," one member said.

The woman already has named some 30 former Government employes as agents of or informants for two wartime Communist spy rings.

Stripling said he knew nothing of a report published by a New York newspaper that Miss Bentley would name 20 additional persons as wartime spies when she returns to the stand.

According to the report, her new list will include an official of the British intelligence service, a prominent economics professor, a left-wing journalist, the editor of a foreign language newspaper and an employe of Amtorg, the Russian trade agency in this country.

Hundreds Homeless After Italian Quake

Rome, Aug. 23 (AP).—An earth tremor caused damage today in southeast Italy. Hundreds were reported homeless.

Many houses collapsed and 300 persons are homeless at Montesantangelo, near Bari. Some roofs fell at Ortanova, in Apulia, and two persons were reported injured there.

The Taranto Observatory said the quake was of the "third degree on the Mercalli scale." It was centered very deep below the earth's surface, the experts said.

Children of 4, 8 and 11 Caught Cracking Safe

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 23 (AP).—Two little girls and an 8-year-old boy were caught by police last night attempting to crack a safe in an automobile sales company office.

Motorcycle Patrolman Albert Thiele said he found the children pounding the safe with a hammer and ax.

The oldest of the trio was an 11-year-old girl. Assisting her were an 8-year-old boy and a 4-year-old girl.

3 Envoys and Stalin Confer for 5 Hours; More Talks Expected

Press Reports Vary on Reactions Of Representatives Following Parley

Premier Josef Stalin and envoys of the United States, Britain and France conferred for four hours and 45 minutes early today.

The topic or results, if any, were not disclosed.

Dispatches from London, Paris and Berlin indicated that the discussion was a continuation of meetings initiated by the western powers in an effor to lift the Berlin blockade and possibly to attempt to find some basis of settlement of divergent viewpoints on Germany and Europe.

The session, which began at 9 p. m. Moscow time (2 p. m. EDT) and ended at 1:45 a. m. Moscow time was the longest of the six meetings held so far. It was expected that there would be "more meetings" among the representatives of the four powers.

Smith Still Hopeful

Dispatches from Moscow indicated that the western envoys were either optimistic or pessimistic, depending on the press association.

The United Press quoted United States Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith as saying:

"I am never an optimist—I hope for the best and expect the worst."

The Associated Press quoted Smith as saying:

"We're always optimistic. We expect the best and prepare for the worst."

The correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune in Moscow quoted Smith as saying there probably would be another conference and also: "I hope for the best and expect the worst."

The Herald Tribune correspondent described the western envoys as "obviously weary."

Reports at Variance

The International News Service quoted Smith as saying: "We think we made a little progress," but none of the other news services had this quotation.

The Associated Press correspondent in Moscow said "Smith appeared in a happy mood."

The United Press correspondent in Moscow said "Smith was far less cheerful than he was yesterday when he was preparing for the conference." The United Press correspondent said "Britain's Frank Roberts showed obvious disappointment. French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau was glum." The Associated Press described the "apparent satisfaction" of the three envoys.

Both services agreed that Stalin had served "tea and cakes" during the record session.

Molotov at Meeting

Press dispatches reported that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov participated in the discussion. After the meeting, the three western envoys went to the American Embassy and prepared their reports to their respective governments.

Last night's meeting had been widely predicted to be the final session of a series that began on August 2 with Stalin participating, and continued with Molotov on August 6, 9, 12 and 16.

Apparently what was believed to be the "final" proposals had not been met with counterproposals and the Herald Tribune correspondent reported that the length of time devoted to the conferences by Stalin "convinced the western envoys that it is worth while holding at least one more conference and making one more attempt to resolve the issues between East and West."

The time of the "next" conference was not announced. Presumably the western envoys will have to await further advices from their governments.

London and Paris Views

Before last night's meeting, Paris dispatches said the French felt that this was an opportune moment for the Russians to make at least a gesture in the direction of a settlement. Paris observers said the time was ripe for Stalin to emerge as the individual hero of the Berlin crisis.

Dispatches from London reported the British felt that the main issue in the conferences so far has been the western insistence on four-power authority for Berlin's currency as against the Soviet viewpoint that the Soviet mark should

A 'Shock' to Democracy

Canterbury Red Dean, Denied Visa, Waits Wallace's Election

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Dr. Hewlett Johnson, "Red Dean" of Canterbury, has been refused a visa to travel from England to the United States for a lecture tour, and a State Department spokesman yesterday explained why.

Michael J. McDermott, the department's press officer, said the British clergyman was turned down because he wanted to come over under the auspices of an organization which Attorney General Tom Clark has listed as "subversive"—the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

In London, Dr. Johnson said that Americans were "adolescent" and he promised to come over here within three years, when Henry Wallace is President, "as I think he is sure to be."

McDermott said that this Government had "nothing personal" against Dr. Johnson.

"But we wouldn't regard it (his visit under such auspices) as in our national interests," he added.

"If the dean wants to come over on his own hook," a reporter asked, "is he admissable?"

"I think he'll get a visa," McDermott replied. "I don't think this Government has anything against him personally. This is a case of the auspices."

Under the immigration laws, American consular officers have authority to issue or deny a visa to an applicant. In certain cases, they can ask the State Department for guidance. This was such a case, and the word that went from Washington to London was "No."

Dr. Johnson, 74, who got his sobriquet of "Red Dean" because of his pro-Russian views, recently accused American officials of fanning the flames of war so as "to be able to attack the Communists in their own country."

Told in London yesterday that McDermott said he probably would be granted a visa to come to this country "on his own hook," Dr. Johnson said he feared "refusal of the visa will be interpreted as a deliberate challenge to the Soviet Union. It is apparent they don't want friendship with the Soviet."

"As someone has said," he added, "the Americans are adolescent and very violent in their loves and hates and fears and hopes.

"I hope to go to America within three years when this has blown over, when Mr. Wallace is Presi-

Vice Consul Of Soviets Set To Go Home

No Explanation Given; $1400 Price of Liner's Suite for Lomakin

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Soviet vice consul here is leaving, too, but he says he's in "no particular hurry."

The vice consul, Zot I. Chepurnykh, said he is going back to Russia but wouldn't tell newsmen why or when.

Asked if he would accompany Consul General Jacob M. Lomakin, whose recall was asked by the United States State Department and who is to sail Saturday, Chepurnykh said "no, later on."

Takes Swedish Liner

The consul general booked passage on the Swedish-American liner Stockholm about six weeks ago, a line official said.

When the ship sails for Goeteborg, Sweden, on Saturday, Lomakin, his wife and two children will occupy a $1400 suite, the official said. It has not been stated definitely whether the Lomakins are going on to Russia.

The demand for Lomakin's recall was an aftermath of the case of Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, Russian school teacher who leaped from a third-floor window at the Soviet Consulate August 12.

Mrs. Kasenkina, who was removed from the critical list at Roosevelt Hospital Saturday, continued to improve today. Her physician has said she would have to be hospitalized for about three months, because of necessary surgery.

Lomakin returned to the consulate this morning from what he termed a weekend of recreation—fishing, swimming, tennis and volleyball—presumably at a Russian-occupied estate on Long Island.

As Lomakin alighted from his automobile, truckmen were completing the loading of a number of crates, paintings and other property brought out of the consulate.

An attache said, however, that

Reds Postpone Fall Election For Berlin

West's Reaction to Russia's Unilateral Decision Not Known

(From Press Dispatches)

Berlin (Tuesday), Aug. 24.—Postponement of the Berlin elections scheduled for this fall was announced today by Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet commander in chief in Germany.

Sokolovsky said postponement until the autumn of 1949 was "in compliance with numerous requests" from labor organizations and party petitions.

Competent observers here, however, believed the real reason for Sokolovsky's unilateral action was Soviet recognition of communism's weakened position in Berlin since the blockade of the former German capital started. The three leading anti-Communists parties on August 19 submitted a joint resolution to the city asembly demanding that municipal elections be held October 24.

The resolution, signed by the Social Democratic, Christian Democratic and Liberal Democratic parties was scheduled for discussion at the assembly's next meeting August 26.

West's Reaction Not Known

The reaction of the three Western powers to Sokolovsky's announcement was not known. Previous to the breakdown of four-power control of Berlin, Sokolovsky would have had veto power over such an election for all Berlin. Since the breakdown of four power control, the Western Powers could contend that Sokolovsky's order applied only to the Soviet zone and could go ahead with elections in their zones if they so desired. Presumably the Russians would not recognize the results of such elections. Editor's note.)

The Soviet announcement came shortly after the Russians freed three American, one British and five German prisoners yesterday

Must Get Licenses

30 Public Bridge Clubs Told To Stop Gambling or Close Up

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

The District's 30 public bridge clubs must eliminate gambling and take out licenses or go out of business, License Superintendent C. T. Nottingham declared last night.

The statement came after disclosure that the District Commissioners last Tuesday had approved a License-Board decision denying a license to the Connecticut Ave. Bridge Club, which was charged with permitting gambling for small stakes.

Nottingham said "each and every one of them will have to get licenses." These are issued at the rate of $12 per table. The average club of this type operates at least ten tables, he said.

The Commissioners decided to deny the Connecticut ave. club license request at a closed meeting last Tuesday.

The Connecticut club, which was opened in June, is operated by Charles S. Geier at 2605 Connecticut ave. nw., in several rooms on the second floor of a business building near the Shoreham Hotel.

Yesterday Geier said that although he felt bets of a fifth a cent per point were too small to constitute gambling, he said he had decided not to contest the Commissioners' ruling and instead had incorporated the organization as a private club.

Players may become members of the club by paying 10 cents and then are required to pay "membership dues" according to the number of games and type of bridge played, he explained. He predicted many other District clubs would follow his example and incorporate rather than give up the small stakes bridge.

Nottingham said he would discuss the legality of the incorporation plan with members of the corporation counsel's office.

Nottingham also disclosed that police plainclothesmen have been checking several of the clubs since the Connecticut ave. club decision.

Poison Menaces Atom Researcher

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 23 (AP).—Police today were checking on apparent attempts to poison a 27-year-old woman research worker at the University of California atomic research laboratory.

On August 11, Muriel E. Johnson reported her mouth was burned by carbolic acid added to a bottle of milk delivered to her apartment. Miss Johnson said that on August 15 she became suspicious of odors from a bottle of whisky and a bottle of wine. Analyses showed carbolic acid had been added to both.

Relations Broken in 1947

Chile, Russia to Exchange 'Marooned' Diplomats Friday

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 23 (U.P.)—Chile announced today that arrangements have been completed for the exchange of Chilean and Russian diplomats marooned here and in Moscow since Chile broke off diplomatic relations with Russia in October, 1947.

The two diplomatic parties will leave the capitals of the two countries Friday, and will cross the borders of Finland and Argentina Sunday. Argentine diplomats in Santiago and Moscow will supervise the departures.

After the rupture in relations, Soviet authorities refused to allow the Russian daughter-in-law of Chilean Ambassador Luis David Cruz Ocampo to leave Moscow. Chile held the 25 Russian diplomats in Santiago as hostages for the departure of the Chilean mission from Moscow.

The Russians still refuse to allow young Mrs. Cruz Ocampo to leave the country, but they have agreed to allow her husband, Alvaro Cruz Ocampo, to remain with her.

(The Chilean representative on the United Nations Economic and Social Council today proposed a resolution "deploring" laws that deny women the freedom to leave their countries to reside abroad. The resolution was adopted 14 to 3.)

Returns Roving House

Forsan, Tex., Aug. 23 (AP).—C. J. Lamb looked twice when he saw a four-room house being pulled along a road toward Big Spring, Tex. He insisted the movers wait until he called his son-in-law, Wally Heideman.

The mystified Heideman identified the structure as his home. The embarrassed movers learned they were to have picked up a house at Ross City, Tex., instead of Forsan.

Heideman's house is back home now after a 12-mile round trip.

Defalcations Uncovered

Banker's Books Hint He Paid Slayer So Wife Could Collect

Emporia, Kans., Aug. 23 (U.P.)—State auditors today turned up "widespread defalcations" in the books of Banker Herbert Kindred which provided a reason, police said, why he might have paid someone to "murder" him so his wife could collect on large life insurance policies. The losses were said to amount to over $550,000.

Kindred, 60, was found dead in a ditch Wednesday with three .32 caliber bullets in his body. His "handy man," William W. Gayer, 29, said Kindred had offered him $1000 to murder him. Gayer said he had rejected the offer but he was charged with first-degree murder.

Today Jeff Robertson, chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission, reported on the condition of Kindred's apparently prosperous loan company. He said: "A preliminary audit of the firm's books showed defalcations were widespread. They included forgery and fraud and involved large financial institutions, rather than small stockholders."

In jail, Gayer said two other men may have taken Kindred's offer. He last saw his employer, he said, in their company.

Kindred wanted to be "murdered," Gayer said, because many of his insurance policies would have been invalidated by suicide and some gave double indemnity for violent death.

It was reported his insurance may total between $150,000 and $200,000.

Company officers filed a petition for receivership today. The company was understood to have remaining assets of $14.61 in an out-of-town bank and less than $100 in cash.

PEOPLE In The NEWS

Rejection, Censure, Rebuke No Strangers To Famous 'Red Dean' of Canterbury

Rejection, censure and rebuke come almost naturally to the Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, who has built an international reputation on nonsonformity.

His current rebuff by the United States, in refusal of a visa to visit this country—where he chatted with President Truman in the White House in 1945—is not likely to daunt thick-skinned, affable Dr. Johnson.

For the "Red Dean," as the British press labelled him because of his strong attraction to Russia, has been often repulsed, and far more sharply. His well-filled file of attack includes a public reprimand last December by the Most Rev. Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, first churchman of England, for expressing pro-Communistic views.

If nonconformity could be hereditary, Dr. Johnson was given a good start in life by his mother, daughter of a Lancashire preacher, who is said to have shocked Victorian ladies by declining corsets and high heels, and also bathing in the sea until she was 80.

Dr. Johnson, whose spare, frock-coated figure, topped by a bald head fringed with bristling white hair, is an outward appearance of Church of England piety, has gone on to shock most of England.

Son of a prosperous English manufacturer, he was born in 1874 in a fashionable suburb of Manchester. A brilliant geology student, he earned a science degree before he was 21.

Apprenticeship in an engineering factory later led to self-criticism of his favored economic position, and a social awakening. He applied for missionary work, and entered Wadham College, Oxford, receiving his honors degree in theology four years later, in 1900.

But his earlier scientifi studies cracked his fundamentalist beliefs, he said, and the missionary society found him unsuited for its beliefs. In 1905, he founded a theological quarterly, however, and a few years later, as one biographer described it, "he rather reluctantly consented to be ordained."

His church career showed good progress, but was well-outdistanced by his attraction to socialism, and eventually a conclusion that "Judiasm and Christianity provide the high road to socialism and communism."

He and his wife organized social programs for children, and later established the first girls' camp in England. His first wife died in 1931 leaving him wit' the first of his two daughters (he remarried in 1938), and the following year he was off to China on missionary work.

His interest in communism rose through the years in repeated visits to Russia, and a trip to Loyalist Spain, culminating in a widely read book, "The Socialist Sixth of the World."

Later he became a member of the editorial board of the Daily Worker, and still holds that position. Dr. Johnson's current position in the Church of England involves care of Canterbury Cathedral and supervision of worship there. Appointed in 1931 by Socialist Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, he can be removed only by promotion or an act of Parliament.

dent, as I think he is sure to be.

"There was nothing subversive about my proposed visit to the United States—nothing anti-American. It was simply in the interests of understanding an friendship."

"This has been a big shock Western democracy. I have had no trouble getting into eastern Europe. Never before have I been refused admission into any country—China, Tibet, or Russia, or any place," he said.

"There is no iron curtain across eastern Europe. It seems to me to be in Fleet st. and across the Atlantic."

He recalled that, on the occasion of his last visit here, he was "cordially received by President Truman and was given a big reception in Washington to meet the Senators."

Rev. Mr. Melish Critical

In applying for his visa in London, Dr. Johnson said he intended to speak in Madison Square Garden on November 3 under the auspices of National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

In New York, the Rev. William Howard Melish, chairman of the National Council, called Dr. Johnson's exclusion "another symptom of the deadly deterioration in the maintenance of the traditional American principles of free speech and free assembly."

He added:

"It also, for the first time in this current wave of mounting restrictions upon civil rights, encroaches on the freedom of religion."

The Rev. Mr. Melish said it showed Washington's determination "to restrict public discussion of American foreign policy and particularly of American-Soviet relations."

He said that Dr. Johnson was granted two previous visas to visit the United States under the council's auspices. The first time was in 1945, when he was received by President Truman. The second visit was canceled last year due to ill health.

Dr. Johnson was scheduled to fly from England to Poland yesterday to attend the sessions of "the Congress of Intellectuals in Defense of Peace" at Wroclaw.

12 Top Reds Face N. Y. Trial On Oct. 15

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina today fixed October 15 as the trial date for 12 top American Communists charged with conspiracy to overthrow the Government by force.

"I see it as just another criminal case and I don't see why it should be treated differently," the court said in rejecting the opinion of Abraham Unger, defense attorney, that the case was "a political football."

Unger had opposed the motion of U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey to fix the October 15 trial date. Judge Medina instructed Unger to confine himself to legal issues.

Under indictment are William Z. Foster, Communist Party chairman; Benjamin J. Davis, New York city councilman; Eugene Dennis, general secretary; John B. Williamson, trade union secretary; Henry Winston, organization secretary; Jacob Stachel, educational secretary; John Gates, editor of the Daily Worker; Carl Winter, chairman of the Michigan Communist Party; Gilbert Green, Chicago district party chairman; Gus Hall, Ohio chairman; Irving Potash, and Robert G. Thompson, New York State chairman.

Texas Seeks to Ban Remington Rand Typewriter Firm

Austin, Tex., Aug. 23 (U.P.).—The State of Texas today filed suit in District Court seeking to forfeit the right of Remington Rand, Inc., to do business in the State.

The State attorney general's department filed an information in the nature of a quo warranto in District Court here, charging that the regional office of the typewriter-making concern had refused to permit representatives of the department to examine books of the corporation. The purpose of the examination was not stated.

Gen. Hodge, Korean Chief, Leaving as Civil Rule Begins

By the United Press

The Army announced last night that Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of United States in southern Korea since the war, is coming home.

United States troops will remain in Korea under command of Maj. Gen. John B. Coulter, who was Hodge's deputy.

Hodge's withdrawal is in line with the recent recognition of the new civilian government for southern Korea and relinquishment of civil functions to Koreans August 15. Until then, Hodge had served as both civilian and military administrator. A civilian, John J. Muccio, is now official United States representative to the new government. Muccio arrived yesterday.

The Army said Hodge, who has been overseas for six years, will return to Washington. It did not disclose his next assignment.

The Korean shift applies to only the southern half of the country, northern Korea is controlled by Russia, and did not participate in formation of the new government.

President Truman, Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall and Chief of Staff Omar Bradley sent General Hodge congratulatory messages on completion of his assignment.

Truman Representative To Koreans Arrives

Seoul, Aug. 23 (AP).—John J. Muccio, special representative of President Truman to the Korean Republic, arived today at Kimpo Airport and was welcomed by high Korean and American officials.

Muccio was accorded a 19-gun salute.

Muccio's arrival places United States representation here on a higher diplomatic level. Joseph E. Jacobs, State Department career man and political adviser to Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge since June, 1946, plans to leave for Washington, D. C., Thursday.

bellion came early this month when newspapers cautiously disclosed that 800 men from a military police detachment were surprised in their barracks and disarmed. The government said they had planned to join the Communists. The government then clamped on a 24-hour censorship and began disarming other units.

The Communists leader, Than Tun, now is in hiding in the Pyinmana forests 300 miles from Rangoon. The American State Department calls him a foremost disciple of Stalin.

If Thakin Nu's government is forced out of power, it is believed here that he will try to hand over the reins to Lieut. Gen. Smith Dun, who at 45 is the highest ranking general in the country.

Mother Forgets Key, Strangled by Window

Shartlesville, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP).—A young mother attempting to enter her home through a cellar window after forgetting her key was strangled to death when her neck was caught between the window still and frame, Deputy Coroner Peter Ricker reported.

State Police Corpl. Irvin L. Rothermel said Mrs. Gladys Marie Strickler, 22, apparently was crawling into the cellar when the window dropped on the back of her neck, pinning her against the sill.

Dr. John Baer said the young woman apparently hanged by the neck for 45 minutes until her body was found by Allen Hartman, who was attracted to the scene by the cries of Mrs. Strickler's six-month old child.

China Puts Into Circulation Its New 'Gold Yuan' Currency

Shanghai, Aug. 23 (AP).—China's new "gold yuan" currency started circulating today with a medium black eye—Shanghai bankers set the interest rate on loans at 15 per cent a month.

The rate reflects fears of inflation, being intended to protect the banker against anticipated depreciation of the currency by the time the loan is repaid.

The new rate, however, is far lower than that for loans in the old Chinese national currency, which had been 35 per cent a month and at one time hit 65 per cent a month.

(The bankers thus indicate they expect the new currency also to suffer from inflation, but not so much as the old.)

The Central Bank of China has set the monthly interest on loans by government banks a' government bureaus at 3 per cent. It apparently failed to put any limitation on private rates.

The old money can continue to circulate until November 20 at a fixed rate of three million to one gold yuan.

A controlled exchange rate of four to the United States dollar has been set for the new money, but Chineses are required to turn in their foreign currency, gold and silver for the yuan.

The cabinet, meanwhile, disclosed details of the backing for the gold yuan. It said assets totaled the equivalent of $490,456,692 in United States dollars.

These were broken down as follows: Gold, $96,851,075; silver, $28,959,000; foreign exchange, $74,189,924; former enemy properties, $74,283,809; China Textile Corp., $101,538,505; China Merchant Steamship Co., $71,642,379, and Taiwan (Formosa) Sugar Co., 43 million dollars.

More Armed Forces Integration Seen

By The Associated Press

Integration of the Army, Navy and Air Force moved one step closer yesterday—on paper at least—with an agreement that each must call on the other for help if that will cut costs and do a better job.

At the same time it was agreed that each service shall have the responsibility of figuring out what is needed for a task in its primary field.

The net effect apparently is that when one of the fighting arms has a big job on hand, it will get along better with the high command if it gives full consideration to the equipment and know-how the other services posses, and invites aid if aid would be useful; on the other hand, none of the services can elbow its way into another's field without a bid.

That was the principal result announced yesterday by Secretary of Defense Forrestal after a closely guarded weekend conference with top men of all three services at the Naval War College at Newport, R. I.

As Forrestal stated it more formally, the joint chiefs of staff and the civilian heads of the three fighting departments agreed on "the fullest consideration and use of any available forces, regardless of service, if they add to the effectiveness and economy of the operations."

At the same time it was provided that "each service has full and undivided responsibility and commensurate authority in the field of the primary functions assigned to it."

Just what the operating result will be with regard to strategic bombing, focus of an Air Force-Navy disagreement, was not spelled out.

The Newport agreements were intended to extend and clarify an outline of service responsibilities laid out at a similar conference in Key West, Fla., last March.

At that time strategic bombing, defined as destruction of an enemy's industrial, transportation and other such facilities, was assigned primarily to the Air Force. At the same time the Navy got the assignment to carry out air operations which would help achieve the objectives of a naval campaign.

There was an overlap in the services' interpretations. Forrestal's statement yesterday was in broad, non-specific language.

Reporters checking for immediate results could get no statement on whether the Newport pact means the Navy now may participate in the Berlin air lift.

A Navy expert estimated that service's flying boats could take in about 300 tons of supplies daily, landing on lakes in the Berlin area and avoiding airports where traffic jams are one of the limiting factors on supply flights by land planes.

Bratislava Reports Anti-Jewish Riot

Prague, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Czechoslovakia Ministry of Interior said tonight anti-Jewish demonstrations were held last Friday in Bratislava, capital of Slovakia.

An official announcement said crowds gathered in the morning calling for violence against Jews and that security police were called and dispersed the crowd.

The demonstration reportedly was touched off by an argument between a Jewish woman and Slovak women in a grocery.

Tito Wanted Neutral Role, Letters Say

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—The New York Times said today in a dispatch from Trieste that the basis for the Communist Information Bureau's denunciation of Yugoslav Communists was Premier Marshal Tito's desire to keep Yugoslavia outside the Soviet sphere of influence, and insure her neutrality.

The dispatch was based on a series of letters it said was written March 27 and May 22 by the central committee of the Russian Communist Party to the central committeee of the Yugoslav Communist Party. The Cominform blast at the Tito regime was published June 28.

Camille M. Cianfarra, who wrote the dispatch, said he had been shown copies of the letters by Yugoslav officials who arrived recently in Trieste from Belgrade.

A letter dated May 4, described as 7000 words long and the most important, was quoted as saying Tito had wanted Russia to go to war with the Western powers after the Soviets, at the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Paris meeting in the fall of 1946, had been forced to accept a French compromise for the creation of the Free Territory of Trieste.

The dispatch said the letter declared:

"The Soviet Union had only one means left to give Trieste to Yugoslavia to wage war against the Anglo-Americans and occupy Trieste by force.

"The Yugoslav comrades could not be unaware that the U. S. S. R. could not embark in a new war after having waged one so hard. But this attitude has caused dissatisfaction among Yugoslav leaders, which has found its expression in Comrade Tito's attitude."

The letter accused Maj. Gen. Vladimir Velebit, Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Minister, and Dr. M. L. Leontitic, Ambassador to London, of being British spies, and asserted the United States Ambassador to Belgrade was permitted to "act as though he were in his own country."

A letter dated March 27 was quoted as having reminded Tito how Trotsky, termed another "traitor," died in Mexico. Trotsky was assassinated in 1940.

Bitter Attack On Religion Aired by Reds

London, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—Radio Moscow over the weekend broadcast its most direct attack on religion since the new Soviet anti-religious campaign began a few weeks ago.

Transmitting a lecture by a Soviet professor, Radio Moscow quoted Karl Marx that "religion is the opium of the people," and said religion is an important way to "prolong the existence of capitalism."

The lecturer charged that United States reactionaries, "in alliance with the church people," are waging a crusade against modern science.

In the Soviet Union, the lecturer added, religion has become "but the survival of the past."

Poland Makes Protest On Giving Up Germans

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 23 (AP).—Poland today assailed a decision of the United States and Britain to set September 1 as a deadline for extradition of German war crimes suspects.

A Foreign Office spokesman asserted the ruling is illegal, and a violation of the Potsdam and Moscow decisions.

The spokesman said Poland wants six German generals, accused of helping destroy Warsaw, and Wilhelm Kopt, Minister President of lower Saxony, and will have difficulty preparing appeals within the deadline.

Swiss Will Sell Goods To Bizonal Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 25 (AP). A new trade agreement between Switzerland and the Anglo-American zones of Germany was announced here today.

It provides that the Bizonal area will issue licenses for 30 million dollars worth of Swiss goods. Switzerland "will continue to grant as liberal import facilities from the Bizone as heretofore," an announcement said.

Russians Have Tried to Kill Tito, Returning Envoys Say

By Bob Considine

Paris, Aug. 23 (INS).—Diplomats who who recently returned from the Danubian conference say Russian agents have made at least one attempt to assassinate Tito, the Yugoslav dictator, since he insisted on being master of his own house.

As a result, Yugoslavia today is more of a police state than ever. A great proportion of its public payroll goes to enlarge and stiffen the UDBA, the security police. This force not only guards Tito but keeps the country in that form of bondage known politically as a "people's democracy."

Russian officers advising the army have been dropped, along with Russian political advisers.

The diplomats say Russian pressure has succeeded only in giving Tito the first real public support he has had since the Russians moved him in and persuaded Roosevelt and Churchill to support him instead of their earlier choice, Draja Mikhailovich.

Last week, red-faced and fanatical, he told one of his crack regiments that not only Russia but all the nations of the world must respect the power of Yugsoslav arms. It is agreed that his troubles with Moscow have in no way caused Tito to swing a kindly eye toward the West. He still hates us with all the passion in his Communist soul.

But, with Russia refusing to give him the tools for industrialization, he will be forced to turn to the West or, specifically, the United States if he expects to get anywhere with his dream of changing agricultural Yugoslavia to an industrial state.

King Peter, whom Tito desposed, said the other day the dictator was a bad insurance risk . . . which is a new high, or low, in understatements. If the Russians really go after him, they'll get him.

Davis, Ex-Broadway Actor, May Become Citizen Again

Paris, Aug. 23 (AP).—Garry Davis, who recently gave up American citizenship to emphasize his belief in the need for a world government, indicated today he may want the citizenship back.

The 26-year-old wartime flier and former Broadway actor said he has not yet finally decided whether he will ask the United States Embassy here to return the passport he handed in May 26.

However, he said, he is pondering advice from his sister, Virginia Davis, a member of United World Federalists, that, "as the United States is the only country which can initiate a world government, my platform is there if I wish to further this universal cause."

Davis said his sister's opinion was "that my actions of renunciation has caused doubt and confusion in many minds regarding my motives."

Davis holds that a world government is needed to halt the threat of a third World War. He said he wants "to utilize the most efficient and practical means to achieve this ultimate goal."

He has been living in Paris on a special police permit since last May.

70% of World Aid Furnished by U. S.

Geneva, Aug. 23 (AP).—The United States has handed out nearly 70 per cent of all financial aid to other nations since the end of the war, United Nations figures showed today.

Statistics place private and governmental aid from the United States at $16,160,000. Britain was second on the list, giving $2,450,000,000 to other war-devastated countries.

Canada with $1,894,000,000, Argentina $681,000,000, Sweden $521,000,000 and the Soviet Union $478,000,000 followed. The Russian contribution consisted entirely of a government loan to Poland.

In turn Britain received the greatest amount of aid—$6,670,000,000. France was second on the list, getting $3,957,000,000. Other high recipients were the Anglo-American zone of Germany, $1,876,000,000; Italy, $1,859,000,000; Poland, $1,150,000,000 and the Netherlands $1,054,000,000.

The figures include all aid given by governmental and inter-governmental agencies and private corporations. They excluded expenditures of certain relief and refugee agencies.

Nearly all of Britain's contributions to world recovery was in the form of loans by private corporations. Nearly a third went to Germany. The Soviet Union received 16 million dollars from Britain and substantial amounts also went to France, Italy, Burma, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Hungary, Poland and the Netherlands.

Figures did not give an adequate picture of United States financial assistance to the rest of the world, failing to include contributions to UNRRA and such items as purchases of bonds of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and subscriptions to the International Monetary Fund.

For instance, a $3,662,000,000 UNRRA contribution came largely from the United States.

Individual American contributions went to countries in all five continents. The largest single item was the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain.

The Soviet Union received a total of 785 million dollars, topped by a government loan of 275 million dollars from Sweden and Lend Lease credits from the United States for 242 million dollars.

Stalin Ousts Scientists in Atom Drive

London, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—Soviet Prime Minister Josef Stalin abolished two scientific ministries last week, and ordered that their work be taken over by other government departments, Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said today.

Observers of Soviet affairs said the move may pave the way for an increase in Soviet atomic energy research.

Tass said the ministries abolished were those dealing with nonferrous metallurgy and rubber. The metallurgy ministry will be absorbed by the iron and steel ministry, and rubber by the chemical industry ministry.

The move apparently put Ministers P. F. Lomako of metallurgy and T. B. Mitrokhin of rubber out of jobs, leaving Stalin with 59 ministers. No mention was made of the two ministers in the Tass dispatch.

The changes confirmed the belief that Stalin is combing Soviet industry for qualified personnel to staff atomic research stations.

Consolidations Cut Soviet Cabinet Posts

Moscow, Aug. 23 (NYHT.).—The Soviet Union Council of Ministers (cabinet) is being reduced in size by consolidation of allied ministries.

An official bulletin announced mergers of eight ministries into four. The number of portfolios thus was reduced from 62 to 58. Additional consolidations are likely.

and then made a lightning raid across the borders of western Berlin to kidnap a German photographer.

A little later, Maj. Ivan Lepedev, chief of the Russian's big Berlin radio station, was arrested for speeding in the British sector and held. The British announced that Soviet officials had released a British Vampire jet fighter and its pilot held since the plane made an emergency landing in the Soviet sector a week ago Monday.

Thomas P. Headen, deputy chief of the American Military Government's information services division, was released after overnight detention in the Russian sector of Berlin.

Two other Americans seized August 5 near the Russian zonal border 75 miles west of Frankfurt, were released at Herzfeld on the border Monday. Lieut. Sherman S. Turner of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Rowland M. Myers of Brooklyn, N. Y., both United States Military Government officials, said they were "well treated—if you like cabbage."

The kidnaping of the German photographer emphasized anew the Soviet determination to prevent picture-taking in or near their sector. Headen had been taking pictures of the Berlin Potsdamer Platz shortly before a Russian patrol pounced on him.

The seizure of the photographer was at least the fourth violation of western sector jurisdiction since last Thursday when a Russian raid on German civilians in the Potsdamer Platz precipitated a riot by stone-throwing Germans.

Western sector police headquarters announced meanwhile that Franz Erdmann, head of the criminal division of the Soviet-controlled police, had been released. He was arrested Sunday in the British sector.

Three United States miliary police motorized patrols were sent to Potsdamer Platz tonight after about 15 Russian soldiers had crossed to the American side of the square. No arrests were made and there were no incidents. An American official said the Russians withdrew before the United States patrols arrived.

The British military government announced tonight it had blocked an attempt by the Central Bank of Berlin, which is in the Russian sector, to get three million east marks unfrozen from the British sector.

The newspaper Frankfurter Rundschau said bus traffic between the American and Russian zones of Germany will be resumed Friday.

American Military Government sources said they had no indication that it forecast the lifting of the Russians' present road and rail blockade of Berlin.

Headen, 45-year-old former New York and Kansas City newspaperman, was turned over to United States liaison officers yesterday.

He said he was "glad to be back, and I certainly don't want to have any part of that any more." He said the Russians had returned the camera he had with him when he was yanked into a Russian jeep while his wife and two young children stood by helplessly.

"I was put in a cell with a three-tiered wooden bunk with a raised end as a pillow," Headen said. "The cell was clean but poorly lighted. I was told I would have to follow the usual rule for inmates, namely that I could not lie down between 5 a. m. and 11 p. m.

"I was fed twice. Once last night when I received beans, potato soup, black bread and cheese, and again this morning when they gave me a mess.

"This morning I was handed a broom and told to sweep the cell clean. I did. Later they gave me a mop to scrub it, but I did not do it."

He said he was interviewed by a Russian lieutenant colonel, who was very courteous and "gave me a sort of apology and said he was surprised nobody relized last night I was an American official."

The colonel added that "if our men made a mistake they will be reprimanded."

Headen said the solders who arrested him were "somewhat brusque" in putting him in the jeep, but "there was no question of rough stuff."

He said, "In my own mind I am not sure whether I crossed the dividing line (between British and Russian sectors)."

The Russians offered to release Turner and Myers August 10, but American liaison officers refused to sign a receipt admitting the men entered Russian territory "without authoity" and took pictures of the border.

The men said today they were kept prisoner in Gotha, 25 miles west of the Soviet zone city of Weimar.

"It was a private house, guarded night and day and we stayed there for 18 days," said Myers, a former language professor at the University of Texas.

"As far as I am concerned," Myers said, "we never were inside the Russian zone when the Soviet troops jumped out and arrested us. We were just up there taking a look at the border. It was Turner's job."

Turner said he was questibned for 15 minutes the first night.

"They asked what American troops were in the area, what I was doing up at the border—I was on business—and where the local American counter-intelligence unit was," Turner said. "They also asked what education I had, where I was born and a lot of stuff that didn't seem to have anything to do with anything."

In yesterday's incident western sector police said the photographer was on the American side of the street when the Russians approached him and attempted to take away his camera.

The cameraman fled into a ruin, still in the American sector, but was dragged away after two western police who ran to help him "were beaten off by blows from soldiers who had hurried to the scene in the meantime."

The Russians have also released Paul Hoppe, American sector German police chief for the Borough of Kreuzberg. He was picked up by the Russians on Saturday when he sought to negotiate the release of several of his policemen whom the Russians had seized.

The Russians also released a police jeep and its driver. American authorities had protested the arrests and impounding of the car and demanded their immediate release.

The American Military Government revealed in its semimonthly review of occupation affairs today that industrial production in the combined British and United States zones of Germany scored a 10 per cent gain during July to reach a new postwar record.

Envoys See Stalin Again

The London reports told of a special meeting of Prime Minister Attlee with his defense manpower advisers yesterday on the question of slowing up Britain's demobilization in view of the continued Berlin stalemate. These reports were pessimistic as to the chances of a settlement at Moscow.

The United Press said the western envoys conferred twice yesterday before going to see Stalin.

Western representatives last met with Molotov exactly one week ago, the longest gap between meetings since negotiations started July 30. Bedell Smith, Robert and Chataigneau have conferred daily.

Reliable sources said Britain's Roberts has made preparations to return to London this week. One report said Roberts attended a "farewell" party in his honor at the British Embassy.

Philippine Amity Sure, Veterans Told

More than 1000 Spanish War veterans were yesterday thanked for liberating the Philippines from Spanish rule, at Golden Anniversary of that war.

The United Spanish War Veterans, with another 5000 family members, friends and members of affiliated organizations, are celebrating their fiftieth national encampment here, at Constitution Hall.

Bartolome A. Umayam, Second Secretary of the Philippine Embassy, told the group the Spanish-American War was a "turning point in the history of my country, from a regime of bondage to a regime of freedom and liberty."

Pledges Philippine Aid

He pledged that the Philippine Republic, now two years old, will be a "bastion of American democracy in that part of the world."

The veterans—who will stage their main celebration program at 7:30 tonight at the Sylvan Theater—and the auxiliary members also heard Omer W. Clark, executive assistant to the administrator of the Veterans' Administration, say that 2,282,873 veterans of all wars and 603,286 dependents are receiving monthly benefits from the Government.

Horace M. Havner of Des Moines, national commander in chief of the USWV, said the United States should be careful not to jeopardize its financial soundness in aiding European nations. He declared one cannot buy the patriotism of any group of men.

Mason Says D. C. Isn't "All Red"

District Commissioner Guy Mason, who acepted a plaque from the delegates, said in his welcoming talk that he hoped the members wouild not think the city was "all Red." He pleaded against hysteria and said we should not accuse unjustly.

At the conclusion of an all-day session at the Hotel Willard, the Sons of Spanish War Veterans presented a cup to their San Francisco unit, Camp 54, for outstanding service to their organization, to the veterans and to their community.

James A. Daar of St. Louis, national president of the SSAWV, announced a drive for funds to feed 50 children in war devastated areas for one year. The funds, which are to care for one child every year since the Spanish War, will be sent to the United Nations Crusade for Children as a memorial.

Mark Fiftieth Anniversary

Among the activities yesterday was the eleventh annual luncheon of the United States Infantry Association, with Col. William Alexander of Fort Monroe, Va., as guest of honor.

The fiftieth anniversary celebration at the Washington Monument grounds tonight will follow a day of sightseeing and excursions for the veterans, while the auxiliary groups will devote their day to business sessions, with smaller group reunions and luncheons to be held throughout the city.

Joseph R. Hanley, Lieutenant Governor of New York, who will succeed to the Governorship if Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is elected President, is scheduled as the main speaker for the celebration.

Massing of Colors Billed

A colorful part of the ceremony will be the massing of the colors of all departments of the national group. Music will be provided by the Air Force Band.

Chairman of the celebration is Lloyd Thurston, Representative from Iowa from 1925 to 1939.

Business sessions will be held during the day by National Auxiliary, the Daughters of '98, Sons of Spanish American War Veterans, National Commandery-Naval and Military Order, Military Order of the Lizard and Military Order of Serpent.

On Wednesday and Thursday, the veterans will nominate and elect officers and hear reports from their officials.

Russia Hit On Freedom Of Marriage

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—The United Nations Economic and Social Council today adopted a Chilean resolution "deploring" laws that forbid women the freedom to choose their husbands and leave their countries to reside abroad.

The resolution was aimed at the Soviet Union.

It led to a bitter five-hour debate in which Russia's A. P. Pavlov tried in vain to get the council to pass a resolution comdemning the prohibition of marriage between those of different races.

Pavlov withdrew from the battle after Britain's A. M. Morgan succeeded in getting the Russian resolution amended further so it would also denounce laws against marriage between persons "of different citizenship."

The council approved the Chilean resolution by a vote of 14 for, 3 against and 1 abstention. The United States and Britain were among the nations approving it, while Russia, Poland and Byelo-Russia voted against it.

Pavlov declared there is a danger "American racial laws may be eventually worse than Hitler's." Organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan are "no better than Nazi Germany," he said.

The council also approved resolutions passed earlier by the Human Rights Committee for equal economic and political rights for women.

West German Trade Accord Urged by U. S.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 23 (AP).—The United States proposed today that the western zones of Germany be made parties to the Geneva Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

At the same time, the United States asked the contracting nations for permission to give preferences on copper exports to former Japanese mandated islands administered by the United States.

Both proposals were put before the current second session of the 22 contracting states and are to be talked over in detail later this week.

The United States delegate, Leroy D. Stinebower, asked the nations to extend the most-favored-nation treatment and the nondiscrimination principles of the Geneva agreement to the western zones of Germany.

In practice, extension of the agreement to Germany would mean that the 22 contracting nations would apply the same tariffs to German goods as they apply to each other. In addition, it probably would authorize direct tariff negotiations between western Germany and each of the others on specific commodities.

This would be a further step in the creation of a separate western German state. Czechoslovakia protested the American proposal.

Prodigal Maharajah Settling With State

New Delhi, India, Aug. 23 (AP).—A government source said today the Maharajah of Baroda is near a settlement with his state government.

"The question of abdication need not arise," the informant said.

U. S. Workers Will Register

for separate registration, its draft-eligible men may sign up at another agency's center, or at the city-wide centers. The at-work registration is simply "a matter of convenience," Leahy said.

No quota for the District has been received yet, according to Leahy. In World War II, Washington was asked to fill "just a little under 1 per cent of the Nation's quota," he said.

About 8 per cent of male Federal employes are believed to be eligible for the draft, on a country-wide basis. He predicted the percentage would be higher here, but declined to make an estimate.

Over the city, some 50,000 men are expected to register for the draft. "We won't get too many 25, 24, 23, and 22-year-old men, however," Leahy declared. "It's the younger boys who'll make up the 1-A pool."

Men who for one reason or another are unable to register the days specified for their age group will be permitted to register a period of time, Leahy said, but not after the designated dates. Early registration, which is "purely a convenience," will not speed up the processing of the individual.

Registrar training sessions, conducted by Leahy and Norton, will be held at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Thursday in Departmental Auditorium, Constitution ave. between 12th and 14th sts. n.w., with the morning meeting for non-Federal volunteers and the afternoon session for Federal volunteers.

Besides the 150-odd persons who have volunteered for registration work, the District chapter of the Red Cross, American Legion, and the Council of Social Agencies' volunteer center will staff registration booths.

The District Building center, to be located in the first floor corridor, will be named by the Red Cross; American Legion auxiliary members will serve at the National Guard armory; and the Municipal Center booth will be staffed by the volunteer center, which yesterday put out a call for 200 workers.

Other registration centers are Dunbar, Wilson and Roosevelt High Schools, and Thomson Elementary School.

In addition, District Government employes will register at their places of employment—policemen in precinct stations, firemen in fire houses, and so on.

Men who are hospitalized will have five days from the time of their release to register, Leahy said. Men presently in penal institutions will sign up as they leave the institutions.

No Run on Marriages To Avoid Draft Here

There is no indication Washington youths are rushing into marriage to escape the draft.

Newspaper reports over the weekend depicted youths mobbing marriage license bureaus in some other cities to get hitched to a gal instead of a gun. But in Washington, here are the figures:

Yesterday, 77 couples here applied for marriage licenses. A week ago Monday, 82 applied. Monday a year ago, exactly 77 couples made application.

Of yesterday's group, 40 of the prospective grooms were between the ages of 19 and 25. Comparative figures for this age group were not available for other dates.

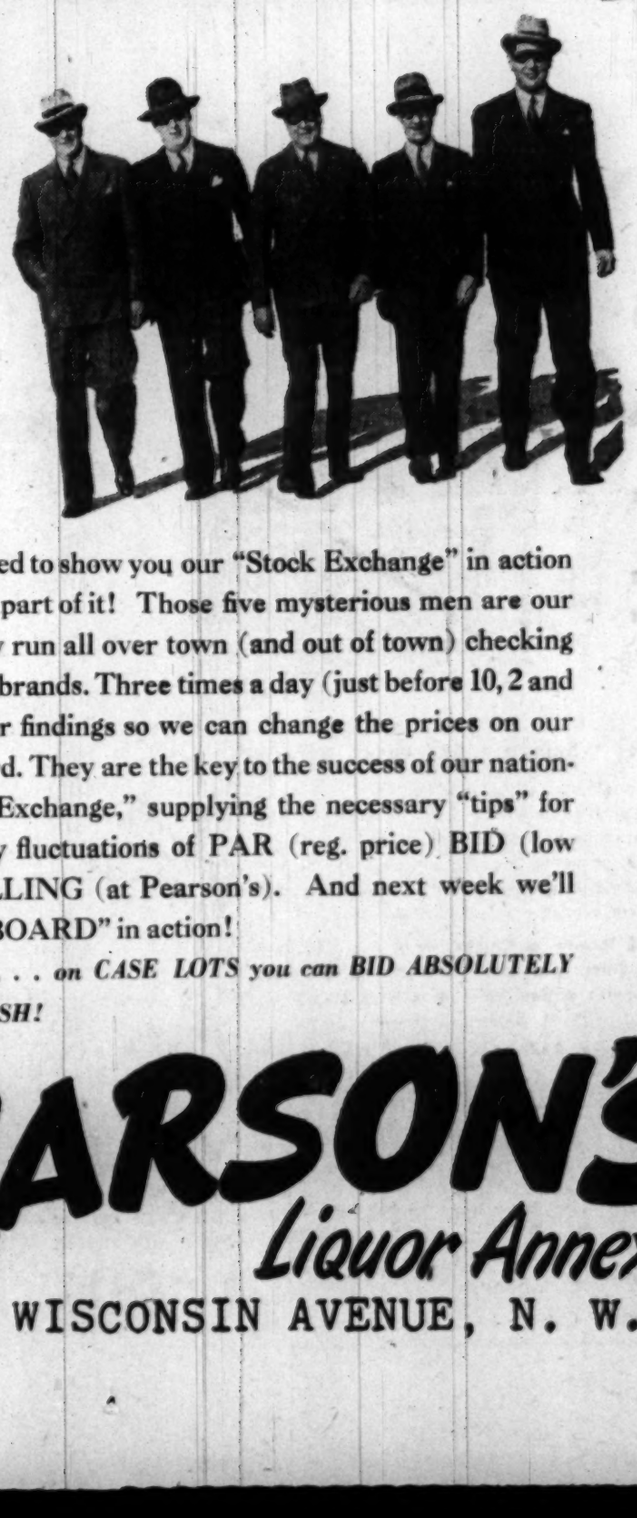
A Quick Tour of the famous Stock Exchange



Last week we promised to show you our "Stock Exchange" in action ... well, here's a BIG part of it! Those five mysterious men are our "stock tickers"—they run all over town (and out of town) checking the prices on regular brands. Three times a day (just before 10, 2 and 6) they phone in their findings so we can change the prices on our huge Quotation Board. They are the key to the success of our nationally famous "Stock Exchange," supplying the necessary "tips" for the three-times-a-day fluctuations of PAR (reg. price) BID (low elsewhere) and SELLING (at Pearson's). And next week we'll show you the "BIG BOARD" in action!

Conference On

Red Cross Sends Reds Second Bid

Stockholm, Aug. 23 (AP).—The International Red Cross today renewed its invitation to the Soviet Union to attend the world conference under way here.

New invitations also went out to eight other nations which joined Russia in declining the first official bid.

The conference opened August 20. A Red Cross official said the absent nations now have been asked to attend the closing plenary session August 30 or a September 1 meeting of the executive committee of the League of Red Cross Societies.

Delegates At Work

Announcement of the new attempt to draw Russia in came as 500 delegates began actual work at the seventeenth conclave.

In two letters rejecting the original invitation, the Soviet Union criticized the International Red Cross committee.

Dr. Cholodkov, president of the Soviet Union Red Cross, wrote that the committee "failed to take notice of the cruelties committed in camps for prisoners of war and civilians in the fascist countries (Germany, Italy, Japan)." He added that the committee took no steps to prevent violations of the International Red Cross conventions.

"Even at this time, and without the condemnation of the International Red Cross committee," he added, "a series of violations of the principles of humanity as they are set out in Red Cross procedure is taking place: In a number of concentration camps there are still civil prisoners, women and children, who were carried off by the fascists to forced labor during the war, and are not permitted to return to their homelands.

Conditions in Greece

"The International Red Cross committee has not raised its voice in protest against robberies of the Greek monarchist fascists or the bloodshed in Indonesia and Viet Nam."

Dr. Cholodkov also protested that an invitation to the conference was issued to the Franco government in Spain, "condemned by popular opinion in all democratic countries."

Despite Soviet refusal to send delegates, the Soviet Red Cross sent two officials as "visitors."

Stockholm, Aug. 23 (AP).—Any solution of the Palestine problem reached by the United Nations General Assembly must recognize that a Jewish state already is in existence, an informed U. N. source said today.

Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. mediator for Palestine, plans to offer to the General Assembly in Paris next month his suggestions for a final ending of Palestine's strife.

These peace proposals are expected to include several alternate solutions, this source added. However, all of them will take into consideration that a Jewish state Israel—now is in being.

It is not so much the establishment of a Jewish state that is at stake, but a definition of its frontiers, this source added.

[The New York Herald Tribune and representatives of Israel have met with several Arab leaders in recent weeks and have conducted preliminary discussions on the question of a peace settlement in Palestine. Nothing concrete has come out, but Israeli leaders are hopeful of future results without the intervention of the United Nations mediator.]

Israel protested to the International Red Cross today that two wounded Jewish soldiers "were killed and their bodies mutilated" while prisoners of Arabs in Jerusalem.

Foreign Minister Moshe Sherton charged the "outrageous incidents" took place in the Red Cross zone of the Holy City and added that a third prisoner "died or was killed."

In Jerusalem, it was disclosed that 33,000 Jewish immigrants—half of them from Cyprus camps—have arrived in Israeli since the new state was established last May. The figures were given to the general Zionist council meeting by Eliahu Dobkin, a member of the Jewish Agency executive.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli military spokesman told the United Press that new war preparations are being made in Trans-Jordan, as the Arab Legion and the Iraqi army announced their merger under a single command.

[An announcement in Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan, said King Abdullah's Arab Legion and the Iraqi army agreed yesterday to a unified command.]

Idaho Parachutes Beavers Into Its Primitive Wilds

McCall, Idaho, Aug. 23 (AP).—A plane of the State Fish and Game Department today parachuted beavers from an altitude of 200 feet into Idaho's primitive wilds.

The department hoped the beavers would multiply and increase the fertility of the arid, sparsely populated land by building dams and spreading its small spring-fed lakes.

The beavers were dropped individually in traps which opened automatically when they hit the ground. They were transported from farm areas because farmers said the beavers weren't "worth a dam—specifically, their own dams," which blocked irrigation ditches.

Army Fires 500 Civilians

Honolulu, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Army announced today it was dismissing about 500 civilian employes at installations in Hawaii because of curtailment in the Pacific headquarters budget. Those affected include engineers, stenographers, clerks, firemen, gardeners and janitors.

Jews Charge Egypt 'Terror'

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—The World Jewish Congress charged today that Jews in Egypt are being subjected to a "reign of terror" under strict censorship.

Alex A. Easterman, Congress political secretary, said the Jewish population of Egypt, estimated at 50,000, is being attacked and murdered with the "connivance and sometime approval" of the Egyptian government.

He estimated that between 800 and 1000 Jews have been interned in concentration camps "under extremely bad conditions." He said Jewish property and funds have been confiscated by the government without legal process.

South America Opens New Railroad Section

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Presidents of Brazil and Boliva opened yesterday another section of a railway which South Americans hope will reach some day from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

President Eurico Gaspar Dutra of Brazil and Enrique Hertzog of Bolivia officiated at San Jose, Bolivia, at the opening of a short link from San Jose to El Porton, Bolivia, joining with a 241-mile section to Corumba, Brazil. The Presidents pledged to complete the railway through Bolivia on a cooperative basis.

The line, started 10 years ago, is to be built to the Pacific Coast.

Israel Punishes Desecraters Of Palestine Holy Places

Tel Aviv, Israel, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Israeli government said today that acts of desecration against Christian religious property by Jewish soldiers have been "isolated transgressions by irresponsible individuals" who have been punished.

A foreign office statement said:

"During the past few days reports have been circulated abroad accusing Israeli official authorities of having engineered the desecration of and criminal acts against a number of Catholic churches and religious institutions throughout Israel. These reports also allege an Israeli intention to expropriate ecclesiastic property. . . .

Strict Orders Issued

"Soon after the war broke out, . . . strict orders were issued to Israeli troops enjoining the utmost respect for places of holy contents and association of all religions and directing that every possible measure be taken to safeguard the lives of ecclesiastic personnel.

". . . These orders have been substantially fulfilled. The isolated transgressions by irresponsible individuals, which are regretted, took place in the first weeks of fighting . . . before effective security control had been instituted. Most of the offenders have been apprehended and punished."

Offenders Jailed

"One instance is the looting of sacred objects from the Greek Catholic Church in Jaffa. This incident received wide publicity abroad. Publicity, however, was not given to the fact that the persons responsible were arrested, court-martialed and sentenced to six months imprisonment and that the stolen property was restored to the church. The restoration was acknowledged in a letter of thanks from the curate to the military commander in Jaffa.

"Other cases of looting in the Galilee area are now subject to investigation. Deliberate exaggeration of such minor occurrences tends to overshadow the basic fact that in six months of warfare, Israeli military operations have not directly caused the destruction of any church or sanctuary or death or injury to any ecclesiastic.

"Nazareth is at present out of bounds to Israeli troops and appreciation of this gesture of respect for Christian feeling has been conveyed in person to the minister of religious affairs by the Christian clergy."

Polish Scouts Denounce World Scoutdom

Warsaw, Aug. 23 (AP).—The National Union of Polish Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts today denounced the "reactionary principles" of international s-c-o-u-t-d-o-m. They adopted a "new life," an official announcement said.

"The ideology of the scouts' union should bring up youngsters according to the slogan for our freedom and yours,'" the announcement said. "There can be no brotherhood or harmony with men who feed on social wrongs and oppression of colonial nations."

Some 80,000 scouts attended a meeting near Warsaw where the announcement was made.

'Voluntary' Boosts In Rent Are Scarce

Landlords and tenants have done comparatively little "voluntary" agreeing under the 1948 Rent Act —apparently trying to out-guess each other on extension of rent controls.

A report yesterday by the office of Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods showed that, statistically, less than one lease embodying rent increases up to 15 per cent has been signed so far this year for every five such leases signed last year throughout the Nation.

During the first four months of the 1947 Act, 1,548,692 residents signed voluntary rent increases leases. Only 225,586 leases were agreed to in the first four months of the 1948 Act, which became effective April 1.

An estimated 14 million housing units are eligible for such leases in 1948; 15,700,000 were eligible under the 1947 Act.

Under the present law, tenants can protect themselves against ceiling-less rents for at least nine months after the 1948 Act expires —on March 31, 1949—by agreeing to leases which run at least through December 31, 1949, containing rent increases up to 15 per cent.

(This does not apply to the District of Columbia, which has separate rent control legislation.)

Whether the small number of leases signed in 1948 is because of tenants' or landlords' reluctance to sign is a matter of conjecture.

Many landlords, however, have not been too eager to insist on pushing through such leases, presumably gambling on an end to rent controls on March 31. The tenants' gamble is just the reverse.

In the Arlington-Alexandria-Fairfax-Quantico area, 7020 leases were signed in the first four months of the 1947 Act, and 1492 in the comparable period this year.

I. Chance Buchanan, rent director of that area, points out however, that his area had one of the highest lease-signing rates in the country in 1947—9458 leases out of 40,500 housing units—and a decline was to be expected.

While comparable figures are not available for the Montgomery-Prince Georges rent area, throughout Maryland in the first four months of 1947 there were 20,780 such leases signed, and only 3623 in the first four months of the 1948 Act.

New Oak Hill Appeal Made

way from Washington is along route U. S. 50 to its intersection with Route U. S. 15, about a mile this side of Aldie, then right on U. S. 15 to the estate. The big, white-pillared yellow mansion can be seen through trees atop a wooded slope, a mile before the main gate is reached.

Littleton has lived there for nearly 30 years, returning to his native county to buy the estate with his wife after a business career in New York. She died many years ago.

The mansion, where Littleton has lived alone in late years, was built by President Monroe, following plans made by Thomas Jefferson. Monroe worked on his famous doctrine there. He moved there when he left the White House. From it he fought the trials of debt that forced him to sell other large landholdings. His beloved wife died there, and within two months he left to spend his last days in New York.

Some of the furnishings in the mansion belonged to Monroe. Possessions of other famous Americans have been assembled there by Littleton. The furnishings are not for sale.

At the end of his busy day, Littleton appeared tense but poised. Trim, erect, he wore a neat grey suit, white shirt, blue tie, and brown shoes. He talked in a quiet voice, choosing words carefully. He wears glasses, and has a carefully clipped mustache.

He reviewed the contention made earlier in his petition that the advertisement of his property for sale made it uncertain exactly what was to be sold. The advertisement of the court-ordered sale referred to "four certain tracts" of land containing 1725.1 acres, described in a 1939 deed of trust, and further described in a 1924 deed.

He said he had no knowledge of any survey having been made fixing the area of his property at 1725 acres. He said the 1925 deed fixed the area at 1771 acres and that since then the property had been enlarged by a net addition of 26 acres, making it 1797 acres. He said a court appraisal referred to 1797 acres in eight tracts of land.

Littleton stated the expected the August 31 hearing to go into the issue of what is the acreage and what is to be included in the proposed sale. He added that while the court had a record of the liens against Oak Hill at the beginning of the bankruptcy proceeding, there is no official record at this date of what the liens amount to and to whom funds should be paid. He said he hoped these questions would be determined.

Puts Debts at $180,000

Littleton said he estimates his indebtedness at about $180,000. He explained within recent months the place was appraised at $800,000 by a New York firm. He said he had refused 15 years ago an offer of $700,000 for the property—the offer then being reported as made by Andrew Mellon. He said his reason for refusing that offer lay in his wish to convey the property to a corporation which would operate it as a perpetual memorial to President Monroe.

His plan for this memorial calls for making it an historic shrine, like Mount Vernon and Monticello, with the added feature of using all net revenue to grant scholarships for young men and women studying for a career in the U. S. Foreign Service. He said the corporation to achieve this aim was formed in 1939, and the plan still could be accomplished by a refinancing of his debts, and conveyance of the property to the corporation.

"I'm not bankrupt," he flashed. "The property can be sold but I don't want to sell it. I've had several propositions to refinance it if I would divide the earnings, but I want this to serve the Nation."

He said he had conducted himself in recent days with the main purpose of protecting the property as a public service. "That's all I've lived for for the last 28 years," he commented, "to protect the property and the many thousands of valuable pieces there, and give them for the benefit of the people of the United States.

"What I'd like to see achieved or started is the example which Monroe set for the Nation by his patriotic service to go on as a symbol to every household in the United States, and if that is done they're bound to have the proper reaction and not listen to advocates of another form of government."

By the "symbol" he said he was referring to the record of Monroe's public performance.

Littleton showed an airview of the estate, and the location on it of the main gate to the mansion, the one which has been kept chained and locked for more than a week. In fact, said Littleton, that particular gate has been kept locked for nine years, while there are more than 20 other gates to the property which never have been locked at any time.

He tapped the airview angrily with a forefinger, and said, "They tried to say I stood here with a gun and kept them out." (On the only day when visitors did look over the grounds, a week ago Saturday, Littleton remained in the house. In an affidavit for Judge Hutcheson, which Littleton made public yesterday, he told of going to get his gun that Saturday when he heard a man and two women in the house after other visitors had gone. He then searched the house with a deputy sheriff but the prowlers had left. He said they opened at least one drawer of a sideboard. His affidavit protested he was not adequatedly protected.)

"This is a business proposition," Littleton commented. "It is not a picnic. Those people who did come came for nothing but a picnic."

Naylor Rent Hike Accord Approved

District Rent Examiner James G. Tyson yesterday recommended almost complete approval of a compromise reached in a rent boost fight between the owners of Naylar Gardens and many of its tenants.

Tyson recommended approval of a rent boost of 7.95 per cent on 533 units of the 748 in the Southeast housing development. The Veterans Cooperative Housing Association had requested a 15 per cent jump, but reduced its figure to 8 per cent when many tenants opposed the rise at a public hearing August 2.

Present rents range from $59.50 a month for one-bedroom units to $78.50 a month for three-bedroom apartments. Proposed rents will be between $64.25 and $84.75. The compromise agreed upon by attorneys for owners and tenants called for the levying of an 8 per cent increase in maintenance costs on the remainder of the development units owned by members of the association.

The compromise also provided for an agreement by the association that no further request for a rent boost would be made this year and that if operating costs increase more than 2 per cent a tenants' committee would be expected to recommend acceptance by tenants of another rental increase.

The association was represented by William A. Robert and Francis J. Ortman. Scott Crampton and Robert Munn, jr., were attorneys for a group of the tenants.

Tyson also recommended a 5.06 per cent rent rise on 83 units in an apartment building at 1417 N st. nw. owned by the LaSalle Properties, Inc. The firm had asked for a 20.7 per cent boost.

Present rents range from $37.50 a month for one room and bath to $70 for three rooms and bath. Proposed rents are between $39.50 and $73.50.

On Calvert Bridge

Bus Rider Acts Quickly To Stop Leap

The quick action of a Silver Spring young man yesterday averted a possible suicide leap from the Calvert Street Bridge.

DeLozier

Joseph DeLozier, 23, of 8208 Nolte ave., Silver Spring, Md., was crossing the bridge on Chevy Chase bus when he saw a man trying to climb over the railing of the bridge.

He yelled to the bus driver to stop and ran to the man grabbing him around the legs. After arguing a few minutes with the man he persuaded him to leave the bridge.

Court House Being Painted, Remodeled

Arlington County's Court House is getting a face-lifting and more elbow room, all in one summer operation.

The time-honored prison gray which used to adorn all courthouse corridors has already been replaced by light green. Nearly all offices, the Circuit courtroom and the courthouse's exterior trimming also are being repainted. The transition is estimated to cost the county a total of about $5850.

The Court House also will get more office space when its basement is converted into offices.

The county print shop, which formerly occupied part of the basement, has been moved to the Arlington Property Yard, and the stockroom, which now occupies the remainder, will follow within a few weeks.

Day Shift of 20 Escapes Injury In Mine Cavein

Marysville, Mont., Aug. 23 (AP).—The 20-man day shift at the Drumlummen gold mine got out without a scratch today when the Montana Rainbow Mining Co.'s main shaft caved in here.

W. P. Wade, company partner, said the men were at work below the 700-foot level when 50 feet of the mine track bed collapsed at the 400-foot level, blocking the main shaft with muck and timbers between 500 and 600 feet.

Day crew members escaped through "safety manways which were completed two months ago," Wade said. Some of the men were pulled up with ropes from emergency exits where there were no ladders.

Doctors, rescue equipment and ambulances were rushed here from Helena, 26 miles to the southeast.

The historic Drumlummon dates back to 1876, when the vein was discovered by the late Col. Thomas Cruse. More than thirty million dollars in gold has been taken from the mine since then.

Losses of Bank In Memphis Now $191,000

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 23 (U.P.).—The shortages laid to two trusted employes of the State Savings Bank, one of whom was just like "my own son" to the bank president, increased to $191,000 today.

Federal and State investigators were attempting to fix the final amount of the embezzlement.

Eugene Anthony Rossi, 48, assistant cashier and director, and John Benjamin Morris, 44, bookkeeper, confessed they embezzled money which they spent on high living.

Each was released on $15,000 bond.

J. V. Montedonico, sr., the bank's president, was shocked.

"I had complete confidence in them," he said.

Treasury agents stumbled onto the embezzlements while looking into the affairs of a big-time gambler they believed was evading his income tax.

Kinloss, Scotland, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—Eight Royal Air Force fliers were killed today when their Lancaster bomber crashed on landing.

New Hampshire Winters Tough on Bloodhounds

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 23 (U.P.).—New Hampshire's winters shouldn't happen to a dog, a Yankee sheriff complained today in a letter to Gov. Gregg Cherry.

Sheriff Arthur N. Jennison of Keene, N. H., offered his four purebred bloudhounds to North Carolina—cheap—for nine months of the year.

"They get snowbound," he explained.

Cherry was on vacation but at his office it was doubted that he would be interested. "There are plenty of well-trained bloodhounds here already," it was explained.

Silk Purse

The demonstration last week at the Maryland farm of Mrs. Nellie V. Thrasher was an eye-opener. It revealed not only the appalling need for modernization of farming methods in America but also the ability, largely unutilized, to bring that modernization about through cooperative effort. In a single day, Mrs. Thrasher's farm was transformed by modern scientific equipment and the hard work of some 300 skilled men from an uneconomic, impoverished piece of land being incessantly eaten away by soil erosion into a modern, prosperous and scientific producer of crops and dairy products; about $20,000, it is estimated, was added to its value between sunrise and sunset.

All over this land—all over the world, indeed—there are farms like Mrs. Thrasher's wasting away not for want of effort on the part of those who toil long hours to wrest a living from them but for want of knowledge, for want of the means to revitalize them. Half the cropland we use in the United States, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan told the huge throng which turned out for Wednesday's demonstration, is still subject to erosion in some measure, despite all that has been learned about the need for conservation and all that has been done by the Department of Agriculture to promote it since the problem was first attacked on a large scale in 1935. Without conservation of the sort demonstrated on the Thrasher farm, the Secretary declared, this country will be unable to feed even itself in another 150 years.

The Thrasher land, formerly cultivated in straight furrows that let the rains wash away the precious topsoil, is now graded, terraced and contour-plowed so that needed moisture will be retained and the soil kept in its place. Fertilizers have restored the fertility of soil worn out from overwork. Visitors from all over the country, including agricultural attaches from nearly every foreign embassy or legation in Washington, were on hand to watch the miraculous process. This is the first, and the most vital, of all the arts of peace—husbandry. The welfare of every member of the human family depends upon it. If men were but free from war and preparation for war and the threat of war, the miracle at the Thrasher farm could be repeated in every region every day.

"People's Democracy"

Czechoslovakia's new Premier, Antonin Zapotocky, shed some light the other day on the manner in which freedom is fostered under the dispensation of a "people's democracy" a la Soviet. Even in Utopia, no doubt, there will be those who resist progress. Czechoslovakia, at any rate, still has its laggards and its saboteurs—people who somehow or other have not quite gotten into the spirit of the times and who simply refuse to work hard enough or fast enough to meet the production quotas set by the state. Naturally, something has to be done about them, and Premier Zapotocky recommends installing a system of labor discipline courts modeled upon those established in the Soviet Union in 1931.

"These courts," said the Premier, "were introduced to help the mass of workers to fight against disorganization of production in factories and offices and against those who lack work discipline and who drink." In an undisciplined country like the United States, a suggestion of this sort would very probably be resisted by labor organizations with old-fashioned ideas about individual liberty. But under a "people's democracy" the labor organizations themselves, it seems, can be depended upon to do the disciplining. According to Premier Zapotocky, "it is the job of our General Confederation of Labor to create new working morale on the Soviet model. It is the responsibility of the General Confederation of Labor to find a way to combat disorganization of work which weakens our national production and hampers our good workers and the whole nation."

The Premier has thoughtfully outlined the course which the new courts ought to pursue. "These courts," he admonishes, "should not so much punish as educate . . . In the first case, the commission will place a 500-crown fine on a miner who does not come to work five times without adequate reason. In a second case a man who does not come to work five times will be called a saboteur and the workers themselves will decide how he shall be punished." Perhaps this will prove wonderfully effective in stepping up production; but until we see the actual results, we cannot help wondering whether it will indeed surpass the production achieved over here by undisciplined workers freely pursuing their individual interests and ungoaded either by their labor unions or by the state.

Cabinet Turnover

A United Press story directs attention to the phenomenal turnover in President Truman's Cabinet. Twenty-six persons have served in his official family since he took office three years and four months ago. To be sure, this is not a record. Theodore Roosevelt named 29 Cabinet members, but he was in the White House for seven years. In the 12 years that the second Roosevelt served he had a smaller turnover in the Cabinet than Mr. Truman has had in a little more than one fourth of that time. Mr. Truman has had three Secretaries of State, three Secretaries of Treasury, three Secretaries of War in addition to the present Secretary of Defense, three Postmasters General, three Secretaries of Agriculture, three Secretaries of Commerce, and last week he acquired his third Secretary of Labor. In other words, the President is now working, in most instances, with his third round of Cabinet members.

Many factors have contributed to this rapid shifting of faces in high official posts. It was natural that Mr. Truman should have preferred department heads of his own choosing as soon as he could get his feet on the ground after being so dramatically transferred to the White House in 1945. Since the war, moreover, there has been a general exodus of men from high governmental posts. As vacancies have occurred, shifting within the Administration has been common. Secretary Vinson, for example, was named Chief Justice of the United States. Secretary Harriman became European director of the postwar recovery program, and Secretary Forrestal, the only hold-over Cabinet member from the Roosevelt Administration, moved from the Navy Department to the new post of Secretary of Defense.

When all the explanations have been made, however, the turnover of Cabinet posts at the rate of about eight per year is a disturbing phenomenon. For one thing, it weakens the bond between the people and their Government. What percentage of people today could name the Postmaster General, the Secretary of Commerce or the Secretary of Agriculture? By the same token, it is more difficult to know what policies those departments are following. Rapid shifts in personnel deny to any organization the stability and continuity that are usually regarded as essential to smooth operation.

The unusual turnover in the Cabinet probably accounts in large measure for the public impression of inconstancy in the Truman Administration. No doubt the President has had good reason for every Cabinet change he has made, and of course many of those changes have been forced upon him by resignations and in one instance by death. When shifts become as frequent as they have been during the last three years, however, the total impact of such instability upon an administration has to be considered no less than the merits of each separate replacement of a high official.

Paternal Government

A United Press survey reveals that one out of every six American adults or 15.8 million citizens are now receiving money from the Federal Government in the form of salaries, wages, pensions and other benefits. Here is striking proof of the significant changes that have recently occurred in the scope of governmental activities and in the relation of the Government to individuals. It is a reminder that this country is no longer the land of free enterprise that we sometimes believe it to be. It is rather a mixed economy directed in great part by the Government under laws that entail extensive redistribution of the national income via the Federal Treasury. For example, the Council of Economic Advisers estimates that wage and salary payments to civilian employes of the Government exclusive of postoffice wages and salaries are currently running at an annual rate of 4.6 billion dollars; payments to members of the armed forces, at an annual rate of 3.3 billion dollars; social insurance benefits, at a two-billion dollar rate; subsidies and other payments to farmers, at 700 million dollars.

We have come a long way since 1920, the year that marked the peak of inflation after World War I, when Government expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30 were less than one sixth as much as they now are and Federal taxes constituted only 9 per cent of national income compared with 19 per cent or more today. Meantime we have had a New Deal that introduced an expanded system of regulatory controls over industry and agriculture, necessitating an enlargement of Government agencies and a permanent increase in Government personnel. Another legacy of the New Deal is the system of social insurance, likewise a permanent institution, that will unquestionably be expanded and diversified, thereby adding to the numbers receiving insurance benefits. We have also fought a second great war that has added millions of veterans to the roster of Federal pensioners and recipients of various benefits. Outlays have also been swollen by the expanded defense establishment and the foreign-aid program. In short, the Government has tremendously enlarged the scope of its functional activities in recent years, and assumed obligations that make it necessary to maintain a large army of civilian employes as well as support a military establishment that is huge by comparison with the peacetime forces of former years.

Eventually, if we escape another war, the outlays for veterans will reach the vanishing point. But it seems virtually certain that the trend toward Government regulation will gain momentum and that an increasing proportion of Americans will become the beneficiaries of liberalized systems of social insurance, subsidized housing, subsidized farming, etc. All the attendant outlays for such purposes have to be met from taxes, and the problem that confronts the country today is how to preserve the narrowing field reserved for free enterprise under a necessarily costly system of government that is becoming more and more paternalistic.

If taxes are oppressively high, production for profit will be discouraged and the Government will have to step in and take over work formerly done by private industry. On the other hand, if taxes are insufficient to cover the cost of all the governmental activities and welfare projects that the public demands, progressive inflation will result. It is, therefore, futile to call for cuts in Government expenditures as a cure-all for heavy taxation unless the public agrees to a reduction in the scope of Government operations. We can't have it both ways, although it is possible to adjust tax burdens to some extent and thereby minimize the adverse effects on productivity of any given amount of taxes.

Disparities Of Income

Soaring grain prices put North Dakota into the lead of all other States in per capita income gains last year. An article in the Department of Commerce's Survey of Current Business shows that North Dakotans boosted their average income 43 per cent over that of 1946. Per capita income was also relatively high in Montana, Colorado and a number of other agricultural States. But such farm States as Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Nebraska did not share this prosperity in the same measure. In spite of skyhigh food prices, high per capita incomes are more likely to be found in the industrial States. Residents of New York had incomes last year averaging 135 per cent of the national average; Connecticut, 126 per cent; Rhode Island, 115 per cent; New Jersey, 117 per cent; Illinois, 123 per cent, and California, 124 per cent. Only a few of the agricultural States rivaled these records.

Nevada, which has a combination of mining, agriculture and industry, led all the other States with income equaling $1842 per inhabitant, although her 1947 gain was less striking than that of North Dakota. New York came next, then North Dakota, Connecticut, Delaware, California, Montana, the District of Columbia and Illinois. It is interesting to see a few agricultural States interspersed with the chief industrial States in an income table. The phenomenal prices of agricultural products, some of which now seem to be tapering off, have at least had the virtue of temporarily equalizing the income of many farmers with that of industrial workers.

The darkest spot in this report on the inflated incomes of 1947 is that dealing with the Southern States. The South has substantially improved its per capita income over the last two decades in relation to the income of the country as a whole. Yet all the 15 Southern States remain in the category of the lowest one third of the Nation so far as income is concerned. As against Nevada's $1842 per inhabitant, Mississippi had $659. Mississippi's per capita income was only half the national average. The income per inhabitant of other Southern States ranged from 54 per cent of the national average in Arkansas to 80 per cent in Virginia. Even in this period predominantly favorable to agriculture, its chief source of income, the South has lagged sadly behind the Nation as a whole.

Undoubtedly this fact accounts in large part for the inferiority of educational opportunities in the South and for many other problems of that region. As a nation we have yet to achieve a reasonable balance of economic opportunities and economic rewards. Of course, such a balance is not to be attained by fiat or by any type of panacea, but it is an objective to be kept in mind in the long-range shaping of national policies.

The Conflict

The pronunciamento issued at Lambeth by the bishops of the Anglican Communion (which includes the Episcopal Church of the United States) expresses as clearly as anything we have yet seen the character of the ideological conflict whose issue will determine the destiny of the twentieth century. At bottom, as the bishops imply, the conflict is a metaphysical one between two hostile and irreconcilable concepts of the nature of man.

The Christian conception is that of a being made in the likeness of God and in that way distinguished from the rest of creation and invested with special rights, and responsibilities. The opposing concept is that man is purely the product of his material and social environment and hence must be subordinate in all matters to the social group of which he is part. Between these two concepts, say the bishops,

> . . . there can never be compromise, and it seems increasingly probable that it is between these two that the world must choose. Neutral positions may not long be tenable. No presentation of the Christian world-view can command the assent of the rising generation unless it has come squarely to grips with the dogmas of dialectical materialism.

Yet the bishops are also obliged to admit that there are points at which communism comes closer than capitalism to Christianity, and for this reason has a special attraction for Christian minds, in so far as it appears to represent a protest against social injustice. They proceed, however, to reconcile this paradox by asserting that both the injustice and the Communist effort to exploit it are merely two aspects of the materialist and secularist view of man and the universe.

Therefore, they assert, the church in emphasizing the rights of men against the state must insist not less urgently on their responsibilities to God and to their fellow men. Otherwise the very rights become the instruments of wrongs.

"Civic Interest"

Your editorial statement of August 31 that the low enrollment in the District high school course in civics shows that "manifestly something is wrong with the course" seems to be based on superficial information and a serious misunderstanding of the local course arrangement. Any school course can doubtless be improved upon, and it so happens that the civics course in question (officially named "Government" and offered as an elective in the last year of high school) is to be worked upon by a committee of teachers in the next few months, but as part of a more general curriculum revision program arranged long before the recent flareup over Elizabeth Bentley's confession of an unbalanced education.

The facts are that every pupil is required to have a systematic study of American government—a great deal more than the "elements of what is loosely termed civics" which your editorial refers to—in both of the two required years of American history and government above the elementary school (one year divided between the seventh and eighth grades and one taken in either the eleventh or twelfth). The separate semester of government open to twelfth-graders is something extra for those who particularly want it, on the same basis as a number of other elective courses which compete for what little spare program time pupils may have after their college-entrance, vocational, or other requirements have been met.

It is open to argument that more time should be given to the increasing bulk of American history and civics we might like to teach, and this might be done in effect by requiring the extra semester of civics of all students in spite of the pressing claims of other valuable courses the schools offer. Such a plan is actually under consideration, but it does not mean that provision for civic study in the Washington schools is now woefully weak as a reader of your editorial might infer.

Negro Stenographers

I READ in The Washington Post of July 27 and 28, where the President requested Civil Service to abolish segregation and discrimination in the Federal Government. The Civil Service stated that there is no segregation and discrimination and that one no longer has to present photographs of himself or state on his application his race or color. But, I say, in spite of that the Federal agencies still have a way of practicing segregation.

An example of their discriminatory practices is that they seldom hire qualified Negro stenographers. Of course they will hire a handful just to say that they have some in case the question of hiring Negro stenographers arises, but what happens is that the Negro stenographers are given the most insignificant stenographic positions. They are mostly placed in stenographic pools; they are seldom placed in individual offices where they can have a chance for advancement.

Many times I have called personnel offices of the Federal agencies and asked if there were vacancies for stenographers and have been told that there were vacancies and was asked to come in and would be given a job. I have gone immediately there and upon my arrival and when they see that I am Negro their story will then be that "we have just hired all of the stenographers we need, but leave your application and we will call you." In the event they should call you months later, which seldom happens, they will want you to accept a "typist job"—not a stenographic job even if you have Civil Service status as a stenographer.

In the agency in which I am employed there are white girls with just a clerk-typist status—who have never passed the stenographic test, but are working as grade 5 secretaries. Also there are some who don't have any status but are working as grade 5 secretaries. Yet, Negro stenographers are told that they can't get a grade 4 stenographer job unless they have passed the Civil Service test as a stenographer. I could give many, many examples as how we Negroes are denied jobs of this kind. LULA M. FIELDS.

Preventing Deaths

Public interest might be served by sometimes publishing the total number of those who have done away with themselves leaping from the Calvert st. bridge. It might encourage protecting such places with an artistically acceptable railing to make these tragedies difficult or impossible.

I was told that the railing atop Highgate Bridge in London was put up for some such reason long ago, and the Japanese had similar precautions. After the number of losses is sensed we shall hardly wish to lag in taking some such action.

Lesser Evil

I believe that the present and immediately preceding Democratic Administrations have been primarily concerned with the needs of the poor, whereas Republican Administrations obviously catered to the interests of the rich.

Some have said that the job is too big for Mr. Truman. However that may be, I would like to point out that it doesn't take much common sense to figure that it is better to have a bumbler working for you than to have a very sharp character working against you.

KENNETH M. COLE, Jr.

Courteous Gesture

Today, when the public attention is so largely concerned with what is wrong with the world—with international intrigue and with racial friction—it appears to me that there should be a concerted effort to publicize what is good with the world. The public should know more and more of these instances which tend to reaffirm one's faith in man's humanity to man.

Recently the car in which I was riding had a flat tire about 20 miles from the District. Catastrophe was added to calamity because we had no spare. Most cars passed by unheeding our help signal. A cab driver stopped, lent us his tools, lent us his own spare tire and with his own hands, helped us to make the change. At a filling station in Washington we returned his tire and offered to pay him for his most generous service. This young man refused to accept anything. He said that he was only too glad to help his fellow man. EVELYN D. TYMOUS.

"What People Eat"

Lest your readers of "What People Eat" on the editorial page of August 11 get a biased impression, we wish to set forth a few additional facts concerning food consumption and health.

Considerable information is already available on "What People Eat." As early as 1890 dietary records had been kept by families for investigators interested in the newly developing science of nutrition. Many studies have been made since then by both private and public agencies. In 1936 and again in 1942, the United States Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Labor cooperated to make large sample surveys of the food and other consumption practices of the United States people. The Public Health Service has only recently completed a study of food consumption and nutritional status of several thousands of individuals. Under way at the present time under USDA auspices is a study of the food consumed by urban housekeeping families. Primary purposes of the latter study are (1) to study potential market demand for food and (2) to study the nutritional adequacy of postwar American diets.

Dietary adequacy can be studied by two methods. One is to compare the quantities of the nutrients—the calories, protein, minerals and vitamins—in the food consumed with the quantities considered by nutrition experts to be desirable for optimum health. In this country, the National Research Council's "Recommended Dietary Allowances" are generally accepted as a guide for planning diets and food supplies. The investigations into what people eat have shown that many people are getting less than these recommended quantities of several important minerals and vitamins. It does not follow, however, that all these people are malnourished since individual requirements vary considerably.

The NRC recommended dietary allowances are a safe rule for all of us to follow in food selection since our own requirements are unknown to us. Furthermore, increases in the variety of foods and in the number of processed foods on the market are making it increasingly difficult for people to get the right food through self-selection unless they are given some guidance. For the use of the general public the NRC recommended allowances have been converted from quantities of nutrients to quantities of foods. Many publications, including Federal and State bulletins, contain suggested food plans for good nutrition.

The second method of studying dietary adequacy is to study the physical health of the person himself as well as the food he eats. Correlation of a person's nutritional status (the ascorbic acid level in his blood plasma, hemoglobin measurement, corneal vascularity, etc.) with the food he has been eating during person's nutritional health is a product of what he has been eating over several weeks, even years. Also, complicated though little understood, relationships exist between the utilization in the body of the various nutrients, and the interrelationships of the nutrients. Many of the laboratory procedures still need refinement and their interpretation is frequently still debatable.

Although the science of measuring nutritional status has developed rapidly during the past few years, much more research and interpretation is needed before this type of method of study will indicate very accurately what foods people "ought to eat."

This is not to say that man's food does not affect his health and physical stature. Abundant evidence of this comes from studies of the food habits of different population groups having widely different food customs. And all studies have shown that the diets which make for greater stature, lowered infant and maternal mortality, and greater life expectancy contain abundant qualities of milk, eggs, meat, fruits, vegetables and whole grain or enriched cereals.

Calling Washington

By Marquis Childs

Oregon's Republicans

PORTLAND, OREG.—This State on the farthest edge of the American Continent is more Republican than Maine or Vermont. The Republicans cite figures to prove that Oregon has now moved into first place, ahead of the two States that remained loyal through all the enticements of the Roosevelt New Deal.

There are, for example, 90 members of the Oregon State Legislature, 83 are Republicans. The seven Democrats are a token to show that the two-party system still exists, if only in theory.

In view of this remarkable degree of Republicanism, it was fitting that Oregon, with only six electoral votes, should have decided the Republican nominee and, as most observers believe, the next President of the United States. Thomas E. Dewey's intensive month-long campaign defeated Harold Stassen and gave Dewey the necessary edge for the nomination at Philadelphia.

THE BROAD Republican base in this State is conservative, but not reactionary. It was no accident that the voters chose Dewey over Stassen who argued for outlawing the Communist Party. After all, Oregon Republicans sent Wayne Morse, one of the most outspoken defenders of civil liberties, to the Senate.

The GOP base rests on the long continuing prosperity of the rich Willamette Valley. The farmers in the valley were never more prosperous than today when they are getting record prices for everything they grow.

From the political standpoint, the rural section is rapidly becoming the tail that wags the dog. In the Portland area today are a half million people, roughly one third of the population of the State. Most of Oregon's astonishing growth of 40 per cent in the past seven years has been here where hopeful newcomers from the East have found jobs in developing industries.

Yet Portland with a third of the population has only one sixth of the members of the Legislature. The little group that dominates the GOP in Oregon has successfully resisted all attempts at reapportionment which would give the city a fairer representation.

Republican National Committeeman Ralph H. Cake is head of the Equitable Savings & Loan Association which has just built a handsome new office building faced with aluminum from Oregon's new aluminum industry. Cake's law partner, Lamar Tooze, is also a power in the party. Tooze put Governor Earl Warren in nomination as Vice President at Philadelphia.

The dominant group is careful to keep things under control. Following the tragic Vanport flood, which made 19,000 people homeless, there were demands for a radical solution of the desperate housing shortage aggravated by the disaster. But the Portland housing authority is dominated by conservative real estate interests and the radical proposals were quickly sidetracked.

ON THE DEMOCRATIC side the story is like that in many States. The organization, what there was of it, has decayed. The candidates for State and congressional offices this year—there is no senatorial contest in Oregon—are for the most part a motley crew. There seems to be no leadership.

Yet a rebirth of the party may be possible in the near future. It is heralded by the rise of younger men with ability and integrity. An example is Monroe Sweetland, weekly newspaper publisher at Newport, who has recently become national committeeman. Another hard-driving younger man, Nicholas Granet, is chairman of the Multnomah County (Portland) Democrats.

These emerging leaders believe they would have a greater chance to make a showing if, through reapportionment, a fairer balance could be struck between the city and the country vote. But this seems unlikely to happen.

Significantly the Wallaceites are aiming their fire at these new liberal leaders who would reshape the Democratic Party and make it a really effective political instrument. Thus they have entered a candidate against Howard Morgan, a young Navy veteran who whipped the Communists in the local American Veterans Committee and now is running as a Democrat for the lower house of the Legislature.

Communists and fellow travelers form the hard core of the Wallace Party in Oregon and they are working hard to get out a sizable third party vote. It is believed they will draw strength from church groups and other ardent advocates of peace. But the third party is a tiny sideshow alongside the big Republican tent. And so, too, for this election at least is the Democratic Party.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Bipartisan Understanding

THE BRUSH BETWEEN President Truman and Governor Dewey on the Italian colonies has raised the question of the bipartisan understanding on foreign policy. What does it cover? Is it that in the whole field of foreign policy, past, present, and future, there shall be no public disagreement and debate, but only private and confidential consultation among the party leaders? Or if the understanding is more limited, what is the principle by which conscientious men can distinguish between policies which are within the bipartisan understanding and those which are still fairly open to public debate?

LIPPMANN

The understanding must in the nature of things be limited. For while it is evident that partisan politics should stop at the water's edge, while national unity is essential in our main transactions with foreign powers, it is no less true that our people will not be united, and cannot become solidly and deeply committed to any great policy which has not been thoroughly explained to them, debated by them, and then accepted and ratified. The bipartisan understanding cannot be, as Mr. Wallace is calling it, an agreement to unite the parties by ignoring differing views and suppressing debate. Quite the contrary. It has been an understanding to accept and abide faithfully by the decisions arrived at after prolonged and thorough debate.

The bipartisan understanding has never meant that private consultation was to take the place of public debate in determining the great commitments of the country. The United Nations, the monetary fund, the World Bank, the British loan, the European Recovery Program, the regional agreements with Latin America, the authorization under the Vandenberg resolutions, the policy of rearmament, all the treaties and pacts now in force, are the result of much private consultation to be sure, but the Nation was committed only after long, often tediously long hearings, debates and much voting. The substance of the bipartisan foreign policy has been worked out by the democratic process, and not by evading it or suppressing it.

That is why it is impressive and effective. That is why it is not, as Mr. Wallace charges, conspiracy. And that is why it does not, as Mr. Truman would like to have it, cover the whole field of foreign policy. It covers that part of the field of foreign policy in which national commitments have been settled by the normal constitutional process of the American Government.

THERE ARE, therefore, many subjects of foreign policy on which the Administration has to take a position though they have not yet been examined and publicly debated. Here there is as yet no agreed and settled national policy. There are only the views of officials, which are entitled to great respect and to the benefit of the doubt. But their policies are not finally and conclusively the policy of the United States. And so—however awkward and inconvenient it may be—neither the Administration in Washington nor foreign governments can afford to forget that this country is in truth a democracy and that it cannot be committed in great matters except after public debate.

It would be an abuse of the bipartisan understanding to assert that in such grave matters as the terms of peace with Germany and with Japan, or in our relations with the colonial and dependent peoples of Asia and Africa, the policies of the Administration have the same moral and constitutional authority behind them as have our membership in the United Nations, our support of the European Recovery Program, or our adherence to the inter-American system.

THERE IS A large field where foreign policy is forming but is not yet formed and settled. Here debate is unavoidable and is necessary before sound policies, which will command general and enduring support, can be formulated.

If we survey the whole field of foreign affairs, we shall see, I think, that American policy is most settled where the American interest has long been recognized. Thus the defense of the Western Hemisphere is not an issue. It is a settled national policy on which there are no differences of opinions except now and then on ways and means. It may be said also that as a result of the two World Wars it is now the settled national policy to regard the defense of Great Britain, France, and the low countries as a vital American interest.

BUT ELSEWHERE the position is not so clear. For while there is a general conviction that Germany and eastern Europe and the Middle East should not become part of the Soviet empire, there is not as yet a settled national policy as to what they should be part of. The fact is that the American interest in central and eastern Europe, in the Balkans, in the Mediterranean, and in the Middle East is a very recent thing—as conscious policy a matter of not more than three or four years.

Neither our people, nor our officials, nor our experts, have as yet had sufficient experience to form settled national policies in these regions where ten years ago pratically none of them expected this country to play any considerable part. When we come to regions that have been still more remote from American policy and interest, to the regions like Indonesia, Indo-China, Malaya, Burma, India, and Africa, which have been within empires of Europe, it is even more evident that American policy can be at best an improvisation based on insufficient knowledge.

HERE CONTINUAL public discussion is imperative, and there can be no assumption or pretense that the views or our experts and policy makers are authoritative and untouchable.

So while one may wish that Governor Dewey had stated his views on the Italian colonies to the country as a whole rather than to a delegation of Americans of Italian descent, it is a good thing that he has rejected the idea that the American policy in this unsettled field of foreign affairs can be determined privately and without public debate.

Was Stabbed After Voting, Negro Claims

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 23 (U.P.)—A Negro minister filed an affidavit with the Justice Department today that he was clubbed, stabbed and left for dead while two policemen looked on after he voted in the August 10 Democratic primary.

The Rev. Archie Ware filed the affidavit with United States Attorney General Tom C. Clark through the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. James M. Hinton, State NAACP head, said the object "of course, is to bring criminal prosecution."

Ware named the man he said was the leader of his attackers and the two policemen who, he charged, watched the incident without lifting a hand.

The incident occurred at Calhoun Falls, in Abbeville County, Ware said. Abbeville Sheriff Chester Fleming said he had made a formal investigation of the charges but had not taken any action "because there weren't any eyewitnesses that I could find." He said Calhoun Falls police professed to know nothing of the affair.

Ware, 66, related in his affidavit that he voted at the Calhoun Falls gymnasium, exercising the right assured Negroes by a recent United States Supreme Court decision invalidating the South Carolina all-white primary.

Wallace Reservations Canceled in Louisville

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 23 (AP).—Hotel reservations here for Henry A. Wallace, Progressive Party presidential candidate, were canceled today because officials of the party said the management refused to register a Negro traveling with Wallace.

Wallace will arrive here tomorrow by plane for a rally tomorrow night. Members of his party will be housed in private homes as a result of the inability of the local committee to get rooms in non-segregated hotels.

In New York, Wallace's headquarters said he had canceled his reservations "on principle" when it refused to register a Negro who was not going there anyway.

Progressive Party headquarters said the reservation has been asked for Metz Lochard, Negro assistant public relations officer. He was to accompany the presidential candidate, speaking in Louisville tomorrow night, but will be detained here by other work.

19,044 War Brides Here

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 23 (AP).—Americans have taken home 19,044 war brides from Europe since the war, United States Army headquarters reported today, and travel applications have been approved for 6191 more. Figures for war brides from Britain were not included.

McKellar Says He Will Stay In Party Fold

By the United Press

Senator Kenneth D. McKellar (D., Tenn.), with an implied rebuff to the Dixiecrat revolt, said yesterday he would support the straight Democratic ticket in the November election.

The 77-year-old dean of the Senate said he was "born and bred a Democrat," always has supported the ticket, "and will continue to do so."

The statement drew particular attention because McKellar is a close political associate of Memphis Democratic Leader E. H. Crump, who has publicly announced he will not vote for President Truman.

McKellar refused to discuss the fact that a straight party vote meant a vote for Mr. Truman. He said he would stand on the statement that:

"I was born and bred a Democrat. I have voted for and supported the ticket always and will continue to do so in the future. If that isn't plain English, I don't know what is."

Although McKellar didn't mention it, a straight Democratic vote this year also would mean that he supports the Senate race of Representative Estes Kefauver, who recently beat incumbent Tom Stewart and a Crump-backed candidate in the Tennessee primary.

Republicans have been hoping that Crump's opposition to Mr. Truman would help them carry the State for President this year, as they did in 1928, and that the bitter primary race would improve the prospects of Carroll Reece, the GOP candidate for Senate.

Administration Democrats have been counting on party faithfulness, such as shown by McKellar, to undercut the Dixie revolt against Mr. Truman before the November election.

They cited the McKellar statement and a similar one recently by Senator A. Willis Robertson of Virginia as evidence that Mr. Truman is gaining in the South.

Other Southern Senators have shied from any statements as strong as those made by McKellar and Robertson but have pledged themselves to an all-out effort to regain control of the Senate.

GOP Speakers' Bureau Gets Two Assistants

Senator Jenner (R., Ind.), chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican National Committee, yesterday appointed two assistants.

They are J. George Stewart of Wilmington, Del., executive assistant, and Representative Leroy Johnson (R., Calif), assistant. Stewart is a former member of the House, and during the present Congress has been chief clerk of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia.

Moscow Negotiations

By Sumner Welles

Three Alternatives For Germany

OUT OF THE miasma of recrimination, suspicion and fear that covers the globe, one fact emerges clearly. If war comes, it will be either because of the blundering of the Western leaders or because the Russian dictatorship so decrees. It will not be because the men and women of any country want it.

We are back where we were in 1933. The Politburo alleges that the West is conspiring against the Soviet state. The West knows that Moscow is bent upon world revolution and world domination.

After the Western allies enabled the Kremlin to provoke the Berlin crisis, Secretary Marshall announced our policy in unexceptionable terms: "We will not be coerced or intimidated in any way in our procedures under the rights and responsibilities that we have in Berlin and generally in Germany. At the same time we will proceed to invoke every possible resource of negotiation and diplomatic procedure to reach an acceptable solution to avoid the tragedy of war for the world."

When they entered into the Moscow negotiations were the Western powers fully aware of their limited bargaining power? Did they envisage the essential objectives realistically? The answers to these questions may well spell war or peace.

The Berlin air lift is only a temporary solution. In winter flying conditions the Western powers cannot supply the two million Germans under their care with the food and fuel they must have. Unless the Allies resort to force to break the blockade, the Russians can compel their withdrawal by mere inaction.

If, in return for the termination of the blockade, the Western governments give up their plans for western Germany and the Ruhr, the European Recovery Program must be wholly recast. The recovery of western Europe would be long delayed. The immediate objectives of our own policy would have to be changed.

The West holds a strong card in the acute need of eastern Europe for industrial products, especially machinery. But in power politics the highest trump is force, and no European doubts that the Red Army can overrun Europe.

Can we assume that the Kremlin would relinquish its present strategic advantages except in return for concessions that would further its own objectives?

I agree with the London Times that we have only three alternatives.

The first is "to test the sincerity of Moscow's expressed desire to reestablish four-power control over a more unified Germany"; the second, provided greater confidence can be created between the Soviet Union and the West, is for the four powers to withdraw, and, subject to military and economic safeguards, reconstruct a united and self-governing Germany.

The remaining alternative is the provisional partition of Germany. Under a general settlement the four powers would agree to divide Germany provisionally into two states, with Berlin the capital of a Russian-dominated eastern Germany, and Frankfurt the capital of a western Germany under Western control.

SUCH A SETTLEMENT would imply the voluntary withdrawal of the Western powers from their exposed position in Berlin. It is a bitter price to pay for their own lack of foresight. But should the general settlement involve such agreements as a peace treaty with Austria the cost would be justified.

Until the German people become an independent, contented, productive and peaceful part of the European community, capable of serving as a bridge rather than as a buffer between Russia and the West, no stable European order can be constructed.

But we know that the Kremlin's objectives in Germany are totally opposed to ours. The Soviets want to control Germany in order to dominate Europe. We want a Germany that will not be a menace, but a law-abiding and cooperative member of a European federation. Because of its very nature we know that the objectives and the methods of the present Soviet police state will not change. How can we with safety agree to a four-power control of a unified Germany, or to the emergence of an independent Germany under a centralized government, when we know that either alternative can only mean that Moscow would be given a more favorable opportunity to gain control of Germany, and that the German nationalists would thereby be granted the chance they seek to play off the Soviet Union against the West as their best means of reconstructing a strong militaristic Germany?

An armed truce of indefinite duration is a grim prospect. But what alternative other than the provisional freezing of the present division of Germany offers us any assurance of present and future security?

So long as war is averted, even though the armed truce is long, the United Nations will still have a chance gradually to build up a lasting world order. The present masters of the Russian people will sooner or later be replaced. The Soviet system is not eternal.

If a general settlement is now reached, the third alternative represents the only safe course. The American people may have to face years of tension and of sacrifice. They must refuse to be stampeded into a military crusade against the Soviet Union, to return in discouragement to the isolation for which the Politburo hopes, or to accept agreement merely for agreement's sake. Their patience, their courage and their vision will be put to their severest test.

Truman Works on Labor Day Speeches While Yachting

Aboard Yacht Wanderer, Aug. 23 (AP).—President Truman started the rough draft of his speech formally opening his 1948 presidential campaign today in a staff conference aboard the White House yacht Williamsburg.

The address, at Detroit on Labor Day, will be one of a series to be made throughout the country with the Republican-dominated Eightieth Congress as the principal target.

Reporters following the presidential yacht aboard this chartered vessel got news of Mr. Truman's activity by ship telephone from Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross aboard the Williamsburg.

Mr. Truman will talk from notes, rather than a prepared manuscript, in his Detroit speech and four other Michigan addresses Labor Day. The other talks will be made in Grand Rapids, Pontiac, Flint and Lansing. All the speeches were covered in today's meeting at which the President consulted Ross, Clark M. Clifford, his special counsel, and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman.

Ross said the President "is having a very good time."

After being delayed by fog for two hours, the Williamsburg moved up Chesapeake Bay this morning from Anaapolis, Md., to the Chesapeake-Delaware Canal. The schedule called for an overnight anchorage near Cape Henlopen where Delaware Bay opens into the Atlantic.

Small Papers to Get GOP Ads

Los Angeles, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Republicans probably will spend a great deal more than one million dollars on small town newspaper advertising alone during the fall election campaign, the GOP National Committee's advertising agency announced today.

(Last Friday the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal carried a story saying it had learned the Republicans would spend "more than one million dollars on newspaper advertising.)

Russell Lockwood, president of the Lockwood-Shackleford Advertising Agency, said the money will be spent by State and local Republican organizations in 7000 small dailies and county seat weekly newspapers in 38 States.

The advertising copy, Lockwood explained, will be furnished by the Republican National Committee.

"We will avoid controversial local issues and mud-slinging," Lockwood said.

The amount of advertising carried in each State and the financing arrangements are flexible, he said. Lockwood expects advertising to be heavy in such border-line States as Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The 10 States of the Solid South are not included in the program, Lockwood explained, because they are expected to vote Democratic in any event.

As for financing, Lockwood said the plan calls for each of the 38 State organizations to pay 40 per cent of the total cost in its State. The remaining 60 per cent would be paid by local and county organizations. But these percentages are variable too.

The localized plan was devised, he said, because the national Republican committee felt that, in view of the Hatch Act, it could not spend one third of its total presidential campaign allowance for newspaper advertising.

The Act limits the national committee to three million dollars for its presidential campaigning and one million to its campaign for congressional candidates.

YE GOOD HOST: United Air Lines does not intend to make a separate charge for meals aloft "regardless of what other air lines may do."

Patterson

President W. A. Patterson said in a statement that meals are included in the ticket price "and we intend to continue serving them without a separate charge." Patterson estimated the meals cost United only two-tenths of a cent a passenger mile. The Civil Aeronautics Board is considering allowing the air lines to quit giving free meals, figuring it costs them 11 million dollars a year. The board met last week with 16 air lines to talk about the industry's financial crisis and higher rates.

EXPANSION: The territory served by the Prudential Insurance Co.'s District Office No. 1 in Washington has been expanded to include the Virginia towns of Fairfax, Springfield, Franconia and Lincolnia, it was announced yesterday by District Manager Walter B. He formerly served with the National Recovery Administration, the Farm Security Administration and other Government agencies. At present he is head of the firm bearing his name in the general field of executive management-consultation and service.

BULLISH: Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath in current market letter states: "The stock market continues to appraise earnings of leading corporations on a very modest basis . . . With the outlook favoring a continuation of a high rate of business activity and large employment, together with the prospect of a 'sound money' Administration, it seems logical to expect a greater optimism and confidence . . . We continue to believe . . . common stock commitments in sound, well-established corporations are particularly desirable."

EARNINGS: Sears, Roebuck & Co., reported net income of $49,371,410 for the 24 weeks ended July 16, equal to $2.09 a common share, compared with $39,252,422 or $1.66 a share in the same 1947 period. Sales for the 1948 period totaled $963,103,752, against $790,868,757. Other earnings reports follow:

Russia-Born Wife's Death Being Probed

She Gets Divorce From Film Actor

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
MRS. FRANCHOT TONE
Shown as she testified yesterday during divorce proceedings in Santa Monica, Calif. She charged cruelty and jealousy. They were married in 1941

Port Washington, N. Y., Aug. 23 (U.P.).—An autopsy was performed today on the body of a Russian-born housewife who was found dying yesterday behind a piano in the basement of the Methodist Church.

The autopsy report read: "Cause of death to be determined pending investigation."

Authorities at the Meadowbrook Hospital morgue at Hempstead, N. Y., said a toxicological investigation—a study for possible poisons—would be made. This will take about a week or 10 days.

The dead woman, Mrs. Anna Malania, 34, wife of a Russian-born member of the United Nations secretariat, had been missing since Thursday.

Her husband, Leo, said he discovered his wife yesterday afternoon in the church basement. She died in an ambulance without regaining consciousness.

Malania revealed that his wife, an accomplished musician and a graduate of the Toronto Conservatory, had been given permission by the church's pastor to play the piano and organ there.

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Rita Hayworth and Prince Ali Khan arrived today by automobile at suburban Estoril, exclusive Portuguese beach resort, where Miss Hayworth's secretary reported the film star suffering from "nerves."

"Miss Hayworth came here to rest," her secretary said. "She will remain as long as she is not disturbed."

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—Cotton futures were weak today under pressure of liquidation which carried all positions below the average Government loan on the 1948 cotton crop. Hedge selling also developed in fair volume, although largely outweighed by commission house and New Orleans selling. Final prices were $1.20 to $2.75 a bale lower.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Aug. 23 (AP).—Grains gave another sick performance on the Board of Trade today. By the time the final gong had rung, all corn, oats, soybean and lard contracts, as well as May and July wheat, had tumbled to new seasonal lows. Final prices were around the day's bottoms.

There was a time, around 20 minutes after the opening, when it appeared the steady slump in cereals finally had run into resistance. The market rallied briskly in a good trade. Corn and oats rose above last Saturday's close. Wheat, except July, also firmed.

For a time the market held at the rally's peaks. Then, once again, it went into a dive, dropping below the early morning lows.

Wheat closed 1¾@5⅛ lower; September, 2.17½@2.17⅝; corn was 2¼@3½ lower; September, 1.55½@1.55; oats were ⅝ to 1 cent lower; September, 70¾@71; rye was 2¼@2¾ lower, December, 1.65@1.65½, and soybeans were 6 cents lower, November, 2.43.

Cesare Does Dirty Work

The French Film Makers Dream Up a Literary Lucrezia

By Sonia Stein

I don't know what Lucrezia Borgia is in your book; I never would have picked her out for a baby-sitter. Hower, in the French film now at the Hippodrome, the beautiful Lucrezia turns out to be intrinsically sweet. It's her big Cesare, who gets her mixed up in all the mayhem.

In fact, the picture closes with the little Borgia, now the Duchess of Ferrara, saying wistfully that she hopes to be remembered for her contributions to art and letters. (Will youse please stop that unseemly laughter?)

If your pocket edition of Toynbee isn't handy, may I remind you that Pope Alexander VI had a flock of children before he became head of the church. Lucrezia, Cesare and Giovanni were amongst them. With his father installed as Poe, and a good bit of wealth and power of his own on tap, Cesare gets away with murder, to put it bluntly and tritely.

When he is not busy gobbling his dinner and wiping his greasy fingers in his hair, Cesare is making fast political moves which frequently involve Lucrezia as pawn in the alliance racket. Discarded husbands are disposed of as Cesare finds convenient.

Cesare also disposes of his brother. This irks their father, but not enough to cause untoward confusion.

Very Little Poison

Lucrezia, a helpless dupe in all of the intrigues, isn't strictly faithful to any of her husbands for reasons of her own. But by the time she becomes Duchess of Ferrara she seems to have acquired a love of belles lettres which occupies her passions.

The famous poisoning penchant of the Borgias is dismissed lightly in this picture. Only once is anybody poisoned, and he is just a handy servant being used as a test. Other forms of assassination get a fair workout.

The cast, with Edwige Feuillere as Lucrezia, is uniformly good, although it is doubtful that the script warrants their attention. It is a picture to be seen from the beginning unless you know your Italian history by heart—or unless you plan to attend just to see Lucrezia in her milk bath.

The other half of this double bill of French films has also been seen in Washington before. "Carmen," a sultry item, has been described so luridly in the press that it may prove a disappointment to the audience. Even the sober New York Times called it "A quaintly sex-conscious exercise," and described Viviane Roman as "fleshily ribald and voluptuous."

Well, she sure shows cleavage and a bit besides. But the picture is not out of the bounds of decency. Carmen "wants what she wants when she wants it," as the defunct PM explained, but she tends to be more amoral than immoral.

Miss Romance is indeed one of nature's masterpieces. With large, flashing dark eyes and beautiful teeth, she makes a believable Carmen. After suffering through movies in which the like of Maria Montez and Bette Davis are supposed to have men swooning over their beauty, it's refreshing to see a really bewitching girl play the part of a really bewitching girl.

Opera Background

Based on the Prosper Merimee novel rather than Bizet's opera, the picture uses the exciting opera score as background music.

The story, as if you didn't know, is all about the passionate girl who works in a cigar factory in Seville. When Carmen persuades a young soldier to let her escape after she is arrested for brawling with another girl, he gets punished in her stead. By a bit of clever maneuvering, Carmen then gets him to permit her brigand friends to sneak past his post, and finally to kill his lieutenant.

Now an outlaw, he is in Carmen's hands entirely. Joining her band of gypsy plunderers Jose loses all chance of going back to an honest life. He is hopelessly in love with the bold and ruthless Carmen And for quite a while (considering her usual proclivities) she is in love with him. But with Carmen these things are fleeting, and she falls quite out of love with her morbid Jose.

Destined, as a gypsy fortune teller has told her, to die at the hands of Jose, Carmen accepts her fate calmly and urges the tearful Jose to get it over with in a hurry.

And yet this version of "Carmen" runs most painfully long, becoming rather a weary business at the end. Since Miss Romance is in it from beginning to end, there are saving graces to Rs length.

Jean Marais is a fine, brooding Jose. He gets one big acting opportunity at the close of the film and does a handsome job with it. The other brigands are a bloodthirsty looking lot, and are played down to the last dirty fingernail, by a competent crew.

Theatergoers Will Commute To Baltimore

A thousand or more Washingtonians are expected to subscribe to the Theater Guild and American Theater Society plays this coming season, even though the National will not be offering "live" talent.

Tickets will be for Ford's Theater in Baltimore, and arrangements have been made to have a special bus operate between some point in downtown Washington and the Baltimore theater, for both evening and matinee performances.

If the National should reopen as a play house, and offer the Guild plays, subscriptions will revert to the local theater, according to Bess Davis Schreiner, who handles subscriptions for both cities.

The first play in the group of five is expected to open in October. The musical, "Allegro," is definitely to be among the subscription plays, and others being considered include: "My Name Is Legion," adapted from a play by Jean Pierre Aumont and in which Aumont will appear; "Make Way for Lucia," by John Van Druten; "Jane," by S. N. Behrman, and "Within a Glass Bell," by William Marchant.

Details of the subscription plan can be had from Miss Schreiner by mail or phone, or in person at the Guild office in the National Theater, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from noon until 5 p. m.

Boy, Girl, Both 5, Found With Polio

Two more cases of polio were recorded in the District yesterday.

The District Health Department said they were a 5-year-old boy of the 2500 block of Ontario rd. nw., who entered Children's Hospital Saturday, and a 5-year-old girl of the 1700 block of H st. ne., who was admitted to Gallinger Hospital August 16.

The new cases brought the District total for this year to 39, as compared with five this time last year, and raised the Greater Washington total to 78.

The new cases, reported by 17 counties, made the total for August 376. In July, the figure was 853.

The new reports encouraged the belief of health officials that the epidemic, worst in the State's history had passed its peak The cases reported last week totaled 160, 34 fewer than the 194 of the previous week.

The epidemic's peak was probably reached during the week ending July 23, health officials said.

Bizone Germany Given More Funds by ECA

The Economic Cooperation Administration yesterday added 43 million dollars to recovery funds for bizone Germany during the third quarter of 1948.

The increase brought to 85 million dollars the basic allotment for purchase of food stuffs and other commodities for western Germany during the period. This is more than double the original tentative allocation of 42 million dollars sent earlier by ECA.

Girl Drowns In Capsizing; Four Survive

Honolulu, Aug. 23 (AP).—Richard A. Dole, 40, of the famed Hawaiian pineapple producers, was rescued along with a woman companion by the Coast Guard auxiliary late yesterday after their sailboat was swamped off Diamond Head.

Dole

Two other persons swam more than 2 miles to shore, but a fifth member of the sailing party drowned within a few feet of safety.

The victim was Miss Kathleen Burkhalter, 24, formerly of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Mrs. Barbara Stefee, 25, swam ashore alone.

Mrs. Marie Akers, 25, was unable to swim so far, so Dole stayed with her near the Diamond Head buoy where his 22-foot sloop sank.

Handicapped Girl to Attend N. Y. School

At long last, Mary Louise Arnold, 12, of 630 Park rd. nw., can attend a school equipped to teach her.

She is totally deaf and partially blind, and the problem of her education under compulsory laws has been a stumper for the District. Responsible for that education, the District has no school for such doubly handicapped pupils.

Mary will attend the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind in September, according to an agreement concluded August 3 between the District and the Institute. The District and the Family Service Association will each pay half towards her fifth-year tuition fee of $1200, said W. N. Handiboe, secretary of the District Contract Board.

The girl's special schooling was delayed a year when the District and the Institute failed to reach agreement on tuition terms last year. She lives with her great-aunt and guardian, Mrs. Louise Thomas, at the Park rd. address.

Cheap Drug To Aid Fight On Infections

Hamburg, Germany, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—I. G. Farben officials reported today they have developed a cheap new drug to combat diseases caused by infections. The drug can be produced almost as quickly and cheaply as an aspirin tablet.

The new drug, developed after four years of laboratory work, has been named "supronalum" by chemists of the pharmaceutical branch at Leverkusen, Germany. They said it is given in tablet form and estimated its cost at less than half that of penicillin.

"Supronalum can be used for pneumonia, peritontis, blood poisoning, and many other ills caused by infections," Farben plant officials said. They said they will shortly be able to manufacture an abundance of the drug.

Doctors in Hamburg city hospitals who have been using supronalum, generally known as dema, for more than a year reported excellent results.

Dr. Hans Juergen Hauch of St. Georges Hospital here said "supronalum is an outstanding medicine."

Dr. Hauch said the new drug will not replace penicillin, but "we have many cases in which penicillin has failed and supronalum has brought improvement in a very short time."

"In very serious cases of almost hopeless blood poisoning we use supronalum exclusively," he added. "Supronalum may be taken in any quantities."

New Blood Danger Found In Liver Ills

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 23 (AP).—A new upset in the clotting of human blood in some liver diseases was reported today by Dr. Paul A. Owren of the University of Oslo, Norway.

This upset may bring on excessive bleeding in severe liver ailments, like chronic or malignant hepatitis and cirrhosis of the liver, he said. The patient's blood isn't able to form clots at the usual speed to stop the bleeding.

This slowness in clotting is due to lack of prothrombin and a protein called factor five in the blood. Dr. Owren discovered this factor five years ago. It speeds up the clotting process.

In certain liver diseases, the amount of factor five in the blood is decreased, Dr. Owren told the International Congress on Hematology. Apparently, he said, it is either produced in the liver or is connected in some way with normal liver function.

Dr. Owren reported a new method of isolating and preparing factor five. When the amount in a patient's blood is low, an extra amount can be injected. Their blood then has the ability to form clots at the normal rate. The effect lasts only about three days, however, Dr. Owren said. More of the factor five would then have to be given to restore normal clotting ability.

The lack of factor five has not been found in cases of obstructive jaundice, he said.

Former Employe Charged With Attack on Boss

A discharged employe, who, according to police, tried to shoot his boss, was ordered held yesterday for the Montgomery County grand jury under $1500 bond.

The action was taken in Bethesda Police Court on a charge of assault with attempt to murder against Reginald I. Smith, 42, of 4339 Harrison st. nw.

After a scuffle, Carter disarmed him. Smith had been fired by the ice cream company cashier that day. He was a truck driver.

Arkansas U. Medical School To Admit Negro

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 23 (AP).—The University of Arkansas Medical School will admit a Negro girl student when the 1948-49 school term opens next month.

She is Edith Mae Irby, 20, Hot Springs, Ark., graduate of Knoxville, Tenn., College.

Dr. H. Clay Chenault, university vice president in charge of medical education and hospitals, said there would be no segregation.

Dr. Chenault said the situation presents "quite a problem." But he added the faculty group completely approves her entrance.

When asked if the entrance of Negroes will be continued as a policy of the medical school, Dr. Chenault said:

"In accordance with the policy of the university board of trustees, Negro applicants who are bonafide residents may be considered for entrance to the medical school."

He said the board of trustees set a precedent when it admitted a Negro to the school of law in 1947. He attended classes under a segregation program, however.

The Irby girl placed twenty-eighth in an aptitude test sponsored by the Association of American Medical Colleges. Dr. Chenault said 11 other Negro applicants were rejected as a result of the aptitude test.

Court Backs Education Of Negroes in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Aug. 23 (AP).—A three-judge Federal court agreed today that it was clear Oklahoma should provide equal facilities for education of Negroes.

Judge Alfred P. Murrah of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, ranking member, said:

"The duty of this State is unmistakably clear and we think you ought to get about it."

The court set September 24 as the day it will render the final decision on whether it will force the University of Oklahoma to admit G. W. McLaurin, Negro professor, to take a doctorate in school administration. He was refused admittance last January because of the State's segregation laws.

Two Negro lawyers representing McLaurin attacked Oklahoma's color line in their arguments for an injunction seeking to force their client's immediate admission to the graduate school. They were Thurgood Marshall of Washington, D. C., and Amos T. Hall of Tulsa.

"Here's the meat for your meat loaf, lady!"

What a leftover problem you'd have if you had to buy a whole steer, a whole calf and a whole pig just to make a meat loaf.

That's where the meat packing companies come in. They supply your meat-man with the kinds and cuts of meat his customers want. But they don't stop there.

Meat animals are the sources of many by-products used in vital medicines, such as insulin for diabetes. Other by-products are carefully saved by meat packers. Eventually these are used every day by millions of people—as leather, fine cosmetics, plastics, and scores of other useful articles. Sale of by-products helps pay expenses of preparing meat.

There is no coin small enough to measure the profit of the meat packing companies on a pound of meat. Actually the profit (after all expenses are paid) averages a fraction of a cent a pound.

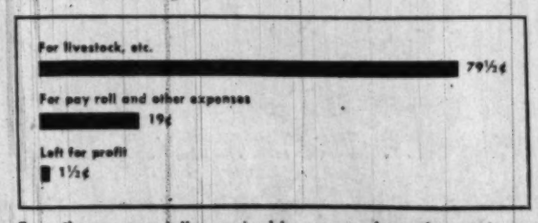
All meat must be sold. Fresh meat is perishable—most of it must be sold within a few days for whatever price it will bring. Prices are established by the public's demand for the available supply.

Research improves products. A recent discovery will soon make it possible to make lard so that it will stay fresh even outside the refrigerator. This also means crackers, cookies and other foods will stay sweet and fresh longer.



From the average dollar received by meat packers, about 80¢ goes to farmers (from which they must pay feeding and other costs). Nearly one-half of what is left goes for pay rolls. Profits average about 1½¢ out of each dollar of sales, or a fraction of a cent a pound.

U. S. Output Nears 248 Billion Record

America's total production of goods and services soared to a record rate of 248 billion dollars a year in the second quarter of 1948, the Commerce Department announced yesterday.

The increase above earliers months indicates that if the rise continued the Nation now is producing at an annual rate of a quarter of a trillion dollars.

The analysis of output in the quarter ended June 30 appears in the August issue of the department's Survey of Current Business. It covers the "gross national product"—the dollar value of all commodities produced and services rendered.

21 Per Cent Increase

The second quarter rate is more than 21 per cent higher than the 1946 actual output of 204 billion dollars. It represents a rise of four billion dollars from the first quarter of this year.

It was achieved in spite of a slight decline of industrial output in June, resulting from shortages of material. This was reported by the department Sunday.

A major part of the rise, however, was a reflection of inflation. This was partically true in consumer goods, where the physical gain in output did not match the rise in value.

Entering into the new record market value of the country's output were these factors:

1. Consumer spending for personal use, after a hesitation early in the year, showed a moderate pickup in the April-May-June quarter.

Durable household goods, "soft goods" and such services as laundry and shoe repair all shared in a three billion dollar increase in annual rate.

Bigger sales of furniture and home furnishings accounted for most of the increased consumer outlays for durable goods. In the "soft" lines, the expansion centered in clothing and food. Here it reflected mainly price movement, rather than an actual gain in commodities consumed.

2. Government spending rose more than $2,500,000,000 above the first quarter rate.

Increased Federal expenditures on European aid, and State and local outlays for highway and other construction were chiefly responsible for this gain.

3. Private investment dropped somewhat in the second quarter. This partly offset the increases noted above. The reduction was due entirely to a slow-down in the building of business inventories.

Purchases of mine, factory and construction equipment increased by one billion dollars, while new private building activity held to the high rate of the first quarter.

4. Net foreign investment continued at the annual rate of four billion dollars reported in the first quarter.

The Commerce Department reported that personal income, on a Nation-wide basis, increased $1,500,000,000 in the second quarter, to an annual rate of 209 billion dollars.

Disposable income—the share of income left for spending after taxes—was boosted in May by the Federal income tax reduction. The department estimated this gave consumers an added three billion dollars annually to spend, while maintaining savings at a rate just higher than that of the first quarter of the year.

Pickets Hold Police Off In Strike

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (AP).—Several hundred pickets today barred office workers from entering a Proctor Electric Co., plant and police were unable to break through the human barricade.

Some 50 office employes retired across the street from the plant after being jostled in their attempts to gain entry to their offices.

W. J. Schwartz, jr., president of the company, said the picket lines thrown around Proctor's two Philadelphia plants today, had halted all operations.

The strike was voted yesterday at a meeting of more than 450 members of local 136, CIO-United Electrical Radio and Machine workers.

Schwartz said the company offered to negotiate on any job in the two plants being paid below the going rate in Philadelphia.

He said most of the positions "are paid above local rates."

President James Price of the union's joint board in the Philadelphia area said "substantial wage increases" are sought and the strike was called only after negotiations had broken down.

Firm Head, Police Chief Attacked by Pickets

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 23 (UP).—Two company officials and police chief Harry Bailes were attacked by pickets today when office workers tried to enter the strike-bound plant of the Aeroquip Corp.

Bailes said 2000 pickets blocked the gates to the factory and company president Peter Hurst was struck on the jaw during a brief melee.

Fred Corwin, Aeroquip secretary-treasurer, was treated for a cut over the eye. Pickets attacked Don Cunningham, local news photographer, smashed his camera and took some of his film.

Bailes said the mass of pickets was drawn from other Jackson-area plants, since Aeroquip employs only 300 workers. The CIO United Auto Workers Union walked out six weeks ago in support of a 13-cent hourly wage increase demand.

Some Back at Work At Atomic Project

Los Alamos, N. Mex., Aug. 23 (AP). Some absentee workers were reported back on the job today after a five-day work stoppage at the Los Alamos atomic project.

The majority of 3500 construction and maintenance workers was still absent, however, as the United States mediation and conciliation service sought to settle the labor dispute.

Walkouts Reported In Phone Dispute

Chicago, Aug. 23 (U.P.).—The CIO Communications Equipment Workers Union, threatening a nation-wide strike of Western Electric telephone installers, said today that "unauthorized" walkouts were breaking out in the midwest and south.

Union President Earnest Weaver said members were walking out because they were "disgusted" with working conditions and dissatisfied with the handling of grievances.

Weaver said he was urging the men to return while the union and company bargain here on a wage dispute.

Dock Workers Stop Work in West Again

San Francisco, Aug. 23 (AP).—CIO longshoremen called another 24-hour waterfront work stoppage today and went ahead with firm plans for a coastwide strike on September 2.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union announced that 75 delegates from Pacific Coast ports had concluded a caucus in San Francisco and were returning to their home ports "to speed preparations" for the costal walkout.

Injunction Asked To Limit Pickets

Chicago, Aug. 23 (AP).—The International Harvester Co. today sought an injunction to limit picketing at its Melroose Park Ill., plant. The suit was filed against Local 6 of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

Unions Won't Stop Opera

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—There will be a 1948 season at the Metropolitan Opera, the chairman of the opera association's board announced today.

George A. Sloan, the chairman, made the announcement after a meeting with representatives of 12 unions whose members work at the opera.

The 1948 season had been canceled recently because the association was not able to reach an agreement with all of the unions on demands for wage increases and because of losses incurred last season.

Sloan said the 1948-49 season would be "16 to 17" weeks long, which is about the normal length. The Met incurred a deficit of $220,000 last year.

Denham Denies ITU Charges That Taft 'Pressured' NLRB

By the United Press

Robert N. Denham said yesterday that charges Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) tried to get the National Labor Relations Board to crack down on the International Typographical Union are "artificial smoke and no fire at all."

Denham, general counsel of the NLRB, made the statement to a news conference during a brief "unofficial" visit to his offices to observe the first anniversary of the Taft-Hartley labor law. He has been ill about two months.

The Typographical Union, which is feuding with publishers in a number of cities over contract terms, charged last week that Taft, Senate GOP policy chairman, had urged attorneys in Denham's office to prosecute the union under the Taft-Hartley Act.

According to the union version, the attorneys were called to Taft's office while several publishers were present. The union has been accused of violating an NLRB order to bargain with publishers in "good faith."

Denham said congressmen always are calling his office to see how particular cases under NLRB jurisdiction are coming along. While he was not here at the time, he said, he assumed that is what Taft had done.

"The charges made by the ITU are artificial smoke and no fire at all."

Members of Denham's staff admitted there had been no official charges against Taft.

"Why should there be an investigation?" one member asked. "He knows what goes on in his own shop."

Reminded that the White House had labelled the charges as "serious" and had promised a full investigation, Denham replied:

"If the facts set up by the ITU exist, then the White House is perfectly right. The only thing is that the facts set up by the ITU never existed."

Denham also:

1. Promised "strenuous prosecution" of any formal charges growing out of "bootleg contracts" between employers and unions aimed at getting around the Taft-Hartley law. He pointed out, however, the NLRB has no authority to "police" the making of contracts.

2. Reiterated that NLRB will go ahead with its plan for polling West Coast maritime unions whether they would rather accept management's last offer than walk out when a Taft-Hartley anti-strike injunction runs out September 2. Harry Bridges has announced his West Coast longshoremen will boycott the poll.

3. Said that while changes in the Taft-Hartley law are a matter for Congress, he has run across several instances where the statute should be clarified from an administrative viewpoint.

NCAA Investigates GW's Athletic Scholarships

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

THE HOTTEST GOLFER of the year is Ben Hogan, who the other day won his seventh major tournament in a row, and the hottest golf fans are those Colorado citizens who watched Hogan win the Denver Open. The heat of the latter, though, is generated chiefly under the collar.

POVICH

Hogan's golf was slick, an 18 under par card that won him the $2,150 first prize and upped his tournament winnings to more than $27,000, but his performance otherwise was pretty shoddy and a whopping disservice to the pro golf business. He's headed for the award as pro golf's most unvaluable player of the year.

When Denver's Mayor, Quigg Newton, stood at th microphone at the tournament's end to award the $2,150 first prize check to Hogan amid an audience that had traipsed over the course in worshipful admiration of his play, there was no Hogan. He had driven off in a twelve-cylinder huff and let the acceptance of the check to a stand-in from the P. G. A. It wasn't courtesy, and it wasn't good public relations in an industry that is somewhat famed for its lack of personable, popular figures.

EVEN BEFORE the presentation ceremony, Hogan was in a sour mood for some reason best known to Hogan. He refused to pose for a newspaper photographer, and turned his back on a fan who innocently asked him for an autograph. He refused to be interviewed by a sports broadcaster, and his actions brought him a panning in the city's newspapers and on the radio.

In Hogan's defense, it must be noted that when he finished with a total of 270, he did not believe that his score would win the tournament, what with Freddie Haas only two holes behind and needing only a pair of pars to beat him out. So he took off before the tournament was finished, but even if convinced that he could only finish second, it might have been nice of him to wait around a bit and at least congratulate the man who beat him.

As it happened, Haas blew up, and Hogan was the winner. But there was no Hogan at the presentation ceremonies to speak a few modest words to the paying gallery whose admission fees had made possible his $2,150 check. Such ceremonies may have lost their importance to Hogan, but to the city officials and the tournament sponsors, the presentation of prizes is always a gratifying part of the show and their only opportunity to take a bow.

THE SHAMEFUL THING is that Hogan can get away with it and shove off gaily for the next tournament, at Salt Lake City, where the good golf that he can play could net him a couple of thousand more from the fans' admission. There isn't any authority in pro golf who will say to Hagan:

"Now you listen here. We don't want any repetition of that Denver thing again, anywhere. These people pay their money to see you guys perform and they're due some courtesy from you. We're trying to build up good will and good public relations for pro golf, and actions like yours are tearing it down. It's tough enough working with you prima donnas and getting big tournament guarantees without you guys giving the fans the brush-off."

George Schneiter, the P. G. A. tournament chairman, who has the power to rebuke or suspend Hogan until the latter's manners at least are amended, is hardly the person to do that. Schneiter was the candidate of the Hogan-led revolt against Fred Corcoran when the P. G. A. changed managers and he owes his nice $1500-a-month expense account to Hogan's support in that election crisis.

UNDER CORCORAN, the pros were taken a long way into more tournaments with bigger financial rewards and new popular appeal. It may be significant that yesterday came the word that San Francisco had canceled its $16,500 Portola Invitation tournament. Corcoran, a public relation-wise operator, wrangled, cajoled and pleaded with the pros to be nice guys and make personal appearances for the welfare of their game and succeeded in great measure with the help of such as Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret, Sam Snead and Vic Ghezzi.

Corcoran used to write into his contracts with tournament sponsors agreements that the four top prize winners would be on hand at the presentation ceremonies. It was one of the things he felt the sponsors were entitled to. He bossed the show for 12 years until Hogan demanded that he be replaced by one of the playing pros, like Schneiter.

Again the golf pros need a man to keep them in line. He's available but for some dim reason they're not hiring him. He's a man with ideas and courage to make them stick and he knows the score of all phases of the pro golf business. He isn't much of a tournament figure now, but Gene Sarazen would improve the pros' public relations, and it couldn't happen to a nicer game.

Bunker Hill Boys Win, 1-0

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Francis Dyer, Harry Kallas and Jim O'Donnell collaborated to give Bunker Hill Post of Washington, D. C., a 1-0 victory over Baltimore in the opening game of the junior American Legion's Region 3 tournament here today.

The Washington team will be paired off tomorrow with Wilmington, Del., which defeated Beckley, W. Va., 10-4 in today's other first round game.

With the teams locked in a scoreless tie, Dyer opened the last half of the ninth inning with a single to left. He went to second on a passed ball. And with two out, he scored Washington's winning run as Kallas rifled a single to right.

O'Donnell, a righthander from Eastern High, pitched a superb five-hitter, exhibiting control, and striking out four.

Braves Beat Bums, 3-2, in 14 Innings

Brooklyn, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Boston Braves scored a tense 3-2 overtime victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today when Phil Masi and Connie Ryan smashed consecutive doubles in the fourteenth inning.

The victory hiked to 2½ games the Braves' first-place margin over the idle St. Louis Cardinals, who moved over the Dodgers into second place. The Dodgers, three percentage points behind the Cards, trail the Braves by three games.

Brooklyn threatened in its half of the fourteenth but couldn't make it.

Duke Snider singled to begin the Dodger fourteenth. He moved to second on a sacrifice. Bobby Houge then passed Arky Vaughan and was lifted in favor of Vern Bickford who got Gil Hodges to fly out and Ed Miskis to foul out to end the game.

Mike McCormick's first home run of the season off starting Dodger Pitcher Paul Minner in the eighth inning sent the game into overtime.

Favorites Win In Net Doubles

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 23 (AP).—With most of the star entries relaxing comfortably on first-round byes, four divisions in the national doubles tennis championships got under way with a slim total of 30 matches completed today at Longwood.

Only one minor upset was recorded, and that came in the men's division, where the fifth seeded foreign team of Tony Mottram of England and Vimi Rurac of Romania, fell before Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., and Gil Shea of Los Angeles, 6—1, 6—3, 6—0.

Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., last year's winner with Jack Kramer, who turned professional, and his new doubles mate, Frank Parker, the Los Angeles veteran, eliminated Paul Napolitano of Bristol and Clark Taylor of Hamden, 6—0, 6—3, 6—3.

The fifth-seeded Sam Match of San Francisco, and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, gained a first round 7—5, 6—0, 6—2 decision over Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Gene Garrett of San Diego, Calif.

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Wilmington, Del., seeking their seventh successive doubles championships, made an impressive start by overwhelming Emily Dorrance and Charlotte Prizer of Philadelphia in two love sets, in one of the five first-rounders played in the women's division.

Virginians Win Traps Honors

Vandalia, Ohio, Aug. 23 (AP).—E. D. Cutherbert and his daughter, Ruth, of Fort Royal, Va., shared in two classes of the Grand American Trapshoot which opened here today. Cutherbert was one of seven in the 200-target open who had a perfect 100 score. His daughter shot a 96, to give them 196/200 and the lead in the father-daughter race.

Forrest McNeir, 79-year-old Texan, competing in the shoot for the thirty-eighth time, broke 99 out of 100 targets to win the veterans' championship for shooters 70 and over.

Fox Decisions Colan; West Stops Jones

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Tiger Billy Fox of Philadelphia and Washington's Sonny Boy West lived up to their favorite ratings last night and won the double feature of the boxing show at Griffith Stadium.

Fox, 169, loafed and fouled his way to an unanimous decision over Johnny Colan, 171, of New York.

A crowd of 4880 saw the show, paying a gross of $12,896.35, net $9,432.44.

Fox's victory came in a booed display of hugging, waltzing, fighting after the bell and low blows. Fox wasn't guilty of all of it but did his share.

He didn't open up until the third round, but from then on he had his own way. He fell through the ropes and took an 8-count in the fourth, but was winging at the end.

Colan, a 9-5 underdog, took a hard beating and was saved a more vicious going-over by Fox's refusal to mix it consistently.

West Starts Slowly

It was the second time in 58 fights that "The Tiger" had gone the distance and Colan's first loss in seven bouts.

Both West and Jones weighed 135½ pounds, but there the similarity ended. A decision victor

Vernon Just as Puzzled as You Are About Hitting Slump

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 23.—In this Class B baseball town today, Mickey Vernon examined his Class B batting average and asked himself the same question fans have been asking about him for the last two years.

What's happened to Mickey Vernon?

Locked in the tight grip of a slump which has seen him tumble from .353 when he led the league in 1946 to his present trifling .266, Vernon couldn't explain it.

"I've done everything, changed by stance, shortened and then lengthened my grip, everything you're supposed to do in a slump," he said, "but still no base hits."

"When I led the league in '46, it meant a nice salary boost for me, but it's also been a headache. I'm not a .353 hitter and I know it. I also know that I'm a better hitter than I've shown in the past two years.

"I should hit between .295 and .310 and if I go any higher, I'll have to have a great amount of luck. If I hit any lower, like I am now, I just can't explain it."

Vernon made it clear that he's not trying to alibi his way out of his slump, but he does think that efforts to make a pull hitter out of him contributed to his batting delinquency.

"When I led the league, I hit the ball where it was pitched," he said. "I was pushing outside pitches into left field and pulling inside stuff to right field. However, I'm trying to pull everything to right.

"I'm no power hitter. I never was. I've never hit over nine home runs in my life, but at the same time I always drove in my share of runs. To my way of thinking, a base hit to left field is just as good as a base hit to right field."

Vernon said he finds today's pitching the same as he did when he was the scourge of the league.

"Some of the pitchers seem easier to hit now than then," he said, "but just dont seem to be able to his them. It may be that I'm losing confidence myself. You're bound to when you go up there time after time and come back without a hit. It's a phychological letdown."

Mickey feels his inadequaces worse than anyone.

"If I were just having a mediocre year, around .280, maybe we'd be much higher in the standings than we are today. I've left an awful lot of runners on base, but what can I do about it?"

He says he doesn't resent Manager Joe Kuhel shifting him from cleanup spot to eighth and more lately second in the batting order.

Does he think a change of scenery would help?

"I won't answer that," he said.

Nats Find B Boys Easy, 15-5

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 23.—Against the Class B Bridgeport Bees, the Nats looked like major leaguers today.

With Ed Stewart smashing a grandslam homer in the first inning, the Griffs had an easy time rolling over the locals, 15 to 5, before about 2500 spectators.

Dick Welteroth, Washington righthander who toiled for the Bees last year, pitched the first six innings gof the Nats with Milo Candini finishing up.

Bridgeport touched up Welteroth for three runs, two of them unearned, and six hits.

Welteroth received a check for $100, about $50 in cash and several other gifts from local fans.

Ruth Leaves 10% of Estate To 'the Kids of America'

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—Babe Ruth set aside part of his estate to be used for "the interest of the kids of America," his will showed today.

The will provided for the home run king's widow and daughter and left 10 per cent of the remainder for "the kids."

It was filed in Surrogate's Court for probate today.

Ruth's attorney, Melvin G. Lowenstein, declined to estimate the total value of the estate.

The will was dated August 9, a week before the baseball idol's death, as he was losing his battle with cancer in Memorial Hospital.

In it he provided for his wife, Mrs. Clara Mae Ruth, and his two adopted daughters, Mrs. Julia Ruth Flanders, North Conway, N. H., and Mrs. Dorothy Ruth Sullivan, New York City.

After Mrs. Ruth's death, one tenth of the residue of the estate will go to "The Babe Ruth Foundation, Inc., a corporation organized under the membership corporation law of the State of New York and dedicated to the interests of the kids of America."

The star of New York Yankee fame insisted on the word "kids"—the term used on baseball sandlots all over America.

"That's the way Babe wanted it," Lowenstein said. "I can't think of anyone else for whom I would have worded it that way."

Ruth stiplated that on Mrs. Ruth's death all but 10 per cent of her share of the estate should be divided equally among the two daughters. The 10 per cent will go to the Foundation.

Ruth already had provided for all three women in a separate trust fund, also of an undisclosed amount, he set up for them in 1927.

Ruth made outright bequests of his baseball souvenirs to the executors of his will, J. Paul Carey, 2d, and Lowenstein; of $5,000 each to his wife and daughters; of $10,000 to his sister, Mrs. Mary H. Moberly, 2712 Winchester st., Baltimore, Md.; and of $500 each to his nurse, Frank Delaney, and his maid, Mary Reith, of New York City.

The Babe Ruth Foundation was established to occupy itself with child welfare, juvenile delinquency and high school competition for sportsmanship prizes.

The Babe Ruth Foundation today announced that it will distribute throughout thousands of high schools a "Babe Ruth sportsmanship prize" and eight to 10 college scholarships a year.

Yanks Crush Chisox, 11-1, For 7 in Row

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—The New York Yankees stretched their winning streak to seven games tonight as Allie Reynolds pitched the world champs to an 11-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Joe DiMaggio highlighted the triumph by blasting his twenty-eighth homer of the season with two on in the eighth inning.

A crowd of 36,764 saw Reynolds coast to his thirteenth victory with a neat seven-hit effort, losing his shutout in the eighth when Aaron Robinson, Reynold's old batterymate, slammed his fourth homer.

The Yankees, in third place, moved to within a game of the second place Boston Red Sox and are a game and a hilf behind the faltering Cleveland Indians, who hold the top rung.

DiMaggio, with his four-bagger and a single, knocked in four runs to bring his RBI total to 112, deadlocking him with the Red Sox shortstop Vern Stephens for top honors in that department.

The Yanks scored three times against their former teammate, Allen Gettel, in the second to clinch the contest. Gus Niarhos' single sent in the first two runs.

Cancellation Of Awards To Players Chief Issue

By Bus Ham
Post Reporter

The National Collegiate Athletic Association is investigating the method of awarding athletic scholarships at George Washington University.

The investigation is being conducted under the NCAA's sanity code, which became effective last January.

Clarence P. (Pop) Houston, Tufts College, told The Washington Post last night that the GWU investigation is under way. Houston is chairman of the NCAA's constitutional compliance committee under the sanity code.

The investigation stems from stories published in The Washington Post in July in regard to GWU's cancellation of seven athletic scholarships.

Coaches Make Decision

The cancellations were based principally on decisions by GW football coaches that the affected players did not make satisfactory showings during spring practice.

The NCAA's investigation so far involves only three of the seven players dropped from the squad. These three are Fullback Paul Skinner, Halfback Howie Williams and Johnny Grinnell, end and center. They were members of the 1947 team.

Houston said over long distance telephone that the investigation was instigated when "clippings of stories in The Washington Post were mailed to us with a request that we look into the situation."

"You might say that this is an investigation of The Washington Post's stories," Houston remarked. "Sometimes newspaper stories are correct only insofar as they go and do not include all of the facts."

No Comment on Penalty

NCAA officials were not in a position to say what the penalty might be should it be determined that GW has violated the sanity code.

NCAA procedure in such a case calls for the appointment of three impartial persons to serve as a fact-finding committee.

Words of the investigation came as a complete surprise to George Washington athletic officials.

Max Farrington, athletic director, said that he had heard nothing about it.

"But we'll welcome the NCAA committee with all the information we have available," he said.

Head Coaches Change

He remarked that he didn't see how the new sanity code would be applicable in this instance, since the code "is not retroactive and these players were in school before the code went into effect."

The GW players involved were dropped in a change of head coaches. John H. (Bo) Rowland in the spring succeeded "Skip" Stahley, resigned.

Rowland canceled the scholarships out of a desire to improve the GW squad with new material.

The Washington Post's stories quoted some of the players as saying that GW's action in dropping them was unfair.

GW athletic officials maintain that the scholarships awarded to the players in question were granted on a make-good basis and not necessarily for four years.

Questions Being Asked

In the NCAA's preliminary investigation, some of the questions being asked, in effect, are:

1. What did the scholarships of Gumbert had relieved Ewell Blackwell in the eighth after the lanky red hurler had again injured his shoulder. Schoolboy Rowe, the losing pitcher, faced only Gumbert.

Suspension Covers Rest Of Meeting

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Marlboro, Aug. 23.—J. N. Barnes' Miss Prime, showing indication of slumping in her form in three recent starts, came back with a rush today and won the Brandywine Purse, featuring the Monday program here.

The fleet 4-year-old filly won with daylight to spare over S. M. Follins' Erato and Mrs. G. O. Russell's Under Cover, third in a field of eight. The E. P. Price entry of Stanley and Virginia Beach drew heavy play, but could not find its way into the money circle.

Miss Prime, capably handled by Jockey Eddie Ballenger, turned in her ninth victory of the year in nineteen tries. She was backed down in the concluding stages of the betting and returned a $5.40 mutuel after going the 5-and-a-half furlongs in 1.07 4/5 over a track slightly dull as the result of rain yesterday.

$528.40 Daily Double

For the second time in five days, the daily double provided a moon-shooter's price. The twin bet returned $528.40 to a few scattered backers of the 1 and 4 combination.

P. A. Rothfuss' Barb Foot won the first race at an 118 mutuel while under the handling of Jockey C. Richmond, and the same boy came back to get a nose verdict in the second race with F. C. Maisel's Chance Fair, a $35 shot.

Jockey Johnny Tammaro, who had regained winning form here, was given a 14-day suspension as the result of an alleged foul which led to the disqualification of A. August's Colored Boy on the Saturday program.

The official ruling read: "For failure to keep his mount Colored Boy straight through the stretch . . . and deliberately impeding the horse Just Great, Jockey J. Tammaro is suspended for the remainded of the meeting and 16 additional days."

The suspension will keep Tammaro grounded throughout the Timonium meeting which follows this track.

The disqualification of Colored Boy was still a subject of debate here today. Many maintained that Colored Boy had more than a length lead on Just Great at all times.

Horsemen agreed that Colored Boy was a bad-legged horse and probably took his own stretch course. Some held the opinion that Jockey Eddie Ballenger, who rode Just Great, put on a "show" and got away with it.

Fox, West Win Bouts

over Herbie in their only other meeting, West started slowly but in the second landed a straight left that spun Jones around and left him groggy.

Jones went down in the third, victim of a straight right and a left on the ear. He absorbed a thorough licking the rest of the round and was down, to be saved by the bell, as the third ended.

West's first long right sent Biff back on his pants as the fourth started. That was all of it.

In the first of the four-rounders, all local preliminaries, Puggy Lyons, 137½, was awarded to TKO over Billy Untz, 135, after 2:37 of the second round. Untz complained of an aching stomach.

Walter Hamm, 128½, was out on his feet when Burt Wicks, 127, got a TKO at 2:04 of the third round.

Down Go Butter, Eggs, Coffee, Cotton, Wool, Cocoa and Lard!

Chicago wheat futures were down from 1¾ to 5½ cents a bushel, with May and July deliveries lowest for the season.

New Lows for Corn, Oats

Corn fell 2½ to 3½ cents and oats ⅝ to 1 cent, with all deliveries at new seasonal lows.

Heavy selling spread in grains when fears developed that the huge corn crop will swamp storage facilities, and that the Government support levels on grains may be lowered next year.

Cotton futures in New York were down $1.20 to $2.75 a bale, with a rush of late selling that forced prices to their lowest points of the day as the market closed. All deliveries were below their 1948 loan level.

Soybeans and lard dropped to their lowest point of the season in Chicago trading.

Butter Slips Down

Butter in the New York wholesale market declined ½ to 1½ cents a pound, cancelling out the advances made last Thursday and Friday. Prices ranged from 66 to 77 cents a pound, depending on grade.

Chicago butter futures were down around 2 cents a pound, while eggs in the futures market declined as much as 1½ cents a dozen.

Women's Shoe Prices Cut by Manufacturer

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 23 (U.P.)—Prima, Inc., manufacturers of women's shoes, today announced price reductions ranging up to 14 per cent on some styles in the face of general price boosts in the shoe trade.

Mark B. Deitsch, president, said the reduction was made possible by "improved production procedures, national popularity of the line, plus the ability to keep the plant operating at capacity even in the face of cautious buying by retailers."

AFL Council Urges 3-Way War on Prices

Chicago, Aug. 23 (U.P.)—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor called tonight for a united drive by business, agriculture and organized labor to bring down high prices.

Opening a 10-day meeting here, the council asked the Government to weld the three groups by calling "a series of conferences to work out a voluntary program for the economic security of our country."

"The objectives of such a program should be to bring about an immediate halt to all price increases and a gradual reduction of prices," the council said.

Both Houses Will Probe Furnace Deal

Detroit, Aug. 23 (AP).—Henry J. Kaiser today charged "a malicious pressure drive, filled with absolute untruths, is being waged in an attempt to scrap Kaiser-Frazer Corporation's contract with the Government for acquisition of the Cleveland blast furnace."

The automobile manufacturer's statement came as a double-barreled congressional investigation into the deal was taking shape in Washington.

Both the Senate Small Business Committee and the House Procurement and Building Subcommittee, headed by Representative Bender (R., Ohio), have scheduled hearings to start Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Kaiser directed his reply to Raymond L. Collier of Cleveland, executive vice president of the Gray Iron Founders' Society. Collier, criticizing the leasing of the Government-owned blast furnace by the War Assets Administration to Kaiser-Frazer, said the shift from Republic Steel "would precipitate a major industrial slump throughout the East and Middle West."

The Kaiser-Frazer Board chairman said statements by Collier "are absolutely untrue, misleading, unwarranted, malicious and damaging."

"I expect to testify before the Senate Small Business Committee and the Bender committee and I will request that you be required to appear before them and under oath state to them from whom you obtained your misleading information," Kaiser said.

"Republic advised the War Assets Administratioh early in August that on August 10 it would advise all of its customers that it would cease operating the furnace on August 31. I will also ask the committee to require you to testify why, so far as the record is concerned, no protest was made by your organization until the Kaiser-Frazer contract with the Government was announced. It would appear that this action might be an attempt to injure Kaiser-Frazer and 35,000 stockholders.

"Your estimate of one million people and upwards that will be laid off can, on the same basis, be topped by Kaiser-Frazer with respect to employment. . . . There is a definite shortage of steel. So far as I now, the War Assets Administration is not an allocating agency but does have the responsibility of seeing that the furnace continues to operate. Republic refused to operate it. Kaiser-Frazer agreed to operate it and, as many of your members know, they likewise depend on Kaiser-Frazer for their continued operation."

Goes to States

U. S. Granting $10,780,620 Wildlife Aid

By the United Press

The Federal Government is ready to allot $10,780,620 to the States for restoration of wildlife resources during fiscal 1949.

The States must contribute 25 per cent of the cost of projects. Programs submitted by the States are approved by the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service. Money for the grants is collected through an 11 per cent excise tax paid by manufacturers of sporting arms and ammunition. Funds are divided among the States on the basis of comparative land area and the number of paid hunting license holders.

Maryland will get $71,642 and Virginia, $199,630.

Michigan and Texas head the list, with grants of $539,041 each. Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug allotted $45,000 of the total to projects in United States territories, $25,000 to Alaska, $10,000 to Hawaii, $5000 to Puerto Rico and $5000 to the Virgin Islands.

Lobbying Investigation Unit Taken Into Criminal Division

By the United Press

The Justice Department's special lobbying investigation unit has been made a permanent part of the criminal division, it was revealed.

Alexander M. Campbell, former United States district attorney for northern Indiana, who recently was sworn in as chief of the criminal division, will be in chage.

Officials described the transfer as "routine," but it marks the first time a lobbying unit has been included permanently as a part of the Justice Department setup.

It was organized several months ago under Irving Kaufman, New York, to prosecute violators of the 1946 Registration Act requiring all lobbists to register with Congress. Several State agriculture officials and a member of a New York cotton brokerage firm already have been indicated and hearings for them are scheduled for early September.

Kaufman recently resigned, handing Attorney General Tom Clark a detailed report which has never been made public. Officials refused to speculate on its contents, but pointed out that it is "common knowledge" there are "hundreds of lobbyists in Washington, some of whom are not registered."

Flemming Praised For 10-Year Job In Civil Service

Arthur S. Flemming last night sang his swansong as the GOP member of the Civil Service Commission and one of the ablest officials in the Federal Government. He leaves this weekend to take over the presidency of Ohio Wesleyan University.

He called for a stronger career Civil Service system, improved supervision in Federal offices, and decentralization of the Government's operations before more than 700 people who gathered at the Mayflower to honor him with a testimonial dinner.

The youthful official heard himself praised for his 10 years of service on the Civil Service Commission. Former President Herbert Hoovert had this to say in a message read to the gathering:

"I think it is a great pity that somebody has offered him a better job and the Civil Service Commission will therefore be a great loser." Mr. Hoover added that he took some satisfaction in knowing that Flemming's "fine abilities" would be of continued service to the Nation as a member of his committee on Government reorganization.

Leonard D. White, a Chicago University professor whom Flemming succeeded on the commission, had this comment:

"I have no doubt that he (Flemming) and Theodore Roosevelt deserve to rank as the two genuinely great commissioners who have held this office."

Chairman Langer of the Senate Civil Service Committee foresaw the time when Flemming would reenter the public service, possibly as Governor of Ohio. Said he:

"His vigorous and unequivocal way of doing things could only come from studious attention to all phases of his job . . . We all owe him much more than we can repay."

From Postmaster General Jesse Donaldson: "Mr. Flemming is one of the ablest of all Government officials. His leaving is a distinct loss not only to Civil Service but to the Government as well."

Tributes were paid Flemming either in person or by letter from a score of others including Defense Secretary Forrestal, Attorney General Clark and Frances Perkins and Harry B. Mitchell, his Civil Service colleagues.

In leaving Government, Flemming made these suggestions on how the service could be improved:

1. By spending more time, energy, and resources on selecting citizens for posts in the career service. He said mistakes have been made which could have been prevented by the right kind of character investigation before the people were put in positions of trust;

2. A better promotion system must be developed. He said promotions were still too much of a hit-or-miss proposition; that there was still too much of an opportunity for two-by-four bureaucratic bosses to develop political kingdoms of their own at the expense of good government;

3. Some administrators need to develop stiffer backbones and fire people who have no business in the Federal service. However, he cautioned that we need to make sure that the service is protected against arbitrary dismissals of competent persons simply because some person in a position of authority doesn't happen to like him;

4. To raise the salary ceiling for career civil servants to at least $15,000;

5. That positions of career assistant secretary for management should be created in each major department and agency, and,

6. That a better job must be done of letting the people know that in the Civil Service are many men and women who, without thought of self, are rendering the maximum service to their fellow men.

STORY: M. L. Wilson, the director of Agriculture's Extension Service, recently was given an assignment in Greece in connection with the Greek aid program. It just happened that his official title couldn't be translated exactly into the Greek language. The Greeks didn't have a word for "extension."

So, the Greeks did the best they could and named him the director of the Agricultural Stretching Service. Actually, the title is quite descriptive. Wilson went to Greece to tell the farmers there how to stretch their resources into a greater production of food.

4 Area Men Indicted On Charges Of Murder

Jury Blames Women, Children, Gaming Rows in Slayings; 29 Others Held

William C. Parker, 34, of 1626 Church st. nw., was charged with first-degree murder in the fatal shooting July 19 of Russell Sykes, 32, of 1627 Church st. nw. According to police, Parker confessed to the shooting stating that it resulted from an argument over children. Parker said, according to police, that his 7-year-old son came home with a broken arm and cried he was beaten by one of Sykes' sons. Parker went to see Sykes about this, and "run hot" enough to commit the crime, police said.

Dice Game Slaying

Johnny Haris, 38 no known address, was charged with fatally shooting his estranged wife, Louise Harris, 21, of 32 F st. nw., on June 9. Police said there were two versions of the motive. One was money, the other being another man.

Richard B. Wilson, 32, of 50 15th st. se., was charged with fatally stabbing Richard E. Brown, 49, of 2931 Pomeroy rd. nw. According to Wilson, his wife had been seeing Brown and when confronted with this, Brown stabbed Wilson. The defendant said he acted in self-defense.

Felonious Assault

Jett P. Mundy, 51, of 923 I st. nw., a barber, was charged with shooting and then pouring lighter fluid on Eddie M. Barnes, 34, of 1023 22d st. nw., in attempts to kill him. The felonious assaults occurred on the afternoon of June 2 near 10th and I sts. nw.

Harold J. Busk, 19, of Fort Ord, Calif., was charged with embezzling $596.09 from the New Colonial Hotel, Inc.

Judge Warns Assaulters With Weapons

"I see," he commented yesterday, "that The Washington Post reported that over the weekend, 12 different kinds of weapons were employed here. I'm serving warning now that I'm going to be tough on persons found guilty of assaults with weapons."

He made the remark shortly before imposing a 120-day jail sentence on Sylvester L. Thomas, 21, of 525 Alexander pl. ne. Thomas was charged with beating and shooting Mack Williams, 29, of 636 Callan st. ne., on May 29.

Williams said he had been arguing with Thomas. The next thing he knew something hit him and his nose was bleeding. Williams said he didn't hear a shot. Nor did Alberta Thomas, who was upstairs sleeping at the time of the assault in the Callan st. house.

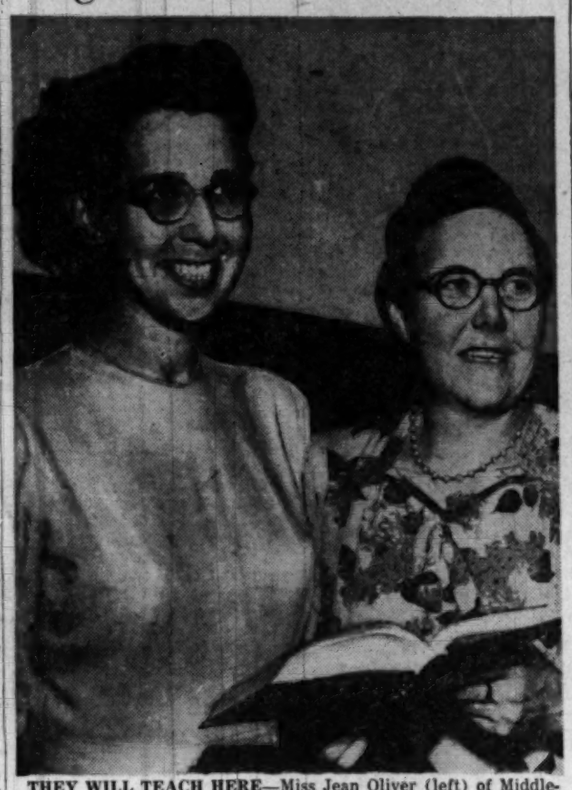
But Williams' wife, Rachel, said she was across the street and heard the shot. "My poor dishes," she moaned in describing the scene of the fight between Thomas and Williams.

Denfeld Will Speak At Medal Ceremony

Admiral Lewis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, will speak at 7:30 tonight at Fairfax High School when campaign medals will be presented to overseas veterans.

Sponsored by the Fairfax Blue and Gray Post, No. 8469, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the program will include a concert by the United States Army Band.

Two of British Teacher Group Assigned to Schools in Area



THEY WILL TEACH HERE—Miss Jean Oliver (left) of Middlesex and Miss Gladys Oliver of Norfolk, English schoolmarms, who will teach in nearby schools in an exchange arrangement. Miss Jean will teach English at Bladensburg High School, Miss Gladys will have the second grade at the Potomac School. They are not related

That was the impression gained last night from two of the 114 exchange teachers visiting here from England. The two interviewed will be assigned to schools in the Washington area.

Principals at Bladensburg (Md.) High School and Potomac School, 2144 California st. nw., will have as additions to their faculties for one year, Miss Jean Oliver and Miss Gladys Oliver, respectively. They are not related and met for the first time last week when they arrived in New York City.

Washington is playing host to the group of 102 women and 12 men, who are staying at American University, before they depart for teaching assignments in 29 different States.

"I'm particularly interested to see how American schools handle their children," said Miss Gladys Oliver, who has taught for 27 years in British schools.

Her specialty has been instruction of children between the ages of 5 and 7, and she will be assigned to teach the second grade at Potomac School.

As for first impressions, "we've met nothing but kindness over here," she said, adding that "the vastness of America and the friendliness of its people" have been particularly discernible.

Miss Jean Oliver, who began teaching 10 years ago at the age of 20, will work with first-year high school students at Bladensburg. Her duties call for teaching English, but she is qualified by training and experience to teach art as well.

She promptly made an appointment for Wednesday with the principal of Bladensburg High to discuss her new position, but modestly predicted that "there will be so much to learn, I don't know whether I can do it well enough."

One thing is definite in her plans. She will visit Niagara Falls before returning to England because "I've promised myself I would, and I hear it's the next best thing to Victoria Falls."

Court Clears Lumber Man And Builder

A Bethesda lumber dealer and a Washington contractor were found innocent in Bethesda Police Court yesterday of charges of larceny after trust, growing out of a financial involvement in connection with construction of a $21,000 Four Corners, Md., home.

Cleared of the charges were Roger W. Eisinger, 52, of 4538 Cathedral ave. nw., owner of Eisinger Mill & Lumber Co., Bethesda, and Howard E. Redding, 49, of 1411 Chapin st. nw., the contractor.

They were charged July 22 on complaint of Frederick E. Buscher, 4522 Rosedale ave., Bethesda, a Safeway employe, who claimed a shortage in funds he said he had entrusted jointly to Eisinger and Redding to help finance construction of a $21,000 home Redding was building for him near Four Corners.

Buscher testified he paid $17,200 to Redding towards the home but refused to pay the remainder when Eisinger advised him to hire an attorney and terminate his contract with Redding.

In dismissing the charges, Judge Warren Browning declared: "It looks like this is an outrageous attempt to use the criminal court to collect a private debt. 'I'm at a complete loss to see anything indicating criminality in this case."

Representing Eisinger were attorneys Robert Bell, Austin Carlin and F. Archie Meatyard, jr. Attorney for Redding was F. Barnard Welsh and the prosecutor was State's Attorney Walter W. Dawson.

Colasanto Says Beverley Misinformed

Alexandria's City Manager Nicholas A. Cólasanto yesterday said Councilman-elect Marshall J. Beverley was "misinformed" when he charged the city's shop had only one mechanic and two helpers to keep motorized equipment in shape.

Colasanto yesterday said the shop has one first-class mechanic, three mechanics and one helper and that all work presently is up to date. He said he had refrained from hiring another authorized mechanic and helper and an authorized shop superintendent to save city funds.

To Beverley's complaint that much of the city's motorized equipment is always outdoors exposed to the weather, Colasanto replied that plans are being drawn now for a combination shed and warehouse. Work will start on the shed this year, he said.

But much of the equipment, he said, will not be covered. "Do you think I should put a steam shovel in a garage?" asked the city manager.

Beverley also had charged Colasanto had given Smoke Control Engineer John J. Kelley additional duties as superintendent of maintenance. Beverley contended the smoke control job should be abolished.

Colasanto said he had directed Kelley to coordinate activities at the shop and to survey conditions there with a view toward improvements.

The city manager declared: "I have told Mr. Beverley I would be glad to give him information on any aspect of the city government. So far, he hasn't approached me."

'Axis Sally' Likely To Face Jury Within 10 Days

Treason charges against "Axis Sally" will probably be presented to the District grand jury within 10 days, the Justice Department announced yesterday.

John M. Kelly, jr., special assistant to the Attorney General, said, "We are moving ahead with routine preparation of the case and with as much dispatch as possible to present the facts to the grand jury."

"Axis Sally," in real life Mildred Elizabeth Sisk, alias Mildred Elizabeth Gillars, broadcast for the Nazis during the war. Her programs were beamed at American troops and reminded them of the comforts of home and of the company of girls.

5-Year-Old Dies Under Wheels of Coal Vehicle as Playmate Is Hurt

Total Traffic Deaths 1947.....72

A 5-year-old boy was killed yesterday when struck by a coal truck as he and two companions ran across Half st. between L and M sts. se.

He was Raymond T. Whittington, 70 M st. se. One of his friends, Frank Boone, 9, of the same address, was slightly injured. Seven-year-old George Boone, brother of Frank, escaped injury.

Driver of the truck was Mack Williams, 50, of 52 Fenton st. ne. He is employed by the Bureau of Federal Supplies, Treasury Department, and was operating from the Fuel Yards Division at 42 I st. se.

The two survivors told police they had been playing on the west side of Half st., watching some workmen pour concrete. They said a man told them "if we didn't go away he was going to get a police dog after us."

The Whittington boy was found in front of the truck's left front wheel. He suffered a fractured skull, internal injuries, fractured ribs on the right side and lacerations of the scalp. He was the son of Mrs. Mary Whittington.

Mrs. Sarah Lahr, 32, of 1122 S. Thomas st., Arlington, Va., an active worker in Arlington Hospital's fund drives, was in that hospital in fair condition last night after she was struck by an automobile at Columbia Pike and S. Glebe rd. in Arlington. She was reported suffering possible skull fracture, cuts and bruises.

Police said Mrs. Lahr told them she was struck while running across Glebe rd. to catch a bus. Police listed the driver as Allan F. Blair, 34, of 4705 S. 29th st., a U. S. Navy Department employe.

3 U. S. Workers Injured In Fatal Route 40 Collision

Three Federal employes from Greater Washington were among 12 persons injured in a seven-vehicle crash which killed three persons yesterday on Route 40 near Essex, Md.

Baltimore police said last night a 28-year-old Tappahannock, Va., man came to the Central Police Station there and identified himself as driver of the lumber truck which smashed into six cars on the dual-lane highway. The seventh car piled into the wreckage.

The truck driver, Robert Payne, who had been missing since the wreck, told police he had crawled into a field after the accident and lapsed into unconsciousness. Several hours later, he said, he came to, then hitchhiked to Baltimore.

The big tractor-trailer first collided with the car driven by Moe Surowitz, 729 Somerset pl. nw., traveling in the opposite direction. His daughter, Miss Irma Surowitz, 21, Labor Department employe, was treated for back injuries at a hospital and released. Mrs. Surowitz, also a passenger, and her husband were not injured.

Agency Workers Hurt

A car driven by John J. Tarafas, 36, of Northampton, Pa., plowed into the roadblock caused by the truck and the other cars. He was treated at a hospital along with a companion, Thomas Eberhart, 29, of Bethlehem, Pa. Tarafas, a Social Security employe, and Eberhart, who works for the State Department, were returning to Washington.

Those killed were Milton K. Kaufherr, 31-year-old New York jewelry salesman; Dorothy Carter, 24, and Mrs. Dorothy Carter, 39, of Baltimore.

John Henry Scarborugh, 32, also of Baltimore, was trapped in the truck cab when it turned over and was burned by dripping battery acid.

Met Truck Driver in Tavern

Corpl. Charles Knorlein of Baltimore County police, said Scarborough reported meeting the truck driver in a Baltimore tavern before the accident.

The truck was operated by the L. & W. Transfer Co. of Tappahannock, Va. The company said it was driven by a man named John Payne when it left Tappahannock, but that he had not checked in with a report of the accident.

The crash occurred about 5 miles northeast of Baltimore at a spot where repairs to one section of the dual highway caused the southbound lane to carry traffic in both directions.

According to police, the lumber truck first struck Surwotz's car and then crashed into that driven by Kaufherr bouncing three others off the highway. It then turned over on an automobile driven by Isaac Brown, 48, of Baltimore.

On the critical list in hospitals were Myrtle Bromley, 25, and Carol Bowen, 12, both passengers in Brown's car. Another of the injured was William Floyd, 38, of Forest Hills, Long Island.

War-Blinded Veteran's Ticket Fixed

A war-blinded veteran was among the 85 persons whose traffic tickets were adjusted by the police department last week.

He is Charles E. Johnson, 22, whose car was ticketed because it was parked for more than 18 hours in front of the veteran's home, 321 I st. se.

Johnson, who was blinded while in the Philippines, explained to police that his "chauffeur"—Mrs. Johnson—was unable to move the car because they were momentarily expecting an addition to the family. Also, the car had a flat tire.

Earl V. Sears, 21, of 3501 15th st. nw., overparked when he was delayed while giving some blood at Sibley Hospital, he told police, who overlooked the infraction.

One adjustment was made for diplomatic reasons, when Miss Eve R. Napier, 58, 2224 20th st. nw., an employe of the British Embassy, parked in a 4-6 p. m. no parking zone.

Twelve of the adjustments were for strangers to the city who were unfamiliar with regulations, while 11 had good records and were let off. Five involved disabled cars, and one rule breaker was ill at the time.

Army Noncoms To Get Quarters in Arlington Farms

Georgia Hall, former quarters for G-Girls at Arlington Farms, Va., will be converted into 79 family units for housing harrassed Army noncons and their families, it was announced yesterday.

Bootlegger Faces Sentence Today In Assault Case

David Douglas Davenport, 32, an admitted bootlegger, will be sentenced in Municipal Court today on a charge of assaulting a Washington Terminal policeman.

Judge John P. McMahon refused yesterday to grant Davenport a new trial on the assault charge. At the conclusion of the hearing, delay of sentence was given until today in order that a bondsman should be on hand when and if Davenport appeals the case. He is represented by Attorney Saul G. Lichtenberg.

Group Votes 'Clean Block' Campaign

Community Council Of Census Tract 48 Opens War on Slums

The Community Welfare Council for Census Tract 48 voted last night to sponsor a "clean block" campaign as the first step in a projected program to eliminate "deplorable" living conditions in the area.

Composed of about 20 residents of the 311 block tract, bounded by 7th st. and New Jersey, New York and Florida aves., the council also approved appointment of two committees to study substandard housing and recreation facilities in the community.

The cleanup campaign, which will center on efforts to educate residents of the area on the importance of "helping themselves," will be directed by Isaac Bannister, who for the last 13 years has conducted similar annual campaigns for the Afro-American newspaper.

His committee will be composed of representatives of all churches in the community.

The committee to study housing will be headed by Charles C. Beckett, executive secretary of the Urban League of Washington, while the committee on recreation will be under the direction of John L. Young, an assistant superintendent of recreation for the District. Both chairmen will select their own committeemen.

The study of housing conditions was approved after James M. Montgomery, council chairman, told of one instance in which five men are living in a small substandard house without indoor toilet facilities and paying $5 apiece each week for rent.

The committee, after making its survey, will consult with rent control officials" in an effort to determine what can be done to eliminate substandard housing conditions.

The group's efforts to clean up the tract last night was given the suport of the Urban League by Beckett, who said his group would lend "every possible suport" to the project.

Reports of the newly formed committees will be submitted to the next meeting of the council on September 13.

Dr. Alfred Bilman, late Minister here of the Latvian government-in-exile, left his entire $35,000 estate to his widow, Mme. Haline Bilmanis, according to petition for probate of his will filed yesterday in District Court. Dr. Bilmanis died July 28 when vacationing in Rehoboth Beach, Del.

Suspended Auto Loan Firm Needs No License at 6% Fee

Money lenders here can make loans at 6 per cent or less while their licenses to make loans in excess of 6 per cent are suspended, Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King ruled yesterday.

He made the decision in declining Municipal Court prosecution of Auto Loan Service Co., 638 Pennsylvania ave. se. The company is now under suspension for keeping incomplete records, and a complaint was made that the company is still in business. However, the rate of interest during the suspension period is only 6 per cent, according to witnesses.

King said that under the law, you don't need a license unless you exceed the 6-per-cent-a-year interest rate. You can charge up to 1 per cent a month if licensed, however.

Attorney William R. Lichtenberg, who represents a number of auto loan companies, complained at the hearing before King that the money lenders were being treated unfairly.

"We try in every way to cooperate but are being kicked around. We willingly let the authorities see all of our papers concerning transactions and then find ourselves charged criminally on the material we submit," he said.

Tht auto loan dealers as a whole here obtained licenses for money-lending a year ago. Since then, authorities estimated, complaints of sharp practices have decreased from 50 to 90 per cent.

'Jody' Miller Wins Area Beauty Title And $4000

Marilyn Douglas Second in Local Competition for Miss America Crown

"Jody" V. Miller, 22, and an optic treat from Arlington, last night was crowned Miss Greater Washington and thus became this city's aspirant for Miss America.

She won the coveted title, its opportunities, and some $4000 worth of immediate awards in finalist judgings last night at the Capitol Theater among a field of 11 of the area's popularly selected beauties.

Second place went to Marilyn Douglas, 21 last Sunday, a Kappa Gamma at American University, of 1420 16th st. nw., while third place was awarded Corrine Joy Skeels, 20, of 3539 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria.

Winner Also Sings

"Jody," whose christened name is Joann, sang and displayed her "face, form and personality" to win the judges' nod. She lives at 3834 North 9th st., Arlington, and has enjoyed a professional singing career for the past two years. She is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Gladwell, 505 N. Garfield st., Arlington, and Albert F. Miller, of Wilmington, Del.

Her prize-winning rendition was "An Old, Old Castle in Scotland." Her prize winning features include:

Lustrous and wavy brunette hair; a full-faced, toothpaste ad smile that wows them; a shape that dittoes, and a personality which proved unruffled even before newsmen and photographers. More statistically, she is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 122 pounds, and measures the following at the pertinent points: Bust, 35; waist, 23, and hips, 34.

Started at Cafe Cairo

Miss Miller started her professional singing career at Cafe Cairo here two years ago with a two-week engagement. She's continued it "off and on" since at the Madrillon Cafe.

A graduate of Washington and Lee High School, Arlington, she has attended Harrisonburg (Va.) College courses in home economics and voice; one semester at George Washington University, where she appeared in their "Ladies In Hades" production, and three summer terms at Catholic University for training in speech and drama. It follows that her ambition is to conquer the entertainment world.

Runner-up Miss Douglas, an employe of the United States Patent Office who also sang for her part in the contest's talent division, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Douglas of Syracuse, N. Y.

Miss Skeels Third

Miss Skeels, third-place winner, had won her right to appear in last night's finals by snaring an earlier "Miss Shirlington" beauty, talent and personality contest. Her talent contribution was entitled "Artistic Sketches."

The Miss Washington Contest was sponsored by Radio Station WWDC, and its last night's winner is scheduled to appear as guest today on Milton C. Ford's "Breakfast Club" program of that station. Her chief award, a $3500 Frazer-Manhattan automobile contributed by the Kaiser-Frazer dealers of Metropolitan Washington will be presented to her tonight at Griffith Stadium, at "Miss Greater Washington" ceremonies.

Roy Davis Heads Republican Unit

State Senator Roy Tasco Davis, of Silver Spring, last night was elected president of the Dewey-Warren-Beall club of Montgomery County. He was chosen at a meeting of 100 county GOP leaders and workers at the home of Adolph Gude, near Rockville.

Other officers elected: H. Brooks Perring, Takoma Park, Gilbert Gude, Rockville, and J. Paull Marshall, Chevy Chase, vice presidents; Mrs. Esther Fleishell, silver Spring, secretary, and Kurl Hanson, Bethesda, treasurer.

Officers of the new club will meet with the Republican State Central Committee next Tuesday to map future plans.

Franklin Park Crusader Fails To Take Up Stand as Scheduled

He languished, instead, in a police cell, unable to immediately raise $1000 bond on a new charge, that of "threats to influence a witness." Police said Warren's latest arrest was on an affidavit sworn to by Alice M. Patterson of 1712 Kenyon st. nw.

Early last evening, Warren, 42, and a lawyer, complained bitterly that he was arrested none too promptly after his "clearance" by a sanity commission at Gallinger Hospital at 10:30 a. m. He said he was "held" at the hospital till 4:45 p. m. "to give police time to get the affidavit." Bond of $1000 was set on the threat charge.

The lawyer was arrested at the park on August 13 on a charge of making obscene remarks to a woman, whom Warren identified as The Witness. He said he "gladly consented" to be sent to Gallinger Hospital because "it gave me a chance to study institution care of mental cases." Earlier that week he had been arrested and released for later trial on a charge of soliciting alms.

Warren claims he is founder of a corporation called the Franklin Park Civic and Humane Association. Its purposes, he said, are to aid improverished habitues of the park and espouse such national measures as a uniform mental hygiene act and a uniform divorce law.

Last evening he blamed his series of troubles on jealousies of other Franklin Park orators: "who are sore 'cause I've been getting all the crowds."

Skunk in Drain Pipe Not Police Problem

It'll take more than Sani-Flush to clear up the odors coming up from a drainpipe below the apartment window of Mrs. Sylvia O'Neil Ross, 4029 7th st. ne., she protested yesterday.

Mrs. Ross said there's a skunk there, a frightened or injured skunk, because skunks, by nature, are not objectionable unless they've been frightened or hurt.

The apartment dweller called police yesterday and Privates Frederick Long and Otto Neilson responded in Scout Car 122.

"It's not for us," she quoted one of them as saying.

Mrs. Ross said she next called the Animal Rescue League, but received no answer to her telephone call. Today, she said, she will ask the Health Department to send out someone with a lethal gas bomb.

The distressed woman said she first saw the woods pussy "peering in the first-floor window" when she and her husband returned from a Masonic picnic on Saturday. It probably wandered down from the woods near Catholic University, she said.

Takes Fire to Firemen

Lieut. Norman Green, 2480 16th st. nw., said he was driving his wife to work when smoke began pouring up from his motor as he entered Calvert st. nw. He wheeled around to 1763 Lanier pl. nw., the station house for Engine Company 21 he had just passed.

Firemen telephoned the alarm to Fire Headquarters at 8:20 a. m.; reported it extinguished by chemicals one minute later. Burned was insulation on wiring over the motor.

Police Get Stolen Safe

Two Prince Georges County policemen, who came upon three burglars driving away from a Berwyn, Md., tavern early yesterday, recovered a stolen safe intact when it rolled out of the trunk of the burglar's getaway car. The burglars, however, escaped when police lost their car in a fast chase.

The looters had taken liquor and cigarettes, as well as the safe, from the Town Hall Tavern, 8135 Baltimore blvd., in Berwyn. Police Pvts. John Tucker and Adam Lindsey said.

The policemen said the 400-pound safe rolled out as the car went over a bump.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Girl Who Was Born in Parents' Middle Age, To Nervous Mother's Lasting Chagrin, Has Emotional Difficulties That Are Worsening

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My sister Lorna, 9 years old, is facing emotional destruction unless we can help her but my parents seem baffled and I feel the same, therefore I beg your counsel

I was 14, and my parents were both 46, when Lorna was born. Mother has a nervous temperament and it was a great shock to her to have a child in middle-age.

Lorna, too, is a nervous little thing and although not an unruly child, she is trying to mother's nerves. She has a sweet disposition and is for the most part eager to please everyone. But if she fails to give instant obedience mother nags her; and then she may run to the neighbors' for the whole afternoon, purposefully ignoring mother's voice, until she is marched home with promise of a good switching.

However, the real problem is that Lorna doesn't get along with children her age. They play with her for a while, then tire of her and hit her, call her names and otherwise mistreat her. Also they make fun of her clothes, when in fact she has more attractive clothes than most of those poking fun.

Playmates' Scorn Breaks Her Heart

INSTEAD of coming home when snubbed by the gang, she smiles at them and stays to play. Then if they won't have her, she strolls off to another part of the house or lawn, but still within range of their jibes.

Father has told her to fight back when they hit her, which would be a sensible reaction, if "uniadylike," but she will not fight back. She merely smiles; then, on arrival home, she breaks down in uncontrollable sobbing and begs us to tell her what is wrong, why "the kids" don't like her.

She gets above-average marks in school; and is there anything that we, as a family, can do to help her overcome her emotional difficulties? Or are they natural to her temperament? Is this something she herself must fight alone? All of us will appreciate your views. E. W.

Girl's Maladjustment Is Fostered by Mother

DEAR E. W.: Lorna's bewildered outcast status in relation to other children perfectly mirrors her soul's experience in relation to her mother, the architect of her personality, whose heart has been frozen against her almost from the time her life was conceived on the theory that her advent was an embarrassing unmitigated nuisance.

Every detail of your letter points up the fact that Lorna has overwhelming reason to feel, intuitively, unwanted and indeed impatiently shunted to a position of sufferance in relation to the key-figure in her young life, namely, her mother.

Lorna's pathetic eagerness (for the most part) to please has its emotional origin in this outcast-conditioning; which also accounts for her hurt, smiling, stock-still reaction to concerted attacks of cruelty from playmates.

May This Discussion Pierce Mother's Heart

THE CHILDREN'S candid savagery, their flashes of irrational unprovoked hostility, are of a piece (in her experience) with her mother's more subjective, more subtle rejection of her,—and feeling heartsick, supplicant and helpless in the face of the mother's performance, naturally she feels the same in relation to her playmates when they turn against her.

Children have a clairvoyant "knowing" about each other, also a primitive predisposition to make life miserable for the weakling in their midst; and Lorna's playmates, having spotted her wistful sick spirit, instinctively feel it "fair game" to show her no mercy, thus completing a vicious circle of injury being done her.

Your intelligent concern to find help for your sister is a God's-blessing in the circumstances, and let's hope our discussion pierces your mother's heart and jolts her into constructive action that pulsate with love of this greatly wronged child. To get her bearings she should read, "The Rights of Infants," by Dr. Margaret Ribble, published by the Columbia University Press,—which tells the part that "good mothering" plays in creating wholesome character.

Color in Your Life

Three Gift-Wrapping Ideas With Dash and Originality

By Dorothy Draper

HAVE you ever received a tiny gift so cleverly wrapped that you couldn't bear to disturb the gay effect? That's the kind of gift it's fun to get! It doesn't matter if it's only a card of red thumb tacks or a box of practical rubber bands, if it's done up with imagination and color it is much more appreciated than the most expensive present wrapped without any thought.

Last summer in a small country town a little old lady was to have a birthday the next day. Her neighbor had completely forgotten it and didn't have time to get either present or wrapping. So she looked around her house and finally discovered an unopened box of paper napkins in her pantry drawer. The pattern was a bunch of ripe-red strawberries with green leaves, surrounded by a green border with white polka dots.

She now had a gift but no wrapping! Then she spied the Stock Market page in the newspaper and decided the gray and white pattern would look perfect as a wrapping, tied up with a fireman-red ribbon bow and bright blue bachelor buttons topping the whole effect. The little old lady was so pleased with her ingeniously wrapped package, it became the talk of the town.

Crisp white shelf paper tied with wide sky-blue moire ribbon, with pink roses from the garden tucked in the blue ribbon, and a lace paper doily frill around the roses.

A box wrapped in a square of black and white checked gingham tied with an immense pouf of bright red yarn (left over from Christmas mittens). A big white card with the message written in bold black brush strokes and pinned to the gingham with a crochet needle.

New Luggage In Pastel Hues

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—Medium-priced leather luggage is back on the market for the first time since the war.

At the same time luggage makers currently are showing retailers the widest variety of bags tailored to suit individual needs that the traveler has ever seen.

Suitcases on display at the National Luggage and Leather Goods Show here stress light weight and color. There are pastel-tinted leather bags—and pastels in simulated leather. There are solid reds and greens and blues in anything from fabric to rawhide.

Brecher Bros. are introducing a set of four bags especially for families with limited storage space at home. Their four-in-one set has two ladies' and two men's bags in canvas ranging from 21 to 29 inches which fit snugly inside one another so the owner has to find storage space for only one large bag. Priced at $1 an inch, the set comes to $100, a company spokesman said.

The traveler can be his own "red cap" with the new S. Dresner & Son rollaway cases. Made with retractable wheels and pull-up handle, the large bag has a support at one end which makes it possible to pile other bags on top to provide a private little luggage cart.

The Right Foods Will Keep You Looking Younger Than You Are

By Ida Jean Kain

IT'S TRUE that everybody wants to live a long time, but nobody wants to grow old—or look it. Something like this went through my mind as I listened to Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp's report to the Health Assembly. This eminent scientist calmly stated that we may eventually live to be 146!

"Heavens," I muttered to myself, "women are not going to like that . . . not if they look it!" Imagine someone saying to us, "My dear, you don't look a day over a hundred."

Perhaps all this seems a bit frivolous, but there is a lot of sense in trying to keep young. Generally speaking, we look our physiological age. That is, we look the age we feel, and if that is younger than our real birthday—halelujah!

Being a dietitian, I'm convinced that nutrition is a very important factor in keeping bodies young. The body is a machine and requires food, not only for fuel but for repair material. It stands to reason that sufficient materials to take care of wear and tear will keep the body in better running order.

The protective foods furnish the essential minerals, vitamins and protein. In terms of food, that includes milk and cheese, fruits and vegetables, lean meat, fish or fowl, eggs and whole grains. Our chief dietary deficiencies are apt to be calcium, iron and protein. Our excesses are apt to be sugar, starch and fat. So the keeping-young foods are milk and cheese, whole grains, green leafy vegetables, and lean meat. To furnish the essentials without too many calories, rich desserts must be limited, fats must be curtailed and hot breads and such must be restricted.

To keep from getting stiff as we get along calls for exercises of the joints. Figure out the full range of motion of each joint, and put the joints through their paces daily—bend the knees, circle arms at shoulders, swing legs easily from hip joints, move wrists, elbows and ankles, and circle at the waist keep limber. It's easy exercise.

The Muffin Pan

When making gelatin salads for a number of guests, use the muffin tins for your molds. Grease first with butter, then add the gelatin salad and place in the refrigerator in one compact tray, taking up little space and resulting in uniform molds.

The contest was held at the hotel pool, and at sundown the 50 members and their guests went inside for cocktails and dinner.

Star Draws $1000 a Week, And Still Goes Wild Over Any Two-Cylinder Engine

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—This department was determined to set up some sort of record by visiting Hollywood without even peeking at a movie star. But, despite such admirable resolution, the very first day we found ourselves interviewing one of Hollywood's most provocative personalities. It was the most comfortable occasion—we on a sofa, the star a good three quarters of the time lying relaxed on the floor at our feet. To add piquancy to the situation, the star, though masquerading under a feminine name, is not only a male but actually the father of an undetermined number of offspring.

Perhaps you've guessed the star's identity—it's Lassie, of course. Lassie, though still keeping up his weekly broadcast for a well known dog food, is relaxing between pictures. He's recently completed "Sun In the Morning," a Technicolor affair with Greer Garson.

Lassie himself is an average size collie with unusual width between the eyes who photographs well because of his multicolor coat, which is cream, auburn, silver, black, smoky colored in beautiful shadings.

Hollywood Veteran

A VETERAN of half a dozen pictures on which MGM has spent, including promotion, around $4,500,000 apiece, Lassie represents an investment estimated at $1,600,000. Quite aside from radio commitments he has a movie contract guaranteeing 15 weeks of work annually, a retaining salary for the other 37. Totalling his earnings roughly he pulls down an average $1000 a week.

He got his first break accidentally as stand-in for a collie named Boy, and though only a year old and comparatively untrained, photographed so much better that Director Freddie Wilcox insisted he take over. The picture was "Lassie Comes Home" and then and there he was forced to adopt his dual personality.

His trainer, Rudd Weatherwax, had acquired Lassie for an unpaid board bill. His first owner had sent him to the Weatherwax Kennel to break him of barking and chasing motorcycles.

Though Lassie is amenable in every other way Weatherwax has never been able to break him of this phobia, and twice the Weatherwax family plus their kennel of some 65 dogs has had to pull stakes, move further out of expanding Los Angeles to streets where motorcycles daren't venture. When they want Lassie to portray fury or tense excitement they buzz an off stage motorcycle engine.

Owns His Own Plane

LASSIE is very much a gentleman of substance. He has his own membership card in the Riverside Humane Society, travels in a drawing room with his owner on all trips and has even bought an airplane. The airplane was purchased to enable Lassie to keep his radio appointments though long distances away on location. Rudd Weatherwax, unwilling to let a stranger be responsible for the collie's safety, has learned to pilot it. On all out of town jaunts, special bottled water is brought along for Lassie. On one picture he came down with a tummy upset which put him out of commission for a day and cost the company $12,000.

Reception Given at Rumanian Legation; Mrs. Carranza Hostess at Farewell Party

By Elizabeth Maguire

Romania's liberation from Fascist dictatorship was celebrated yesterday at a reception held at the Legation between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock. The overthrow of the Nazi government and of Dictator Antonescu took place on August 23, 1944.

Mme. Ralea, wife of the Minister, received her guests at the head of the marble staircase. She was assisted by Grigore Preoteasa, Minister Counselor of the legation. The Minister was not there, as he has gone to Paris to attend the forthcoming U. N. conference.

There was a sprinkling of white uniforms in the drawing room glistening with gold braid of the Soviet navy. The usual refreshments were served with small cakes and sandwiches.

Among the guests were the Ambassador of Burma, U So Nyun, the Ambassador of Pakistan, M. A. H. Ispahani; the Ambassador of Siam, Prince Wan Waithayakon; the Representative of Israel, Eliahu Epstein; the Charge d'Affairs of Iraq, Ali Jawdat; the Charge d'Affaires of Iran, Fatholiah Noury-Esfandiary; the Ambassador of Yugoslavia, Sava N. Kosanovic; the Ambassador of Ecuador, Augusto Dillon; the First Secretary of the Soviet Embassy, Boris M. Krotov, and Hugh McCann of the Irish Legation.

Others included Raymond Muir of the State Department, the Charge d'Affaires of Egypt, the First Secretary of the Egyptian Embassy, Mohamed Hamdy Zaky; the Minister of Liberia, Charles D. B. King; the Counselor of Pakistan, M. O. A. Baig, and the Second Secretary of the Afghanistan Embassy, Gholam Mohammad.

AT THE Mayflower Hotel in the Pan American Room, meanwhile, Mrs. Juan Carranza, wife of the Chief of Naval Operations of the Argentine, bade farewell to friends at a buffet supper party. Admiral Carranza, who also visited Washington this summer, is now in the Argentine. His farewells were said at a reception held several weeks ago.

The hostess received at the entrance to the Pan American Room, gowned in pale lame with gold jewelry. She was assisted by Senora de Rumbo, wife of the Naval Attache, and Senora de Terradas, wife of the Assistant Military Attache.

Two charming guests at the fete were the youthful Senoritas Rumbo and Terradas, named Beatrice and Gladys, respectively. Admiral and Mrs. Louis Denfeld were among the guests, as well as Vice Admiral and Mrs. Arthur W. Radford and Rear Admiral and Mrs. Charles B. Monsen.

Others included the Ambassador of the Argentine, Jeronimo Remorino, the Argentine Ambassador to the Pan American Union, Enrique Corominas, Gen. and Mrs. Carlos von der Becke, Brig. V. Reyes, Rear Admiral and Mrs. O. B. Hardison, Vice Admiral and Mrs. R. B. Carney, Vice Admiral and Mrs. John D. Price, Vice Admiral and Mrs. William M. Fetchler, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Arthur D. Struble, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Charles Welborne, and Rear Admiral and Mrs. T. B. Inglis.

Dessert Ideas

Fill peach halves with brown sugar creamed with butter or margarine and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla for a company dessert that's easy to make.

Crush berries in season, sweeten them to taste, and serve in sherbet cups sandwiched between layers of vanilla ice cream. Top with a garnish of the whole berries and a few fresh mint leaves.

Finely chopped nuts sprinkled on a plain white cake before baking makes a delicious topping; serve the cake cut in squares with a fruit sauce made by thickening syrup left over from canned fruit.

To make a mocha frosting for a fluffy white cake, cream 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine, add a cup of confectioner's 4X sugar and a few tablespoons of strong, clear coffee; beat until very smooth and creamy and spread on cake at once.

Sprinkle plain sugar cookies with a little shredded cocoanut before baking; top each with a cherry half if desired.

Your Baby and Mine

Feeling for Sound and Rhythm Should Rule in Choosing Name

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

If one has an ear for sounds, it is interesting to hear a new baby's name and ponder on its influence on the personality. While this name may be unfitted to the individual when grown it is certain that it represents in most cases the mother's own love and hopes for the child and her possessiveness. For this baby is hers and she feels she has the right and privilege to give it any names she chooses.

Unhappily, many a mother lacks glamour in her own life and endows her baby with a name that has accumulated glamour through its association with stars of screen or radio, with military personalities or because it's the mother's favorite book heroine.

Mrs. J. C. thinks the name Diana could not have a spiritual influence on the girl who wore it, since Diana was a mythical goddess. She deplores, also, the use of a movie star's name since she feels the child will long for beauty and worldly success.

Diana Is Proud Name

Diana is not only the name of a mythical goddess but one of the favorite names of the English aristocracy. While so lovely a name as Diana could make the child neither one thing nor the other it should be wore proudly for its own sake.

There is nothing wrong in being ambitious for wealth and beauty; but the star's name by the time this child would be old enough to notice it, would long ago have fallen into the discard and be replaced by other names for other young mothers to admire and use.

Everyone has her own prejudice about names and mine is not for beautiful names from any source, but only for made-up names. I cringe when I read or hear an odd combination of syllahear an odd combination of syl-imagination. To them it may seem unique and different. To me it is indicative of self-love which cannot accept the tried and traditional but prefers its own puny invention.

Endowing the Child

What is needed to endow a child with a lovely name is chiefly a feeling for sounds and for rhythm. Names do have rhythm and some of them fall haltingly from the tongue, while others flow off smoothly.

There are so many thousands of of names, through the Biblical and down to the present day, that anyone can find enough to harmonize with and be appropriate to the family name, so that no new ones need be manufactured.

Cooking Cues

A bittersweet chocolate frosting is made from four squares (4 ounces) unsweetened chocolate melted with a quarter cup of butter or margarine; then a cup and a quarter of confectioners' sugar is added along with a half cup of light cream or evaporated milk. If you have an electric mixer use it to beat the frosting smooth. It should be beaten at high speed for about 4 minutes.

If you are serving chilled cream of chicken or mushroom soup be sure to garnish each bowl with a bright vegetable. Use very thin slices of radish, thin cucumber strips, chopped green pepper or parsley, coarsely grated carrot.

In buying a pork loin for a large family have some chops cut off for one meal, then roast the rest of the meat for another.

To make cherry olives wash some Royal Anne cherries, leaving their stems on. Fill a hot, sterilized pint fruit jar with the cherries. Add a teaspoon of salt, a teaspoon of sugar, a half-cup of vinegar and enough water to fill the jar. Seal and store in a cool, dark place for several weeks before using.

Give the Child His Own Place to Study

It does not have to be an expensive desk to produce real study in a child but he must have a definite place where he can work alone and undisturbed. In these days of radios the living room is out of the question. He has to wait too long to get at his home work to use the dining room table. The best way is to give him an old table or buy him a most inexpensive new table for his own bedroom. Supply it with a large blotter and the necessary equipment and when he closes his door to work, let him alone until he has finished his work.

About Recipe for Tomato Pickle

Can you give me a recipe for sliced green tomato sweet pickle? Years ago, my mother made this delectable pickle, but left no recipe. In late years I found some at a grocery store, but lately they do not seem to carry it. To my taste, it is the most delicious pickle I ever ate! F. R. S.

GREEN TOMATO PICKLES

1 gallon sliced tomatoes (1/3 inch thick)
6 large onions, sliced
½ cup salt
½ lemon, sliced thin
3 red pepper pods, chopped
3 cups brown sugar
3 cups vinegar
1 tablespoon each of ground black pepper, whole cloves, ground allspice, celery seed, and ground mustard.

Put tomatoes and onions into a crock in layers, sprinkling each layer with salt. Allow to stand overnight; then drain off liquid. Add to the drained vegetables the sliced lemon, red peppers, sugar and vinegar. Put the spices into a loose bag of cheesecloth and add. Bring to boil and simmer five minutes. Pack boiling hot into clean sterile jars and seal immediately with sterile lids. Makes 4½ pints.

What is the difference between dry mustard and prepared mustard? Can one be substituted for the other in recipes? J. S.

Dry mustard is the ground mustard seeds in dry form with nothing added. Prepared mustard is mixed with vinegar, spices, etc., and is moist. Because of the addition of the spices, etc., to the prepared mustard, it cannot be substituted for dry mustard in recipes.

Is this the recipe you want?

CINNAMON APPLE SAUCE GELATIN SALAD

1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
2 cups unsweetened apple sauce
1 teaspoon cinnamon or 3 drops oil of cinnamon
1 teaspoon red liquid coloring, if desired

I had a suede-finished raincoat which got too small for me. I gave it to my sister who lives in Washington. It fits her all right, but it is too long. Could you tell me a place where she could have it turned up the right length. The hem is not sewed, but seems to be glued. Who does that kind of work? L. R.

It seems that turning up a hem by the use of glue is a factory process and is not generally used by firms doing alterations. However, I am told that such a coat can be satisfactorily hemmed by sewing. For some one to do it look under "Cleaners" in the yellow pages of the telephone directory for a firm which does alterations.

Is there anything that can be done to soften wool which has become hard through washing? I would like to give some of my sweaters this treatment, if there is any, before I return to school. H. N.

If you add sodium perborate to the water in which you wash the sweaters it might help to soften them. Use two tablespoons of the perborate to a pint of soapy water. When clean, rinse very thoroughly. Sodium perborate is a bleach when used in larger quantities, so do not allow the sweaters to stand in the wash water. Also, take care to rinse it completely out of the garments.

Spraying the inside of the bag with a product sold for ridding articles of mildew odor will do much to freshen it. Also, placing it in the sun for several days will help to remove the odor.

How do you remove indelible ink from leather? L. K.

It will probably not be possible to completely remove the ink stain from the leather. However, you might lighten it by doing this: Dampen it with water to which a few drops of ammonia have been added and then sprinkle the area with an absorbent such as corn meal or cornstarch. Work it into the moistened area and brush away the absorbent as it becomes stained with ink. Continue to add fresh absorbent until no more ink can be removed. More ink might be removed, at this stage, if you will pour glycerine or liquid shampoo onto it. Rub the area with a soft cloth turning the cloth frequently to remove the suds as they become stained.

Maybe Spooks Start Fires

Distance and the pressure of mundane duties are all that keep local parapsychologists away from the Willey farm at Macomb, Ill., scene of some 200 mysterious fires.

"It's awfully mysterious," said Richard C. Darnell, wistfully.

Darnell, founder of the recently organized Society for Parapsychology here, admitted that many members of his organization would relish investigating the strange outbreaks on the theory they may be the acts of "an unfriendly or mischievous poltergeist."

Poltergeists are ghosts who move things, and according to those who believe in them, are endowed (or afflicted) with emotions like humans. That is, they have likes and dislikes.

Admittedly knowing only what he reads in the papers about the Willey case, Darnell knows no reason why a poltergeist would be unfriendly to the family. But if a poltergeist is the arsonist, he (or she) is not exactly amiable.

Since the second week in August, the farm buildings of Charley Willey have burst into sporadic fire. The house was finally destroyed. Two barns were burned down, and several buildings partially burned.

John Craig, Illinois State fire marshal, who has inspected the charred remains, said he was convinced there was nothing supernatural about the fires.

Arson has been generally suspected, but the motive and means are admittedly obscure. An Air Force technician has been investigating on the theory that sabotage materials ignited by radio waves may be the answer.

The continuing mystery is what whets the interest of parapsychologists, Darnell said yesterday. But unfortunately, he said, members of his organization are scientists and technicians who have their own work to attend to, and delve into matters transcending normal understanding only as an avocation.

Darnell ducked the issue when asked specifically if he believed the Willey fires the work of a poltergeist. But he freely discussed Borley Rectory, most haunted house in the world, in which there were several outbreaks of fires of equally mysterious origin.

"This house, which was built in Essex, England, in 1863," Darnell said, "has been the site of a most remarkable series of incidents. Besides the more familiar phenomena, such as noises, apparitions missles hurled, there were several fires.

"One of the members of our society witnessed some of these phenomena," he added.

Darnell said he thought the "proper" attitude regarding mysteries is "one of open-mindedness." Members of the Society for Parapsychology, which was organized here in July, are interested in all phenomena not explained by natural laws.

Postal Delegates Told Pay Hikes Not Sufficient

Miami, Fla., Aug. 23 (Spl.).—Fifteen hundred delegates and visitors at the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks convention heard Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson assert that recent salary increases in the department were not sufficient to meet the increased cost of living.

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor Robert L. Floyd of Miami and Postmaster Hugh P. Emerson of Miami. First Assistant Postmaster General Vincent C. Burke also addressed the convention. President George cited changed living standards and increased costs as reasons for further efforts for increased compensations.

Nobody went on that stage excepting actors. I don't believe in any Ghosts—
No, of course not—
But—
It was a reflection, Joy. From the dark spotlight. I'm sure the audience never even noticed it—
I was bored to death till that Ghost came on just before intermission—
I don't get the meaning, but—
It's a symbol or something—

MARK TRAIL

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Roadside Signs Recall Happier Days

Many of the signs carry the intriguing note: "Rooms from $2."

I wonder if one can still get a room at these places for $2 — or whether the signs are merely mute reminders of less hectic times?

COMMITTEE CONTINUES TO HEAR HISSES

They've heard from Alger and from Don;
They've questioned all the Hisses.
Not even Alger's missus.

W. M. O'C.

Personally, I take a very dim view of the idea of asking wives to tattle on their husbands. I know that if I were being investigated,

The evidence I'd hate to see
Would come from my dear wife.
If she should ever tell on me
They'd surely give me life.

MISCELLANY

One more suggestion on how to avoid running out of cigarettes—this one from Ruth Sadler of 6810 Fairfax rd., Bethesda, Md. Ruth says all I have to do is put a reserve supply in one of those plastic cigarette boxes. Nobody ever seems to bother them—especially when they're transparent, and the cigarettes are in full view . . . Only one District Liner submits an explanation for those murals in the Wisconsin ave. Hot Shoppe. "They're supposed to represent the 'Washington Merry-Go-Round' I think," says A. E. Jacobs of the Peerless furniture store . . . The 9th Division Association is sponsoring a moonlight cruise on the S.S. Potomac (Friday, 8:30 p. m.) with tickets available in advance at Lincoln 9753 or at the pier on the night of the cruise. You don't have to be a veteran of the 9th Division to join the fun . . . Our item about saving postage stamps for tuberculosis sanatoria in Norway moves Jan van der Vate of Box 266, Vienna, Va., to note that in The Netherlands, the National Anti-Tuberculosis Association (N. C. V.) has been collecting stamps for a similar purpose for years. If anybody would like to help, the address is: H. A. Soetens, care of N. C. V., Riouwstraat 7, The Hague, The Netherlands . . . Faithful District Liner Jim Wilfong, jr., is vacationing at Betheny Beach, Del., and suggests that when I tire of Ohio, I ought to "try this sleepy little town some day." Shucks, Jim, you forget that I've just returned from Columbus, Ohio—the world's BIGGEST sleepy little town.

IT'S OUR FAULT, FELLOWS

The other day a male reader voiced the opinion that there's no such thing as a "lady driver," because "when they drive, they're not ladies."

The lady of the house at 8720 Manchester rd., Silver Spring, Md., fires back with:

"Male drivers make it impossible for women to drive and BE ladies—so there!"

PIED TYPE DEPT.

The New York State Society's tireless Harold B. Barnett has gone off to Florida, but his interest in local affairs continues.

Harold sends me a clipping from one of our afternoon contemporaries which tells about a search for some gunmen in Nassau, Bahamas. But the headline writer refers to them as "Bermuda" gunmen, and our transplanted New Yorker quips:

"I know there's supposed to be a little space between the headline and the story, but in this case there seems to be a distance of about 900 miles between them, which is no doubt a record."

"BREAK" OR "PROP"?

Listen to Bill Gold each noon, Monday through Saturday, over WINX (1340) and WINX-FM (98.3).

Leonard Lyons . . .

New York—Holland is hiding its art treasures again, against a sudden attack . . . Generoso Pope, the Il Progresso publisher, has been negotiating for a New York daily, but won't pay the seven million dollars its owners want . . . Renee Carroll, the hat-checker at Sardi's, made a deal with Burt Shevelove, producer-director of "Small Wonder": She'll check his hat free for four months in return for six opening-night tickets . . . John J. Bennett expects the Brooklyn Supreme Court nomination.

Because of the cut-backs in production at all the movie studios, the film talent-scouts aren't covering summer-stock productions this season. They feel that their discovery of promising new talent would be to no avail, because the studios aren't signing new actors. Sidney Phillips of MGM was asked whether these new conditions would discourage actors from appearing in summer-stock. "An actor will act under any circumstances," he replied. "It has been my experience that if you hold out long enough, an actor will pay you your price."

The story is being told of a man and his pet monkey, in the Canadian wilds. One day the monkey rushed into the camp, placed his hands over his head and weaved from side to side, and then, with his hands, made an outline of an attractive feminine figure. Then the monkey ran off and returned—pursing his lips to indicate kissing, again outlined a feminine figure and waved to the lonely man to follow him. The man eagerly rushed after him, through the woods, into a clearing and there the monkey showed him a coy, smiling monkey.

Harry Dexter White, the former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, named by Elizabeth Bentley and who died Tuesday, told this story of psychological warfare: Six months before D-Day the combined staffs asked him to devise a new, complete monetary system for Belgium. No mention was made of France, Holland, Norway, Denmark or any other possible invasion spot. Just Belgium. And he was warned that this assignment was top secret . . . Dr. White said he mentioned it to no one and did the job.

Then the armies invaded in France and not in Belgium—where Nazis were waiting in larger numbers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Has Ace in Berlin Battle

(While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

The United States has a trumping ace up its sleeve in the fateful battle of Berlin.

That includes both fuel and food.

Already, the spectacular airlift is laying down 4000 tons daily of these supplies. A minimum of 4500 tons is required. This figure will be definitely attained by October 1, under present United States and British plans. By that date, the necessary transport planes, personnel, and ground facilities will be in operation to ensure a delivery of at least 4500 tons of supplies every day regardless of weather conditions.

Sen. Robertson

The program calls for the United States to transport 3300 tons and the British 1200 tons.

Nepotism

Republican Senator Edward V. Robertson is one of the richest men in Congress. But that hasn't kept the British-born Wyoming cattle millionaire from putting his wife and his personal chauffeur on the public payroll.

The records of the Senate Secretary reveal the following:

Mrs. Mabel Laird Robertson has been on the Senate payroll as a "clerk" since her husband took office. Up to September 15, 1943, her pay was $2400 a year. After that, she was raised to $3600.

John W. Bonomo also is on the Senate payroll as a "clerk" in Robertson's office at $1800 a year. Actually, Bonomo is Robertson's personal chauffeur. Bonomo now drives a flashy new Cadillac recently acquired by Robertson.

Mrs. Robertson's clerical activities are negligible—if any. She is very active in Washington society, and her name appears frequently in the local society pages as hostess or guest at swank parties.

Muzzled

Once a "red-hot" New Dealer, Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter now is carefully silent about that past. A friend asked Frankfurter about the whereabouts of the many New Deal proteges he had once ensconced in government jobs.

"Alas, I cannot tell you," smiled the little jurist. "You see, I am afflicted with judicial lockjaw."

Hot Air

President Truman's penchant for talking "right" and then doing nothing about it is being graphically illustrated in a little drama involving a local Washington issue.

During his preconvention political junket, the President did a lot of loud inveighing against the utilities. He blasted them from stem to stern. But he has yet to lift a finger in a bald utility rate grab right under his own nose.

The Washington streetcar company, already with a 10-cent cash fare, is asking a boost to 15 cents. The utility claims it needs this rate to get back to a 7½ per cent profit level. This unusually high return was fixed by an old guard local Public Utility Commission.

Between 1942 and 1945, the car company averaged more than one million dollars a year above its high authorized profits. But the PUC stalled a fare-reduction case two years before acting. On the utilities' latest demand for a boost, the commission has been racing like an express train.

Wry Jest

When it enacted the European Recovery Program, Congress wrote into the law an unwitting wry jest on W. Averell Harriman. The gangling former Secretary of Commerce is Ambassador at Large in Europe in the administration of the act. His official title as specifically designated by Congress is "United States Special Representative."

The initials of that title are USSR—which also stand for the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Farm Income

Despite the tapering off of grain prices, total farmer income this year will approximate 1947's record $30,500,000,000.

Following the commodity-market break last spring, Government experts were fearful of a marked slump in farmer income. The fears were needless. Preliminary statistics show that grower income will be a little less, if any, than last year's record-smashing peak.

That's good news in the national economic picture. It means no falling off in the vital segment of farmer buying. And when the farmer buys freely, industrial activity stays high.

Scooped

There was a personal reason for President Truman's fury at Governor Dewey's declaration for returning to Italy its prewar African colonies.

The Republican standard-bearer "scooped" the White House on this vote-getting pronouncement.

This is how it happened: John Foster Dulles, Dewey's foreign affairs expert, participated in a State Department pow-wow that decided the United States would reverse its previous opposition to returning the colonies to Italy. Dulles advocated it in the secret meeting.

The administration planned to break the news next month after the presidential campaign got under way. But Dewey, obviously informed by Dulles, beat Truman to it. That's why he was so tartly miffed.

Hard to Get

Spotting a choice empty parking space opposite the main Pentagon entrance, one of Defense Secretary James Forrestal's assistants inquired about the chances of reserving it.

"Would that be very tough to do, Sergeant?" he asked the M. P. on duty.
